EARS' NATURAL FILTERING ABILITY UNCOVERED
As researchers conduct increasing numbers of studies on ears at the cellular and molecular level, they are beginning to make some important discoveries. The latest of these significant findings involves the ears' natural ability to turn down certain frequencies in order to protect the listener's hearing. In short, the ears seem to be able to turn down one frequency and leave another intact, much as audiophiles are able to do with equalizers on their home and car stereos. The ears may have developed the filtering system to help us hear sounds more clearly in noisy environments. In any case, researchers hope to use this finding to possibly develop drugs that could some day protect the ears from dangerous noise.
There are many tools available today to help the hearing impaired not miss out on life's sounds. If you'd like to know more about better hearing, the time to act is now. Visit AUDIBEL to ask questions and get answers. Our staff can bring you up to date on the latest research and technology in the hearing aid industry. In addition to our extensive education and advanced equipment, we offer the most important benefit of all-long-term care and a future of unequalled service.
P.S. Everyone is encouraged to evaluate the degree to which he or she is exposed to loud noise at work or at home in an effort to protect his or her hearing.

The Republican Online Site To Be Enhanced

In a continuing effort to keep up with the changing status of the newspaper business, the Sincell Publishing Company, publisher of The Republican, has announced that the weekly web site is in the process of being upgraded, and will soon provide a wider range of news and photographs.

"There is no question that the future of newspapers is unknown at this point. The large daily papers are suffering major losses and threats of bankruptcy. Thankfully, smaller, home-town papers are faring much better," said Mary Sincell McEwen, vice president of Sincell Publishing and webmaster. "But we have to keep up with the trends, too, and have discussed a number of options regarding our web site. We have decided to upgrade it significantly, to add many Continued on Page A-15

THE 2009 BASEBALL SEASON came to an end for the Southern and Northern high school teams this week, but not before the Huskies defeated the Rams in a 7-0 shutout semifinal playoff game on Tuesday. Above, Southern's coach Dan Holler calls pitcher Jeremy Sharpless (#20) and his infield together for a little pep talk as Northern's Ben Myers (#1) waits on first with his assistant coach Jamie Workman. Just minutes later, Trey Baasom smacked a three-run homer for the Huskies, bringing the score to 5-0 to secure the win. Northern was knocked out of the Maryland Class 1A West Regional playoffs after falling 6-1 to fourth-seeded Catoclin in last night's quarterfinal game. Applications For Emergency Food, Shelter Funds Are Due On May 22

Garrett County has been chosen to receive $9,183 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the county. These funds have been made available through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA). The deadline for local agencies to apply for this funding is Friday, May 22.

The selection was made by a national board that is chaired by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security's Federal Management Agency and consists of representatives from American Red Cross; Catholic Charities, USA; National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA; the Salvation Army; United Jewish Communities; and United Way of America.

The local board was charged with distributing funds appropriated by Congress to help "expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the country."

A local board made up of United Way, Salvation Army, a homeless representative, county government, Ministerial Association, Department of Social Services, and Catholic Charities will determine how the funds awarded to Garrett County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs in the area. The local board is responsible for recommending agencies to receive these funds made available through the ARRA.

Under the terms of the grant from the national board, local agencies chosen Continued on Page A-3

Community Action's Weatherization Prog. To Receive Increased Funding

Garrett County Community Action Committee officials presented information to the county commissioners on Tuesday morning about home weatherization funding. A public hearing was also held on the agency's Community Development Block Grant applications and projects.

Community Action president Duane Yoder told the commissioners that his agency was slated to receive a "significant" increase in funds to weatherize the homes of Garrett County residents. In addition to the annual funding allocation of $205,000 from the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, an estimated $926,000 is expected from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act over the next three years.

"The combined funding will result in the weatherization of 120 homes," Yoder said.

Additional funding may also be available to help even more residents. The director noted that the state traditionally has a pool of unspent money left over after weatherization program allocations have been distributed. Community Action will apply for this funding, and, as result, as many as 300 local homes may be end up being weatherized.

Yoder said he has a list of more than 300 residents Continued on Page A-14

GC Commissioners Seek To Clarify Concerns About Taxes, New Budget

The Garrett County commissioners announced yesterday that they wanted to clarify some misunderstandings about the constant yield rate, property taxes, and the budget process. The officials noted the following points:

1. There has been puzzlement, confusion, and misstatements over the constant yield. The commission board, county administrator, and the Department of Financial Services have attempted to clarify the legal requirement to conduct a public hearing if the board is not going to set a tax rate for the next tax/fiscal year that will be equal to a rate that generates the same real property tax revenue as the current year.

A hearing is required if there is a possibility that the proposed rate could potentially increase any amount greater than that of the constant yield rate. Local governments have oftentimes funded increased expenses with the actual increase in assessments and not adjusting the tax rate. The Board of Garrett County Commissioners believes that wording, size, and actual placement of the legal constant yield advertisement is what has proven to be a successful move by the state to redirect public opinion related to the increase in assessments to the local jurisdiction that must establish a tax rate. 2. The fiscal year 2010 budget at this time is $71 million. For comparison, the fiscal year 2009 budget was amended to $99 million, based primarily on adjustments to the capital projects fund. A major component of the difference in the amended FY 2009 and the approved FY 2009 budgets is represented in the transfer from the county's designated fund balance. This line item represents unexpended capital costs from FY 2008 that were designated, carried over, and amended in Fiscal Year 2009.

In addition, the commissioners approved paying off the Garrett County Health Center and decided to fund another group of hangars at the Garrett County Airport, versus entering into additional debt service obligations.

3. The budget includes a 1 cent reduction on the real property tax rate and .5 cent increase in the fire tax. The county real property tax rate has been at $1 since FY 2006 when it was reduced by 3.6 cents.

4. Projected shortfall in Continued on Page A-4

NEXT GEN EARNs TEAMWORK AWARD - The Southern Middle School FIRST LEGO League team NeXT OEN spent an afternoon at the COSI Hands On Science Museum in Columbus, Ohio, while the team was there for the Inaugural FLL US Open in Dayton, Ohio. The center has three floors of hands-on science learning labs. From left to right are Rebecca Lee, Rachael Huxford, Levi Lantz, Andrew Hauser, Zach Frick, Devon Jobe, and Daniel Adams. After NeXT GEN registered and set up their pit area, the teams were bused to the Air Force Museum in Dayton. The students participated in a scavenger hunt as they toured the three buildings of aviation history. They saw the SR-71 Blackbird, which is the fastest air-breathing, manned jet plane in the world. It holds the record of flying 2,193.167 mph. Friday evening the teams were treated to a pasta dinner and an Engineering Extravaganza at the Wright State University Student Union. Aaron Lantz of the local G-FORCE FTC team went along to Dayton with his family and demonstrated the team's "Philbot." NeXT GEN was awarded the second place Teamwork Award. The students were also recognized for "excellent project work and excellent display of gracious professionalism." See story on Page A-5.

ONE OF THE MOST POPULAR GAMES AT THE SHS AFTER-PROM was this bungee challenge, in which students were bound with a bungee cord harness and challenged to pull against it for as far as they could, and placing a marker at the farthest point. Then the bungee would jerk them back onto the inflated tube. Ashley Gordon is pictured as she makes her mark, just before she is yanked back. In the photo below, classmates croon together with karaoke. Shown from left are Holly Logsdon, Dakota Workman, Jessica Simson, and Claire Wilkinson.

"REMIX: NOT YOUR MAMA'S AFTER-PROM" was the theme of Southern's all-night party, which featured a wide range of games and activities for all. A Real Pandemic...

Pandemic is a word that has been used a lot in the news lately in reference to the H1N1 virus that is popping up in many countries and dominating the news media, as noted in this column a few weeks ago. That editorial suggested that the media was going way overboard in its reporting of the virus, which in the great majority of cases has been mild and easily treated. To date there have been only two deaths from the virus in the United States, one being a small child and the other a young adult who had a number of other complicating health issues.

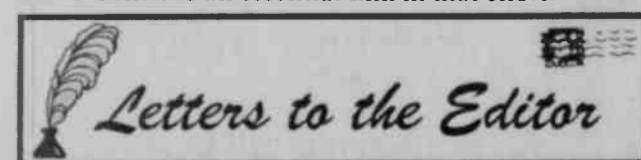

In the approximately 50 days since the virus was first reported in Mexico, there was a pandemic of another sort in the United States that claimed not two, but 68 American lives. This pandemic had nothing to do with any virus, as these people were the victims of a dozen mass killings, all by men and all but a couple of them having been gunned down. Nine of the fatalities were in Maryland. In all, seven of the dead were police officers and 20 of them were civilians.

Now that, major media, is a pandemic; a scourge that is permeating the entire country resulting in massive loss of life. While we get repeated warnings about how to protect ourselves from the "dreaded" flu, and receive news of health departments and hospitals all over the country conducting drills to prepare for the worst, what really is being done to address the rampant domestic violence that is taking so many lives of our citizens? Sixty-eight deaths in just 50 days, and those were just from cases of multiple killings. There were probably scores, perhaps hundreds, of other fatal shootings in that same time frame involving just one or two people.

More must be done to get guns out of the hands of irresponsible persons. Now, before all of our gun-toting readers get their shorts in a knot, this column today is not intended to be a blanket promotion for gun control. Guns in the hands of law-abiding, responsible citizens are generally not the problem. It is when unstable, irresponsible people, often with criminal records, so easily get their hands on guns that the danger to innocent would-be victims spikes. There has to be more that can be done legislatively to require stricter background checks of those who purchase guns and much stiffer penalties for gun violations.

Something else that is crucial in the battle against this particular pandemic is that funding for programs designed to prevent domestic violence, as well as for the continued maintenance of shelters for the victims of violence, must be at least maintained, and preferably increased. Prevention is indeed always the best medicine, and victims of abuse must always have a safe haven available to them.

So with that said, it is sincerely hoped that, despite the current economic situation, the Garrett County commissioners will include adequate funding in their FY '10 budget for the operation of our own domestic abuse shelter, the Dove Center. One of their primary duties as commissioners is to maintain the health and safety of Garrett County residents, and there is no doubt whatsoever that the Dove Center is an essential link in that effort.

I want to take this opportunity to thank Jessica's Dance Creations for the wonderful recital that I attended on May 8 and 9 at Southern High School. What a wonderful display of talent! Two of my granddaughters, Kaitlyn and Courtney, attend Jessica's, and, although only one decided to be in the recital, they have both learned so much in such a short period of time.

I want to thank Jessica, Shasta, and all the others who helped present this wonderful recital. Also, I want to commend Jessica for the trophies she gave to each of the children Saturday night. It was really nice seeing all those smiling faces when they received awards for all they had accomplished. Keep up the good work!

A very proud Me-Maw!

To the Editor:

Once again Mr. Maisano, the wind energy industry spokesman, has derided attempts by Garrett County citizens who are simply asking for reasonable regulations to control wind energy developers, who will do whatever they can to maximize profits no matter who it hurts. Those developers don't care about the safety of adjacent property owners, the environment, or our mountains. All they want is as much return on investment as they can get. They think the wind energy process in Garrett County is all about making money.

This is why I get so upset with Mr. Maisano, the wind developers, and the county commissioners who consues, especially safety issues. I am sure that none of the wind plants that Mr. Maisano refers to in other states include huge, 400-foot-plus turbines placed less than 400 feet from residential areas, as Synergics Wind Energy plans to do on Backbone Mountain. Mr. Maisano's statement that this is an "over-blown, perceived negative impact" is outrageous and irresponsible.

Most other jurisdictions have regulations in place to balance the interests of the wind developers with those of the public. Not so in Garrett County. So pardon me for not thanking our commissioners when they kowtow to the wind developers and ignore their obligations to protect the public.

When Mr. Maisano and his cohorts begin to address issues of safety and adequate setbacks, we can begin to seriously debate their other points. Until then, it is they, not the concerned citizens of Garrett County, who are spreading misinformation.

To the Editor:

Memorial Day is fast approaching, and, while some recognize this holiday as the official start of the summer season by putting out the lawn furniture, scrubbing decks and porches, and firing up the grill, I would like to take everyone to take a few minutes to observe its true meaning - remembering and honoring those who have died in our nation's service.

Boy Scouts
Barracks
Cemetery, a practice that continues to this day. Beginning in 1998, on the Saturday before the observed day for Memorial Day, the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts place a candle at each of approximately 15,300 grave sites of soldiers buried at Fredericksburg and Spotsylvania National Military Park.

To help re-educate and remind Americans of the true meaning of Memorial Day, the "National Moment of Remembrance" resolution was passed in Dec. 2000, which asks that at 3 p.m. local time for all Americans "to voluntarily and informally observe in their own way a moment of remembrance and respect, pausing from whatever they are doing for a moment of silence or listening to 'Taps.'"

So as we gather with our families to mark this special weekend, please take a moment to appreciate and honor those who have given the way for the freedoms we enjoy. Fly the American flag, pause for a moment of silence, pray as a family, light a candle of remembrance. Pass along the true meaning of this holiday to your children. This year my children will be calling their grandfathers to thank them for their service to our country (Navy and Army). And, we have something special planned for their dad (Coast Guard).

We'll also be making a "Gift from the Heart" to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation in honor of their grandfather and to memorialize his contribution to our country. This is our way to honor him and also show support for quality health care available through our local hospital. Funds from the foundation are used toward patient care equipment needs. Donors are recognized in the Memorial Day issue of the Forum, a GCMH publication.

Please consider making a "Gift from the Heart" donation to recognize Memorial Day and honor someone important in your life. Contributions can be sent to the GCMH Foundation, 251 N. Fourth St., Oakland, MD 21550.

Thank you,

To the Editor:

I essentially agree with your assessment of our local economic situation; proper forecasting and foresight proved important. Things could have been a lot worse.

A digression - I suppose that I spent so many years with my head buried in resource development and working to bring millions of dollars to this county, as well as earn two additional graduate degrees, that I failed to recognize that not everyone had evolved into critical thinkers; and out of character of me to say, beyond knuckle-dragging. Sadly, too, I am no stranger to attacks that can become low-down and dirty; especially those entangled in partisan politics. But, I have a perfectly functioning spine.

The options available to manage the budget shortfall exceed the two offered: either we self-insure or we pass out pink slips. No, sorry, this policy direction is another step in a succession of poor precedents; the anti-regulatory mindset going awry.

And, I wonder about full disclosure. I have heard comments run the gamut, from nothing will change to money is saved, employees could get a personal rebate check.

A self-insured platform removes the entire employee base from the protection of the Maryland Insurance Commission and in their entirety, each of the hard-won safeguards (some 40 or so) established by consumer rights advocates in the General Assembly.

Employees may not be covered by the health care rescissions bill limiting health insurance companies' ability to cancel policies retroactively that Governor O'Malley is expected to sign later this month.

The employees in this plan will no longer have a direct relationship with the insurance company. To keep claims flowing through the pipeline and to settle disputes, employees will now rely on:

1. the expertise of employer-based human resources personnel; or,
2. should the work be out-sourced, a third-party administrator.

The efficiencies and cost-savings determinant will be this newly added middle-ground. And, when costs surge, tinkering will be that much more convenient.

However, to be fair, the county does have experience in taking different roads in the employee benefits arena; county employees were moved from the Maryland State Retirement and Pension System to a private-sector pension arrangement several years ago. I haven't heard any first-hand concerns, so maybe these private-sector pension investments remained competitive against the 7% dip employees would have experienced had they remained in the state system.

But I appear to be the only one concerned, and so, what do I know?

To the Editor:

My much belated heartfelt thanks go out to Dan Stiles, who saved me a lot of money, time, and frustration when he returned my cell phone to Wal-Mart after I had lost it.

The funny part about the story is that Mr. Stiles drove from Oakland to Kitzmiller on a very windy night with my phone on the roof of his car, and only discovered it once he was down the mountain. The impressive part is that Mr. Stiles chose to turn around immediately at 8:30 p.m. and return the phone.

Local Officials Make Comments On County State Of The Economy

Editor's note: Local officials representing both government and private enterprise were asked to give their opinions about the current state of the economy in Garrett County. Three responses appeared in last week's issue, and three more are as follows. Contacts and compilation of the material were by Glenn Tolbert.

Wendell Teets
Superintendent
Garrett County Public Schools

A major goal of Garrett County public schools is "to provide learning experiences which promote the acquisition of knowledge, thinking, and problem-solving abilities of students, and to prepare them to continue their education and to pursue a career." This goal is always applicable, regardless of current economic conditions.

With our two comprehensive high schools, students may elect a career pathway to prepare them to enter college, graduate with a technical program and enter the work force, or graduate with a dual college entry program with career technical training. Additional training will be available in the future through Garrett College with the County Career Technical Center for postsecondary and adult training. Students may also enroll in college classes during their senior year through various dual enrollment programs.

Garrett County schools and Garrett College work closely with the Garrett County Economic Development office, the Chamber of Commerce, the Economic Development Corporation, and the business community to provide training and support for the current and future workforce needs of the area. As the economy slows down, the need for workforce training and retraining becomes even more critical. However, it is vital that the type of training is correlated with current and future skill sets required from the business community. This is not an easy process to predict or determine.

A high-quality public school education system is vital to the economic development of Garrett County. Prospective employers and potential businesses look for a school system that demonstrates quality in instruction, facilities, and financial support as selection criteria for location. Our school system is one of a few in Maryland to annually meet AYP (adequate yearly progress) and have no schools in improvement status. Our high schools rank by U.S. News and World Report among the outstanding high schools in America. With the support of our county commissioners, our schools are maintained very well, with numerous renovations and construction projects completed over the past 12 years.

The Garrett County school system, being most likely the largest county employer, is also a major contributor to the support of our local economy. As the economy slows down, it is critical for the school system to maintain programs and support for instruction, students, and staff. If we are able to fund our current budget, we should continue to provide a quality education to our students. The school system will receive some stimulus funds which will help in specific areas such as special education and Title I. The problem is that the money is very restrictive and will not provide flexibility for our general budget. We all hope next year will be better for the national, state, and local economy.

T. Brooke Schneider
Director, Behavioral Health
Garrett County Health Department

Can the recession lead to depression? This question is not economic, but sociologic. The question really becomes "Do these tough economic times have a significant effect on our mental well-being?" The data would suggest that there is a close correlation between our current economic recession and the status of our mental well-being. Some mental health professionals call it "collateral damage stemming from the present economic situation." Professionals are reporting that more than 75% of their patients want to discuss their dismal circumstances and bad feelings about the economy.

About one in five people in this country live with mental illness. It is predicted that by 2010 we will see a staggering increase in mental-health issues. In talking with families and friends and in reading the newspapers, we become sadly aware of the full impact of lost jobs, loss of wages, loss of insurance, the inability to support basic necessities of a household, divorce because of lack of finances, food bank shortages, people living in tent cities, and overloads in medical, psychological, and social services.

The main culprit or driving force in this situation seems to be stress. The top stressors for Americans, according to the American Psychological Association, are: money (81%), the economy (80%), work (67%), and health problems affecting the family (67%). The stress of this economy is taking its toll on people's health. Currently more people are reporting stress-related physical and emotional symptoms than in years past. Nearly half of those interviewed reported an increase in stress-related symptoms, including fatigue, irritability, anger, and inability to fall or stay asleep.

Unfortunately, these stressors not only affect the adults, but the children in the home as well. Results from a study recently conducted have shown that a reduction in disposable family income constitutes a risk for child mental health through increased economic pressure and changes in parental mental health, marital interaction, and parenting quality. It appears that children internalize and externalize symptoms during a recession. Essentially

NeXT GEN Team Places Second For Teamwork Award

The Southern Middle School NeXT GEN FIRST LEGO League (FLL) team was presented with a second place trophy in teamwork at the Inaugural FLL US Open recently in Dayton, Ohio. Many "Gracious Professionalism" awards and presentations in research, technology, and teamwork were awarded to the top teams in the country. NeXT GEN competed against 59 of the top rated teams in the United States after securing their own spot by winning the Champion's Award in Pittsburgh last December.

Team members Levi Lantz, Daniel Adams, Zach Frick, Andrew Hauser, Devon Jobe, Rebecca Lee, and Rachael Huxford, along with coaches Arlene and Willie Lantz, Phil Malone, and Ronni DiGioia, have been practicing for this day since September. The team designed and programmed a LEGO robot to complete 23 different missions related to the Climate Connection theme in the given two minutes, 30 seconds. They also researched an energy harvesting "green" greenhouse that included receiving the only Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) grant awarded in Maryland.

The team will continue with their research into this energy harvesting greenhouse throughout the year even though competition is over. Their $7,000 grant will provide monitoring equipment for a greenhouse they hope will become a standard for growers everywhere. They will monitor and report the energy usage and cost to operate this greenhouse in a cold climate area like Garrett County.

The team extends thanks to its major community sponsors - Garrett County Board of Education, Beitzel/Pillar Innovations, Blackbear Enterprises, Craig & Associates, and the Women's Civic Club of Oakland. The team coaches extend thanks to the students and parents of the team.

"They truly earned this teamwork award," said

Lantz. "These students learned to use each other's strengths to build the team, they learned to accept their differences, and they encouraged each other to do their best."

Judges and volunteers handed out Gracious Professionalism pins if they caught a student doing thoughtful acts for others. Every NeXT GEN team member received two pins. They each decided to give the second one away to others that were being kind and generous, noted Lantz.

NeXT GEN team members will be helping with the Garrett County Board of Education summer technology camps.

Real Estate Facts by...

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

There are some desperate sellers out there, but perhaps none so desperate as banks. That's right - banks that own foreclosed properties are anxious to get them off their hands. After all, their business is lending, not property management.

If you are pondering the purchase of such a "REO," or Real Estate Owned property, how do you find one, and then determine if it's the right buy for you? Banks work almost exclusively with real estate professionals, so your best bet is to begin your search at your trusted local agent's office.

Chances are the broker will have a list of REOs to suit your needs and budget. While banks don't usually price these properties much above what they're willing to finally accept, lower offers on these listings stand an excellent chance for consideration.

Look for houses that have been listed for more than 90 days, and ask your real estate agent to help you prepare your offer. You need to be aware of potential hidden costs associated with foreclosed properties.

Owners who vacate a foreclosed home may have left plenty behind in need of repair. Be sure to perform a thorough inspection - with electrical and gas systems operating - and ask your real estate representative to factor repair costs into your offer. If you're smart, it's a real buyer's market, but only if you buy!

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

MURDER IN THE CAST is the title of a mystery dinner theater production to be presented May 14 and 15 in Kingwood as a fundraiser for the Arts Council of Preston County and J. and Claudia Atkinson, owners of Mary's Restaurant, which was destroyed by fire earlier this year. Cast members of the original play are pictured above. In the front row, from left, are JoAnn Peterson (also writer/director), left, and Lydia Darrow. In the back, from left, are: Tom Peterson, Rick Chaney, Susan Hardesty, Cassie Hackbart, and Zane Rerek. See story for details.

Mystery Dinner Theatre Cast Is Announced

The cast for a mystery dinner theatre production that will raise funds for owners of a Kingwood, W.Va., restaurant that was destroyed by fire and for the Preston County Arts Council has been announced by writer/director JoAnn Peterson.

Titled Murder in the Cast, the play is about the intertwined lives of the cast of a national tour who have just arrived in town to perform the Broadway show, Oliver! As with most acting groups, there are personality conflicts, temper tantrums, and ego problems.

Rick Chaney will play dumb jock Rutch Manson, a stretch for the Shakespearean trained actor. Prior to moving to West Virginia 15 years ago, he spent seven years performing with the Florida Shakespeare Festival, the Ring Theater of Miami, the Seattle Civic Light Opera, and the Edge of the World Repertory Company of Seattle. He was also a member of the band, From the Hip.

The audience will also meet an Artful Dodger with a fetish for fire played by Zane Rerek, a sly director (Tom Peterson), a star everyone wants to get rid of (JoAnn Peterson), Butch's girlfriend whose voice could burst your eardrums (Cassie Hackbart), an overbearing stage mother (Susan Hardesty), and her very talented, but shy daughter (Lydia Darrow).

Claudia Atkinson's Catering will provide food for both shows, to be held at the Community Building along Brown Avenue in Kingwood on May 14 and 15.

The Thursday, May 14, show will include desserts and sweets, and will begin at 7 p.m. On Friday, May 15, the evening will begin at 6 p.m., and will include a full-course dinner and the show.

Tickets are $15 for the Thursday dessert and show and $30 for the Friday dinner and show. They may be purchased at all Clear Mountain Bank branches, Valley Pharmacy in Reedsville, and the Foodland and Clay Arts by Gail/Arts Council of Preston County Gallery (S. Price Street) in Kingwood. Persons may also make reservations by telephone at 304-329-6336 or via e-mail at nightengale103@atlanticbb.net.

Keepsakes To Be Debuted At Second Rowlesburg Event

The second annual River City Festival will be held in Rowlesburg May 22-24, and among the events will be the debut of a theatrical presentation titled Keepsakes: A Rowlesburg Diary.

Keepsakes is an original play directed by Lynn Broderick, drama teacher at Preston High School and artistic director of the TOTL (theatre on the Lake) Theatre Company. The cast will be members of her advanced drama class at Preston.

The play is a collaboration between the director, the cast, and Rowlesburg citizens. Original music will be provided by the Aurora Celtic Band, featuring musicians Michael Broderick, Alice Fleischman, and Aaron Martin.

Keepsakes will be presented Friday, May 22, at 8 p.m. in the newly opened Janet and Imre Szilagyi Center for the Visual and Performing Arts. Ticket costs are $7 for adults and $5 for students. They may be purchased at the door or in advance at all Clear Mountain banks.

Keepsakes is "biographical fiction," according to Broderick, based on universal themes and designed to be both entertaining and instructive. Broderick and her cast and crew are working on all aspects of production, including costumes, stage design, and lighting.

According to Anna R. Nassif, River City events chairperson, the creative process for Keepsakes is ongoing and involves interviews on the part of the cast in search of original material pertaining to their characters.

"The director and the cast made prior visits to Rowlesburg sites such as Riverview Cemetery, where many of the former town citizens are buried along with other sites in Rowlesburg," Nassif said. "Students and their instructor visited the historic IOOF building which houses the Rowlesburg History Museum. Lucille Grimm, curator for the museum, shared documents and stories with the students on the history of the town and its citizens."

They also visited the Nassif Building, more recently known as Joe's Place, the only standing antebellum building in the area. One of the cast members, a Russian exchange student, interviewed building owner George Nassif in Russian in a conversation on the contributions of several town citizens of the late 19th century.

The students asked questions and, according to Nassif, were especially interested in hearing about one of Rowlesburg's leading citizens, W.W. Shock, inventor and telegrapher, who had his office in that same building and who was in touch with President Lincoln during the Civil War.

"The students found that there is a rich heritage that may be found in Rowlesburg, where important and significant things happened that can never be forgotten," she said.

For further information and tickets for other River

City Festival events, persons may contact Shirley Hartley, RRC Inc. chairperson, at 304-329-1240; Kathleen Orescanin at 304-454-9232; George Nassif at 304-454-9786 or Anna Nassif at 608-354-9355, or by e-mail, annarnas@aol.com.

Nassif, Kotmair Recital Slated In Rowlesburg

"At the River," a musical afternoon with opera stars Cristina Nassif, soprano, and Jamie Kotmair, baritone, is among the events of the second annual River City Festival in Rowlesburg, W.Va., slated for the weekend of May 22-24.

The pair will present a recital of solos and duets, including arias from famous operas, art songs, folk songs, and Broadway tunes on Saturday, May 23, at 3 p.m. in the Szilagyi Center.

"These talented artists come from a background of years of serious study with quality voice teachers of the opera and forms of vocal music from Italy, France, Germany, Russia, England, and America," said a program spokesperson. "Their voices are characterized by power, flexibility, clarity, and rigorous training, along with language skill."

They are scheduled to present music by Verdi, Bizet, Lehar, Gershwin, Copland, and others.

Miss Nassif will perform an aria dedicated to Imre Szilagyi, from the operetta Giudina by Hungarian composer Franz Lehar.

Her most recent performances include the fiery and tempestuous role of Carmen in the opera by the same name by Bizet in London at the Royal Albert Hall in February and March; Strauss's "Four Last Songs" with the McLean Symphony in April; and Countess Almaviva in Mozart's Marriage of Figaro, with Opera Delaware this month. She will be a featured soloist in the Ninth Symphony by Beethoven in September.

Jamie Kotmair has performed frequently in both Baltimore and Boston as a recitalist and as a concert and oratorio soloist. In the May 23 program, he will present a range of work, including an aria for baritone from Verdi's La Traviata, and songs from Copland's arrangements from old American folk songs. Kotmair has performed Handel's Messiah, Vaughn Williams' "Five Mystical Songs," and the requiems of Duruflé and Faure. He has appeared as Papageno in Mozart's The Magic Flute, and in the American premiere of Conradi's Ariadne with the Boston Early Music Festival. He premiered roles in works by Stan Hoffman (Seijo) and Daniel Shore (Works of Mercy).

Kotmair is a soloist with the choir of the First Presbyterian Church of Philadelphia and is a graduate of Boston's New England Conservatory, from which he earned both bachelor's and master's degrees in vocal performance.

Dr. Thomas John Nassif, accompanist and pianist for this concert, studied the piano under area piano teachers Naomi Hooton and Ruby Ward. As a medical student at West Virginia University, he studied with WVU's well-known piano teacher, Oliver Manning, and with Miriam Gainer, pianist. For many years Dr. Nassif accompanied his wife, Cristina Herrera Nassif, an acclaimed mezzo soprano.

Dr. and Mrs. Nassif are the parents and parents-in-law of newlyweds Cristina and Jamie Kotmair.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased at all 11 Clear Mountain banks and at the door for $10 each.

For more information about River City Festival, persons may contact RRC Inc. chairperson Shirley Hartley at 304-329-1240 or Anna R. Nassif, River City events chairperson, at 608-354-9355.

Donations are welcome and can be mailed to Rowlesburg Revitalization Committee Inc., P.O. Box 135, Rowlesburg, WV 26425.

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club's 9th annual Secret Country Gardens Tour will take place on Saturday, June 27, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. The tour route will feature four gardens in Garrett County that are historic in nature, with the properties built in eras ranging from the late 1700s to the late 1800s.

In addition to the tours of the four sites, the day's events will include conservation information, raffles, refreshments, and a perennial plant sale.

The gardens on the tour this year are Stauver Oaks, owned by Kathleen Gibbs and Chip Lee; Crook Crest Gardens, Kathy and Tom Johnson; Farm House Garden, Becky and Bill Aiken; and the James Drane Heirloom Garden at the Drane House, Sherry Georg, docent.

Kevin Dodge, a professor at Garrett College, will be the special guest at the Mountain Laurel Garden Club's next meeting, set for Tuesday, May 19, at 10:30 a.m. at the Discovery Center, Deep Creek Lake State Park.

Following a short business session, garden club members and guests will hear from Dodge and see pictures of his favorite Garrett County spring birds. Following lunch, Dodge will offer a tour of the surrounding state park area in search of birds. Members and guests are advised to wear walking shoes.

Dodge received a bachelor of science degree in biology from Southwest Missouri State University in 1981. He earned a master's degree in biology from Michigan Technological University in 1983. Dodge has worked at Garrett College since 1987, where he is professor of wildlife and biology and director of the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program. His courses emphasize field experience, and many classes include field trips to other parts of the Mid-Atlantic/Central Appalachian region.

Using pictures and sound, Dodge will talk about the springtime birds of Garrett County, including both well-known birds and less familiar species.

Active in natural resources issues in Garrett County and the surrounding area, Dodge is president of the Allegheny Highlands Conservancy, vice president of the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association, and a member of the Savage River State Forest Citizens' Advisory Board. What is Pilates?

Pilates is an exercise system developed by Joseph Pilates to strengthen muscles, increase flexibility and improve overall health. The Exercises are performed on a mat and on specially designed spring-loaded equipment. The Pilates system includes exercises for every part of the body and applications for every kind of activity. Athletes practice pilates to enhance their sports skills, fitness enthusiasts to help them do the things they love to do better and the injured to rehabilitate chronic back pain, muscle degeneration, muscle strain or joint pain. Created in the early part of the 20th century, Pilates was so far ahead of it's time that it did not begin to achieve popular recognition until the first few years of the 21st century. Over 10 million people are now students of Pilates in the United States and the numbers are growing every year

Pilates focuses on engaging the mind with the body to create exercises that involve the whole body. Every exercise is performed with attention to breath, proper form and efficient movement patterns. Under the direction and coaching of a properly trained and certified teacher, the exercises are safe, low impact and appropriate for anyone from 10 to 100. Pilates focuses on learning to move better so the benefits are felt in everyday life. Pilates strengthens the core, improves flexibility and balance, increases coordination and decreases stress.

Whether you decide to work one-on-one in a rehabilitative or sports conditioning setting or prefer to work in a small group fitness class, our goal at the Balanced Body Studio and Wellness Center remains the same - optimal strength, flexibility and endurance, without risk of injury or building bulk muscle. With our focus on stability of the core, including pelvic and shoulder stabilization, neutral alignment and focused breathing patterns, we will help you restore the natural curves of your spine, relieve tension and build your self confidence... the end result being a balanced and aligned body of improved appearance that feels energized and enjoys the Freedom of Movement.

Jennifer Christopfel, Nationally PMA Certified Pilates Teacher and Certified Fitness Therapist - and her staff - can help you reach your optimum in health, fitness, and well being at our exclusive, fully equipped, Pilates equipment studio and fitness facility

NHS Baseball Team Knocks Southern Out Of Playoffs; Falls In Quarterfinals

The varsity baseball team of Northern High School ended its regular season last Thursday in an 8-0 domination of visiting Bishop Walsh. The first-seeded Huskies blanked visiting GC rival Southern, 7-0, on Tuesday to advance to the semifinal round of the Maryland Class 1A West Regional playoffs.

Northern was knocked out of the running after suffering a 6-1 loss to fourth-ranked Catocin last night in the quarterfinal round held in Accident. The Huskies finished the season with a 15-2 record.

Against Bishop Walsh last Thursday, the Huskies blew the game wide open with a four-run first inning, started by two walks and a single, and a three-run second. Northern's final run came at the bottom of the sixth.

Northern's pitchers Trey Beasom and Brandon Beachy combined for a three-hit shutout and 15 strikeouts. Beasom pitched four innings, allowed two hits and fanned nine, while Beachy threw three innings, allowing just one hit and striking out six.

Beasom led with a double, two singles, and two RBI. Teddy Linton recorded a double, a single, and two RBI; Thomas Holtschneider had a two-run single; and Andrew Sisler provided a double for the Huskies.

Kevin Myers provided two singles to lead Bishop Walsh. Starter Aaron O'Rourke threw five innings, allowing two hits, one run, and striking out five.

THE TURNING POINT of the Northern and Southern high school semifinal baseball playoff game on Tuesday came when senior Trey Beasom, the Huskies' star pitcher, belted a three-run homer at the bottom of the fifth, advancing Northern to the quarterfinals. Beasom, pictured above and to the right, struck out 11 batters in the shutout of Southern, and was undefeated on the mound for the 2009 season. Ironically, 12 years ago, Northern's coach Phil Carr had to leave a similar game between the Garrett County rivals to be with his wife, who was giving birth to their son. Tuesday marked Brooks Carr's 12th birthday, and Beasom proudly dedicated his homer to Brooks. See story for more details. Photos by John McEwen.

During the semifinal round against Southern on Tuesday, Beasom secured the win for Northern by giving the Huskies a 5-0 lead on a three-run homer with two outs at the bottom of the fifth. The first run came in the first inning from Linton when he scored on an error. He also recorded a double in the first.

The Huskies tacked on two more runs at the bottom of the sixth with the aid of a Holtschneider home run.

Southern's starter Jeremy Sharpless registered 10 strikeouts through six innings. He allowed five hits, and four runs with three unearned runs being scored on three of the Rams' errors. Nathan King relieved in the sixth inning, striking out one batter. He had Southern's only extra-base hit with a double.

In last night's quarterfinal loss, the first two innings were scoreless as Northern's starter Beachy and Catocin's Justin Albright battled through six innings. Albright struck out five and did not walk a batter as a right-handed, side-armed pitcher.

It was a quality game, and two good teams going at it," said Phil Carr, Northern's coach. "[Brandon] Beachy gutted it out and kept us in the ball game. He got some big outs with runners on base, but offensively we just couldn't put anything together."

The Huskies were held to zero until a run came at the bottom of the seventh inning with bases loaded. Catocin's third pitcher, Kyle Ausherman, got the final out.

The Cougars led 2-0 after four innings, 4-0 after six, and tacked on two more runs in the seventh.

The Huskies were held to four singles, with two from Beasom, and one each from Beachy and Sisler.

Steven Holtschneider scored Northern's only run in the seventh inning on an infield error.

Catocin goes on to face second-seeded Clear Spring on Friday in the region championship game.

Madigan's Edges Eagles To Begin Hot Stove Season

The team sponsored by Madigan's Auto Sales in Deer Park opened its Hot Stove Baseball League season on Tuesday at Broadford Park with a 3-2 victory over the Cresaptown Eagles.

Madigan's was led by pitcher Brooks Waybright, who went the distance and finished with a three-hitter. He walked only one batter and struck out seven.

The Eagles took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first inning, and did not trail until the bottom of the final inning when Madigan's broke a 2-2 tie to gain the immediate victory.

Madigan's scored one run in the bottom of the fifth to cut the Eagles' lead to 2-1 and then tied it at 2-2 with another single run in the sixth.

Scott Bittinger scored the winning run via an infield single by Jake Taylor. Bittinger reached base on the Madigan's only walk of the game, advanced to second on a single by Garrett Hoffman, and moved to third on a fielder's choice by Kyle Sherbin.

Taylor had a pair of singles in Madigan's eight-hit effort, Bittinger contributed an RBI double, and Shane Peck had a run-producing single.

Keifer singled and doubled, and Clark had a double to account for the Eagles' three hits.

Keifer also pitched a complete game for Cresaptown, allowing eight hits, striking out four, and walking just one, which would

Huskies End Season With Loss To Blazers

The 2009 season has ended for the Northern High School softball team as the Huskies were defeated, 5-1, by Clear Spring in the first round of the Maryland Class 1A West Regional playoffs.

Northern's pitcher Taryn Brenneman did all she could to seize the win against Clear Spring. She held the Blazers to three scoreless innings and managed six strikeouts, and allowed four hits in the loss.

The score remained 0-0 through the first three innings until Clear Spring recorded five runs at the top of the fourth inning. The Huskies managed one run at the bottom of the fourth, but were unable to recover.

Kaitlyn Fratz, Miranda Beasom, and Kara Savage each had singles to account for Northern's hits.

Clear Spring's D. McDonough recorded seven strikeouts and allowed just three hits and one run from the Rams. A. Forest and H. Lozeau hit doubles for the Blazers.

The Huskies wrapped up its season at 3-10.

Ridge's Austen Weimer, who won 8-2. Aaron Valentine competed in the play-in match, but was defeated, 8-0, by the Sentinels' Brad Tyler.

In the boys' doubles matches, the teams of Jeff Trautwein and Dylan Beitzel lost 8-6 to Allegany's Zach Mathews and Chuck Condor in the play-in round. Valentine and Doerr teamed up to defeat Fort Hill's Rock Evans and Daniel Johnson, 8-1, to advance to the second round, but then fell, 8-3, to Southern's Cory Murphy and Arnye Riley.

For the girls, the doubles team of Stough and Custer claimed a 9-7 win over Mtn. Ridge's Shaleena Troutman and Nicole Nightengale in the first round, but then lost, 9-7, in the second round to Yasha Dunlap and Rebecca Price of Fort Hill.

Northern's mixed doubles team of Ian Aiken and Jordyn Milton edged Jordan Rhoads and Wade Robinson of Mtn. Ridge, 9-8, for the play-in round, and then lost, 8-5, to Fort Hill's Canaan Wolf and K.K. Stoney in the first round.

In Friday's win over Hancock, Southern recorded the first run in the first inning, and widened the margin with a six-run second inning. The final four hits came in the fifth, sixth, and seventh innings.

Hancock made it 7-2 at the bottom of the fourth, then tacked on one in the fifth, and the final one at the bottom of the seventh, but was unable to recover after the Rams' six-run attack.

Southern's starter Derek Taylor worked the first six innings before giving way to Nathan King, who allowed only four hits and struck out 10 batters.

Southern's Kody Lewis slugged a grand slam, and King drove in three runs off four hits, including a two-run homer, a double, and two singles. Ryan Sweitzer swatted two singles and sent in a run with a sacrifice fly. Teammates Seth Hinebaugh and Reese Duncan each had two singles, and Duncan also recorded an RBI.

Ben Hoopengardner led Hancock with two singles.

The Rams ended with a 12-3 season record.

Upgrade Your Portfolio in 2009

It's no secret that 2008 was rough on most investors. And 2009 didn't get off to a particularly good start, either. Yet there's still plenty of time left this year to upgrade your investment portfolio in a way that can help you stay on track toward your long-term goals.

But what exactly does it mean to "upgrade" your portfolio? Do you have to systematically go through your investments and eliminate all those that performed poorly last year? Or should you just sell of any investments that you think are risky?

Neither one of these ideas are good solutions. In the first place, a bear market such as we've experienced tends to drag everything down, even quality investments. Furthermore, you can't get rid of all investments that carry some risk because all investments carry some risk. So instead of taking either of these two approaches, consider the following moves:

• Review your portfolio objectives. Your investment objectives are based in large part on your risk tolerance and stage of life. If these factors have changed, you may need to rebalance your portfolio. In fact, it's a good idea to rebalance your holdings at least once a year, regardless of the markets or your life situation.

• Increase your portfolio's quality. Right now, you can find many quality investments that are attractively priced. In past market recoveries, these types of investments usually have recovered faster than lower-quality ones. Although past performance is not an indication of future results, the biggest gains usually occur early in market rallies. You don't want to wait too long to explore these opportunities.

• Don't overload on a single investment. In general, it's not a good idea for a single stock to total more than 5% of your portfolio. In recent months, many investors have learned the hard way about the dangers of holding too much stock in a single company — even one that once appeared to be a blue chip firm. And the same principle applies to your employer's stock. If it's offered as an option in your 401(k), don't go overboard on it.

• Own a sufficient number of stocks. How many stocks should you own to diversify the equity portion of your portfolio? There's no one right answer for everyone, but to really attain proper diversification, you may need to own at least 20 to 25 stocks, spread out among all the major industry sectors. Of course, diversification by itself cannot guarantee a profit or protect against loss, but it can give you more chances for success while helping to reduce the effects of volatility on your portfolio.

• Invest in a range of fixed-income securities. Just as you need to own a reasonable amount of stocks, you should also own a number of fixed-income vehicles — perhaps 10 to 20, depending on your situation. You can diversify these holdings by purchasing different types of bonds — corporate, municipal and Treasury — and certificates of deposit.

You can't control the economy or the financial markets. But by following the proven techniques described above, you can help control your own financial destiny. Consider taking action soon. This article was written by Edward Jones, a member of the Edward Jones Financial Group.

Stoner Dominates In First Start For Binghamton Mets

After nursing a shoulder strain sustained in spring training, Tobin Stoner made his first start for the AA Binghamton Mets, minor league team of the New York Mets, on Monday against the New Hampshire Fisher Cats, an affiliate of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Stoner, a graduate of Southern High School and Davis and Elkins College, dominated the Fisher Cats, pitching seven complete, scoreless innings. He allowed only two hits, gave up just one walk, and struck out three in a 3-2 victory.

Stoner's next start is projected to be on May 17 at home against the Trenton Thunder, the AA affiliate of the New York Yankees.

Pusateri Named To Honor Roll

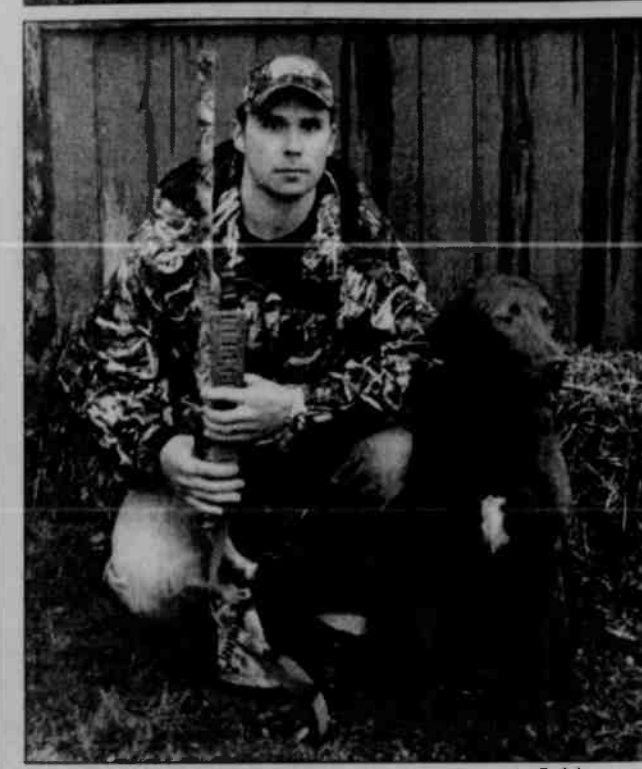

Twenty-three McDaniel College student athletes, including Scott Pusateri of Accident, have been named to the 2009 Centennial Conference (CC) spring academic honor roll. To be nominated for the honor roll, a student athlete must be a starter or key reserve, be of sophomore standing or higher, and have a cumulative grade-point average of at least 3.40.

Pusateri, a senior, is a member of the Green Ter-ror's track and field team. He was a standout soccer player and track athlete at Northern High School, from which he graduated in 2005.

In all, 325 student athletes from the CC's 11 member institutions were named to the 2009 spring academic honor roll.

LIONS CLUB DONATES CONCESSION STAND PROCEEDS — For 40 years, the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club has operated the concession stand at the Southern High School athletic field. A large portion of the profits are donated back to the school for its athletic program. Lions Club members contributed more than 8,000 staff hours to this past year's concession activities. A spokesperson noted that Lions Club International is an organization that gives back to communities, and that philosophy certainly lives within the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club. Pictured, left to right, are Lion president Sherwin Teagarden, Southern High School principal Jim Maddy, and concession stand director Lion Dave Beard, presenting a check for the SHS athletic program.

To Receive

Continued from Page A-1 requesting the assistance. Some of those on the list are landlords wanting help with weatherizing their rental units. But for now, homeowners will have priority, Yoder noted.

"Last year we did 80 homes," he said. "Our average cost per home is $6,500."

Under the Weatherization Assistance Program, Community Action personnel conduct an air infiltration test on each home to determine the type of energy conservation measures needed and install materials to make the home more energy efficient. The ultimate goal of the program is to reduce energy consumption, thereby reducing the amount of money households pay for heating and utility bills.

Weatherization services may include hot water system improvements; lighting retrofit; insulation of attic, floors, and walls; and furnace cleaning and repair.

what this means is that the children feel stress from the family and subsequently act out in a variety of ways. Professionals warn that during these economic times it is important to pay attention to what is happening around you, but refrain from getting involved in doom and gloom hype. Take stock of your particular reaction to a situation and what causes you stress. Reach out to family, friends, and trusted advisors. Research shows that receiving support from others is effective in managing stress. If you continue to feel overwhelmed by stress, it may be time to consider seeking professional help.

Garrett County is showing remarkable resiliency in the current national economic downturn. In my opinion, this is consistent with the economic patterns we have seen in the county since the 1970s. Typically, Garrett County does not experience the high peaks and low valleys – the booms and the busts – of the national economy. Instead, we are a steady-as-you-go kind of place, with a more level economic pattern that does not rise and fall as quickly as those of other regions.

In part, that is because Garrett Countians are generally still very financially conservative and still know what real value means. For example, very few property owners in the county were affected by the sub-prime mortgage debacle. Most homeowners and businesses here understand what they can afford, and did not take on a highly leveraged and unmanageable debt load.

When you look deeper at the real estate statistics, the trends become very clear. In 2004/2005, generally considered to be the "peak" of the market, we saw more real estate transactions than we are seeing today. But unlike other areas where prices are dropping, properties in Garrett County have maintained and even increased in value. In 2004, there were 266 transactions in which homes were sold for under $250,000, and the average price in that category was $134,948. Last year, when so many markets were collapsing, we did see a 45% decline in transactions under $250,000 (to 146), but the average price was up by 11% to $148,898.

The same pattern holds true for properties over $250,000. In 2004, there were 290 sales with an average price of $522,871. In 2008, sales were down 40% to 175, but the average price increased over $100,000 to $645,257, up by 23%. Combining both categories, the average home price in Garrett County in 2004 was $337,282, while last year it was $419,954. So our real estate market fared well, even as other places were crying doom and gloom.

We cannot deny, however, that many families in our county are struggling with lower incomes. These are tough times, and for those experiencing difficulty, the pain is very real. For the most part, however, Garrett County is positioned to do well as the economy recovers. We did not experience the dizzying drops in home prices, and most of our homeowners have maintained their value and their equity. For families who do not need to sell in a hurry, our real estate market is still a matter of timing. If you want to sell, but can hold on a little longer before putting your home on the market, you will be well-positioned when real estate is again a seller's market. For the sake of our national economy, let us hope that is soon.

Other industries have their own unique patterns, but in most sectors, Garrett County is faring well. I note a recent report from the GC Chamber of Commerce that shows that the tourism industry continues to perform well. During the winter season that just ended, hotel and vacation home occupancy was higher than it was in the previous year. At Wisp, we finished the winter with revenues slightly ahead of those of 2007/2008. Although we have tightened our belt on expenses as all prudent businesses have, we have also continued to make upgrades and improvements to ensure that the resort is competitive.

Many economists predicted that Americans would still pursue vacations, but limit their long-distance travel by choosing instead to vacation in regional resort areas within a few hours' drive of their primary home. That prediction seems to have been exactly right for Wisp and Garrett County over the winter season, and I have every reason to believe that it will continue to hold true as Americans prepare for their summer vacations.

The bottom line is that, despite the national economic picture, Garrett County still offers the kind of value and lifestyle that makes this area special. All of the wonderful reasons that make this a great place to live or invest in a vacation home are still true. We have lifestyle opportunities that are the envy of a majority of the population – a strong rural character, four-season recreation, and outstanding natural resources and beauty. That is what we have each and every day. And all of it is easily accessible in less than a three-hour drive from three major metropolitan areas, on well-maintained, easy-to-drive highways.

So it is no surprise that our real estate and tourism numbers are still strong – and that is why it is no surprise that I believe that the signs will continue to remain positive for our area.

"We have been working on this upgrade for a while, and with the help of computer expert Paul Browning of the CHIPS Network, we have created what we think will be a much more comprehensive, informative online issue," McEwen said.

The company hopes to increase online advertising as well, and is promoting the site as a viable location for businesses to buy valuable space.

"We have an ongoing record of the activity on our site, and we receive thousands of 'hits' from all over the country, and even internationally. Parent Volunteer C. Brenneman Is Honored By State

The 2009 Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Award was presented last evening to Wendy Panof of Queen Anne's County by State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick and Comcast Regional Senior Vice President Fred Graffam at a program in Columbia. The state finalists for this award were also announced, and Christine Brenneman of Grantsville was named as Garrett County's honoree.

Brenneman currently serves as volunteer coordinator for Grantsville Elementary School, and her involvement reaches back over 14 years. She has served on the School Improvement Team and has been a member of the Moms in Touch group that provides support to school staff. She is also an assistant for the Reading First program, in which she helps in numerous ways, a spokesperson said.

CAMPAIGN ENDORSED BY COMMISSIONERS - The Garrett County commissioners recently signed a proclamation supporting the local "Parents Who Host Lose the Most: Don't Be A Party to Teenage Drinking Campaign." The campaign is a combined effort between the Garrett County Health Department, the Garrett County Combating Underage Drinking Committee, and the Garrett County Drug and Alcohol Council. It is designed to provide parents with accurate information about the health risks of underage drinking and the legal consequences of providing alcohol to youth. From left to right are Commissioners Ernie Gregg, Denny Giotfelty, and Fred Holliday, GCHD program coordinator Sadie Liller, Garrett County sheriff's office Cpl. Rob Corley, and Southern High School principal Jim Maddy.

MAY DECLARED BETTER HEARING AND SPEECH MONTH - The Garrett County commissioners recently announced May as Better Hearing and Speech Month. All citizens are encouraged to recognize the achievements of audiologists and speech-language pathologists in improving the quality of life for people with communication disorders. Speech and language disorders can affect anyone at any age, said a spokesperson. Millions of infants, children, and adults in America suffer from a communication or swallowing disorder. Whether it's a difficulty in swallowing or a disorder such as stuttering, delayed language or a voice problem, a person's ability to learn and interact with others can be affected. A speech-language pathologist should be contacted by those suffering from or associated with one suffering from a communication disorder. From left are Commissioners Ernest Gregg, Dennis Giotfelty, and Fred Holliday, and speech-language pathologist Dr. Debra Friend, representing Peak Rehab Inc., Mtn. Lake Park.

Five From SHS Devise Bills That Pass E-Congress

Southern High School students in Dave Bender's Advanced Placement government and politics class recently participated in the 2009 Youth Leadership Initiative e-Congress.

The students were part of the YLI mock national legislature over the Internet, with five of them achieving success with the devised legislation passing this year's YLI e-Congress. Caitlin Simpson, Amanda Conner, Alyssa Cowgill, Paige Fitzwater, and Julia Jordan all received at least 65% of participating votes to support their legislation.

Simpson and Conner's bill, titled H.R. MD0151 Improving Pell Grants, It Makes Cents, provide greater access to federally sponsored student grants and loans through the current Pell Grant program. Their goal was to increase the affordability of a college education to a growing segment of the middle class whose incomes have not kept up with the cost of a higher education. A total of 68% of the students participating voted to support this legislation.

Cowgill and Fitzwater successfully navigated their bill, H.R. MD0152 The Green Stimulus Package, through the legislative process. Their legislation provided tax credits for individuals and families who participated in recycling efforts. Their goal was to alter the lifestyle of Americans concerning recycling by providing direct incentive to participate. A total of 66% of the students participating voted in support of this legislation.

Jordan's legislation, H.R. MD00154 Adopt a Child Incentive, was approved by 66% of the students participating in the mock congress. Her bill was aimed at reducing abortions by providing plenty of well-qualified parents who would be willing to adopt unwanted children. The legislation included background checks on potential parents and tax credits beyond the typical dependent tax credits already offered by the federal government.

This spring, 824 teachers from over 42 states participated in the 2009 session of YLI's annual legislative simulation for middle and high school students. With over 15,800 student legislators participating in the activity and voting on 27 concurrently running House Floors, YLI was able to ensure that a student committee reviewed each of the 9,308 bills submitted. Student committees passed 4,822 pieces of the legislation submitted (51% of the bills) to the House Floor for a full vote by members of their respective floors. Working within the $200 billion e-Congress budget, student legislators logged over 400,000 votes en route to passing 15% (or 770) of the original bills.

The simulation involved the following five phases:

• Students worked through 15 steps in the introductory phase learning about the structure and functions of the legislative branch as well as how a bill becomes a law.

• Students selected a current problem they believed government might address. They completed extensive research that included writing to a congressperson and working out a cost-benefit analysis of their proposed legislation. Students were required to show where the money would come from that might be necessary to make their legislation happen.

• Students wrote their legislation. This process included explaining the purpose of the bill, eligibility, terms and benefits, and fiscal impact.

• Students formed committees and subcommittees, where they studied and held simulated hearings on legislation that was assigned by YLI from students from other schools. The subcommittees reported on their legislation to the classroom committee of the whole who then voted on whether to kill the bill, pass the bill with amendments, table the bill for future consideration, or forward the bill on to the floor.

• Students voted on legislation acting as the floor of the House of Representatives.

The Youth Leadership Initiative is a national civic education program designed to involve students in the American electoral and policymaking process. To achieve this goal, YLI offers technology-based civic education resources that foster long-term civic engagement.

The program is sponsored by the University of Virginia Center for Politics, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization.

The births of two babies were announced this week, both boys.

A son, Jack Lorenzo, was born to Anthony and Fern (Shaffer) Wroten, Oakland, on April 30 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

A son, Kolton Ray, was born to Jamie and Jennifer (Bilenki) Michael, Mtn. Lake Park, on April 28 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Adorable Adoptables

THIS OLDER ADULT TORTOISESHELL FELINE is currently housed at the Garrett Animal Shelter. She is in need of a new home, as she was previously owned by a woman who had to move into a nursing home. "The tortie needs to be kept indoors with no other pets in the house," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also looking for new homes are a young black Lab mix that was given up by his owner, a female beagle that has been at shelter for a long time, and an adult white male cat. The recently featured large hound mix was adopted, and several animals went to rescue via HART. "There are other dogs and cats available for adoption at our local shelter," said the spokesperson. "Please call or stop by to meet them. There also is a partial listing of what is available on Petfinder.com, and you can view lists from West Virginia shelters in Preston, Mineral, and Tucker counties. Adopt from a shelter or rescue and save a life." For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

Two GC Students Honored For Academic Performance And Service

Two Garrett College students were recently honored during a ceremony in Baltimore for their academic performance and service to the college and community. Andiswe Sicwebu (right) and Madara Kanele (left) have been named to the 2009 All-Maryland Academic Team, a program sponsored by the honor society Phi Theta Kappa, two-year college presidents, and community college state associations.

All-State Academic recognition programs are held in 32 states across the country. Students are nominated based on academic achievement and service. All-State team members receive special recognition at an awards ceremony, where they are presented with medallions, certificates, and oftentimes stipends and scholarships.

In addition to being named to the first team of the All-Maryland Academic Team and being awarded $1,000 as a Coca-Cola Scholarship recipient, Sicwebu recently learned that she is one of four Garrett College recipients of the Bucknell Community College Scholars program scholarship. This financial award will allow her to head to Bucknell University in the fall on a full scholarship.

Sicwebu, an international student from South Africa, is an active member of the Garrett College community. She is a student ambassador, a member of the Garrett College honors program, a member of Phi Theta Kappa, president of the World View International Club, a math mentor, a math teacher's assistant, and a former college softball player. Sicwebu is also the recipient of a stipend from the Coalition for Effective Local Democracy.

She will graduate from Garrett on May 16 with a 3.77 GPA and as a member of the dean's list. She will major in environmental engineering at Bucknell University. She hopes to eventually go to graduate school and focus on geotechnics.

An international student from Latvia, Kanele was named to the All-Maryland Academic Team, second team. She helps to organize events across campus as student ambassador and World View International Club member. Kanele was also a softball player and math tutor during her freshman year.

In addition, she is on the dean's list, a member of Phi Theta Kappa honor society, and will graduate from Garrett on May 16 with a 3.81 GPA. Kanele will begin studying at Frostburg State University in the fall and plans to major in theater.

For additional information about the All-Maryland Academic Team at Garrett College, persons should contact Beth Luers at 301-387-3020 or via e-mail at beth.luers@garrettcollege.edu.

$5,148.95 FOR ST. JUDE'S — Broad Ford Elementary School participated in the St. Jude Math-A-Thon® program and raised $5,148.95 to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, the premier center for the research and treatment of childhood cancer and other deadly diseases. The community sponsored students by pledging an amount-per-problem or by making a one-time donation. More than 73 students participated. Broad Ford School's Math-A-Thon has raised more than $28,000 for St. Jude's over the past several years. "It is always exciting to see the dedication of the students," said Suzanne Sincell, school principal. "The Math-A-Thon not only encourages our students to work math problems, but it also teaches the importance of helping others. They realize that they can make a positive difference, and they are learning math at the same time." Pictured above are all of the participants, and below are the top money raisers. From left are: Kerri Kordyban, first place, $454; Nicholas Friend, second, $280; Wyatt Deckman, third, $275; and Mrs. Sincell. Founded by late entertainer Danny Thomas and based in Memphis, Tenn., St. Jude Children's Research Hospital is internationally recognized for its pioneering work in finding cures and saving children with cancer and other catastrophic diseases. No family ever pays for treatments not covered by insurance, and families without insurance are never asked to pay.

FOR THE SECOND YEAR IN A ROW, Hazel Wright, of Hoyes, pictured below, came back with a first place blue ribbon in the Decorative Miniature category from the 39th Ward World Championship Wildfowl Carving Competition, held at the Roland Powell Convention Center in Ocean City. Her beach scene carving, above, depicts three species of gulls on sand dunes. Entries were judged on technique/craftsmanship, accuracy, essence of the species, artistry, and overall presentation.

New this year was the Champagne Waterfowl Division featuring carvings small enough to fit inside a 3 1/2 inch circle. The carvings were also judged on their "floating position" in a float tank. Wright works alongside Gary Yoder, master carver, at a Tuesday evening carving club at Spruce Forest in Grantsville. A classmate of Wright's, Esther Kinney, Grantsville, also took home a first place blue ribbon in the Swan category.

agency's new $800,000 shelter/office building project.

Friendsville will request CDBG funds to construct a pedestrian bridge, and Kitzmiller would like a grant to demolish two blighted buildings. Jamison noted, however, that Kitzmiller needed to first have control of the properties.

"Unless they have control of the properties in some form or fashion, we won't be submitting an application," Jamison said.

She noted that one project will have to wait until next year's round of CDBG allocations. Jamison indicated that more work was needed before a GIS (geographic information systems) infrastructure mapping project would be feasible.

Jamison explained that Mtn. Lake Park mayor Leo Martin suggested the project, which would involve the mapping of DPU water and sewer systems in municipalities.

The grant writer said she and DPU director Linda Lindsey decided it was an excellent project.

"But we're probably not ready this year," Jamison said.

She explained that in order to include all of the DPU systems in both incorporated and unincorporated towns, such issues as income verification needed to be addressed.

"And we're not ready to do all of that yet at this point," Jamison said. Especially, she indicated, since unincorporated towns do not have data about their residents.

"I just think next year is the right time to do it," Yoder said about the project.

Oakland Woman Handed 90 Days In GC District Court Proceedings

In recent Garrett County District Court hearings, Barbara Ann Williams, 47, Oakland, was found guilty by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert for a charge of theft-scheme valued at $500-plus, and was sentenced to 90 days with all being suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $307.50 in fines.

Williams was charged in October 2008 after it was found that she had allegedly been stealing from a Crellin civic group account from July 2005 to October 2008. She was the group's treasurer.

After an investigation of bank records by Garrett County sheriff's officers, it was found that Williams had been writing checks to cash and then using the cash for herself, with the amount totaling over $3,000. She was not prosecuted on a theft valued at $500-plus charge.

In an unrelated case, John Donner Owens, 20, Grantsville, was handed a guilty verdict for a charge of malicious destruction of property valued at $500-plus, and was sentenced to 45 days, with 45 days suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $257.50 in fines.

Officers responded to a report of residential destruction of property and found that the residence and a vehicle had been damaged by paintballs. The victims of the residence said that the evening before, they had heard a popping noise and a vehicle driving by, but didn't go outside to see what the noise was.

After an investigation, officers were able to locate the driver, being Owens, and two other suspects involved in the incident. One of the other suspects was the operator of the paintball gun while Owens drove the car past the residence. No other charges were given.

In another district court hearing, Connie Marie Ogden, 46, Clarksburg, W.Va., pleaded guilty to a controlled dangerous substance

(CDS) possession of marijuana charge, was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict, and was sentenced to 30 days, with all being suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $100 in fines.

Ogden's charge stemmed from a December 2008 traffic stop by GCSO. She was allegedly not wearing a seatbelt and one of her rear brake lights was out.

Upon making contact with Ogden and another occupant, it was found that the passenger in the vehicle had a warrant out for his arrest. Officers secured him in handcuffs and placed him in the patrol vehicle. Ogden was then asked to exit the vehicle.

A search of the vehicle was performed and revealed a bag containing suspected marijuana; two tweezertongs with an odor of burnt marijuana; a cylinder tube containing an assortment of prescription and non-prescription pills and marijuana; and a glass jar with marijuana residue.

Ogden and the other suspect were transported to the Garrett County Detention Center. She was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession not marijuana, CDS possession of paraphernalia, and failure to equip a vehicle with the required rear stop light.

Michael Edward Wilhelm, 53, Swanton, was found not guilty for a second degree assault charge stemming from an October 2008

Paige Fitzwater To Represent SHS At HOBY Seminar

Paige Fitzwater, a student from Southern High School, has been selected to join 200 sophomore student leaders, representing all Maryland counties, at the 31st annual Hugh O'Brien Youth (HOBY) Maryland Leadership Seminar at Mount St. Mary's University in Emmitsburg, on May 22 to 24. This 3-day seminar brings together a select group of students to interact with distinguished leaders in the business, governmental, and educational arenas to discuss relevant present and future issues.

Fitzwater, daughter of Gary and Jeannette Fitzwater, Mtn. Lake Park, is a

PAIGE FITZWATER, distinguished honor student, serves on Southern's golf and mock trial teams, and is president of her sophomore class. She represented Southern at the National Youth Leadership Forum on Law last fall.

The event is organized solely by volunteers, three quarters of whom are HOBY alumni who are committed to "giving back" by offering leadership training, one-on-one mentoring, and financial sponsorship.

Sophomores are nominated to the HOBY program by their high school principal or advisor. These students must be seen as leaders within their high school and in the community, and only one student per school is nominated to be a HOBY ambassador.

HOBY ambassadors have said, "The HOBY seminar challenged me to think about the many issues affecting the world around me, and helped me understand that as a leader, I have the power to make a positive impact in business, government, and society."

The goal of the seminar is to provide a stimulating forum for HOBY ambassadors to learn more about the American incentive system and the democratic process while gaining a broader understanding of their leadership potential and quest for self-development. Topics for discussion include global education; volunteerism; media literacy; entrepreneurship; world hunger; goal-setting; and leadership and motivation.

Following the seminar, HOBY ambassadors are challenged to return to their respective cities and participate in community service projects where they are to perform at least 100 hours of community service within the year.

Major HOBY sponsors include the Federation of Women's Clubs, Jaycees, Optimists, and Kiwanis.

Persons interested in further information about HOBY activities and sponsorship opportunities may visit the HOBY Maryland web site at www.hobymd.org, call the International Office of Hugh O'Brien Youth Leadership at 301-474-4370, or visit the web site at www.hoby.org.

Students Can Save Tuition Money Via Academic Common Market

If Maryland college students' prospective majors are not offered at a Maryland public college or university, those students may be eligible for in-state tuition rates at more than 150 southern public colleges that participate in the Academic Common Market (ACM).

The ACM is a tuition savings agreement among the 16 member states of the Southern Regional Education Board (SREB): Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina (graduate programs with restrictions), Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Public colleges in SREB states that elect to participate in the ACM select the programs of study they will offer. Both bachelor and graduate-level programs are offered in the ACM. First Professional Degree programs - such as pharmacy, law, dentistry, and medicine - are not included in the ACM.

In Maryland, the ACM program is administered by the Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC). Dr. Genevieve Segura, ACM state coordinator, has worked with the program since 1998.

"Eleven years later we have certified thousands of students at participating colleges in the other 15 ACM states," Secretary of Higher Education James E. Lyons Sr. said. "I applaud Gov. O'Malley and Lt. Gov. Brown for being so supportive of this worthwhile program. It provides great savings to the citizens of Maryland."

ACM students from Maryland have enrolled in baccalaureate programs in acting, architectural engineering, aerospace, apparel and textile engineering technology, broadcast meteorology, equine science, filmmaking, fire and safety engineering technology, forest resource management, hearing and speech sciences, naval architecture, radiological sciences, and other majors not offered in Maryland. Students in masters' programs in archeological preservation, art therapy, diplomacy and international commerce, environmental science and public policy, hearing and speech sciences, naval architecture, and historic preservation have also received ACM tuition savings. At the doctoral level, students have been certified for the ACM in optics, ocean engineering, meteorology, mining engineering, anthropology, audiology, applied anthropology, and technology education.

According to an ACM spokesperson, the program provides savings that can help students attend higher-education institutions "to pursue their career dreams and allow them to attain education goals they might have not been able to afford."

In addition to the ACM campus-based programs, the ACM/Electronic Campus offers distance learning opportunities. There are currently several undergraduate and graduate-level degree programs available to Maryland residents. Working adults who are pursuing degrees can complete their degrees and receive the ACM tuition savings while remaining employed in their current job.

SREB is the nation's first interstate compact for education. Founded in 1948 by southern leaders in business, education and government, SREB works to improve every aspect of education from early childhood to doctoral degrees and beyond. More than 2,000 students in the 16 member states are certified each year for the ACM.

The ACM application deadline for fall 2009 semester is July 31, 2009. Students and parents with questions about the application process are encouraged to contact MHEC at 410-260-4543 or 800-974-0203, ext. 4543 (toll-free outside of the 410 area). Program guidelines, a list of participating institutions and eligible programs, and the application form are available online at www.mhec.state.md.us.

The Maryland Higher Education Commission is a 12-member coordinating board responsible for establishing statewide policies for Maryland public and independent colleges and universities and private career schools. It serves as an advocate for more than 336,000 college students in Maryland, for the state and its needs, and for business and industry in Maryland.

NRP Arrest One, Serve Summons

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) charged James Michael Cacciatore of Harpers Ferry, W.Va., last Friday with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving under the influence of alcohol per se, driving while impaired by alcohol, and failing to stop at a stop sign.

The incident occurred in the Big Run area of Savage River State Forest. The NRP officer initiated a traffic stop when Cacciatore's vehicle failed to stop at a stop sign. Upon noticing an odor of alcoholic beverage, the officer administered a field sobriety test and then took Cacciatore to the Garrett County Public Safety Building for a breathalyzer test.

The NRP also served a summons on Ryan Folk of Grantsville last Thursday for possession of a controlled dangerous substance, to wit: marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, and contributing to a delinquency of a minor.

The summons is the result of an investigation that began April 26 in the Savage River State forest.

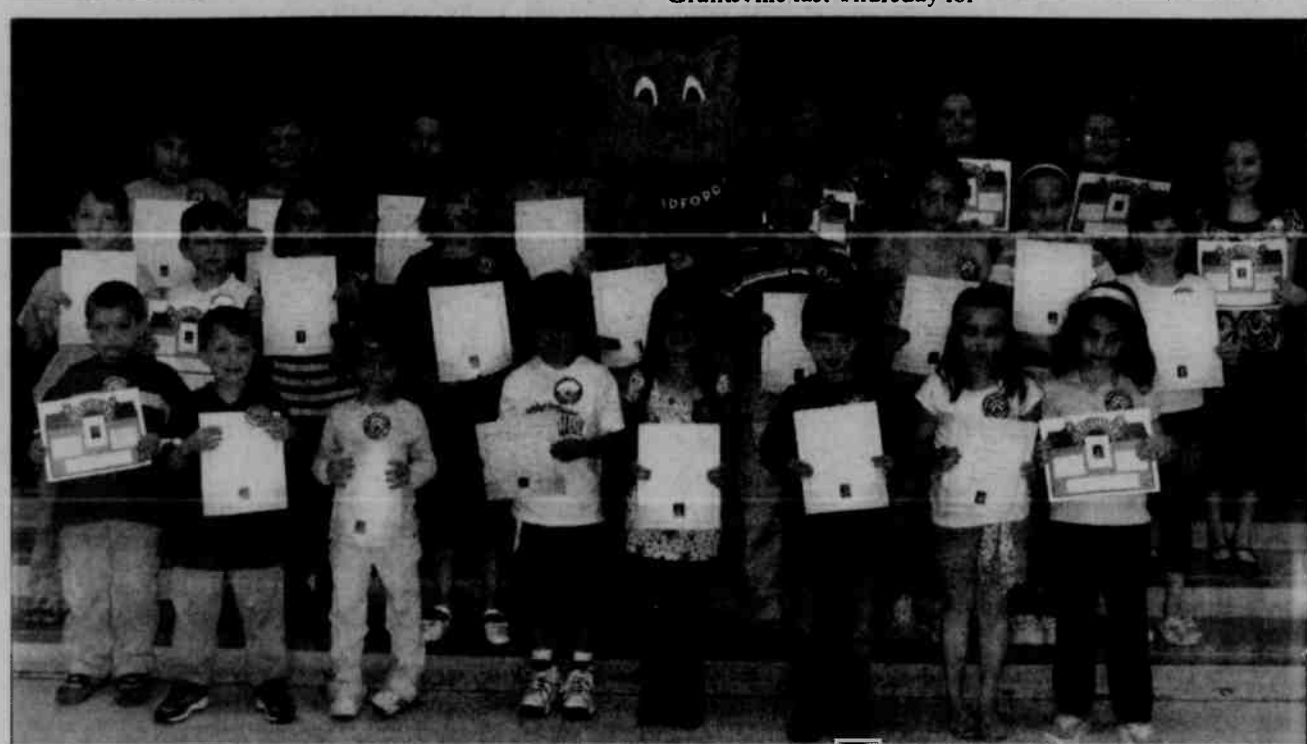

Library Branches Accepting Food Drive Donations

The Ruth Enlow Library, in collaboration with Garrett County Community Action's AmeriCorps Program, is conducting a food drive, which will run until July 3.

"Because of the current economic conditions, Community Action is expecting to have an increase of households in need of food," explained a spokesperson.

Donations need to be new, unopened, and unexpired nonperishable items. Donations will be accepted at all library branches.

For more information, persons may call Jeanette or Michelle at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403, ext. 114.

Get on Track

In this age of fast travel and confusing schedules, it is easy to lose track of our lives.

There are two tracks...God's track and ours. The question is how can we join those two tracks into one without too many bumps and jolts as we travel through our lives? The answer may be easier than we think!

God has a plan for our lives...a destination. We also have plans and goals, things we want to do and achieve. As we worship God each week and discover His will for our lives, He will give us direction. With His help, the two tracks can converge smoothly into one.

Get on track...God's track. Have a safe journey.

Licorice: Drug Interaction

Licorice is a plant that is mainly grown in Asia, Greece, and Turkey. The root and dried rhizome of the plant is used medicinally. Traditional uses in these countries include the treatment of an inflamed stomach and respiratory tract infections. It has also been used to flavor foods, although most licorice candy is currently flavored with anise. The licorice plant contains a substance called glycyrrhiza, which is thought to be responsible for its side effects when licorice is consumed in high doses. Side effects such as high blood pressure, low potassium levels, and fluid retention have been reported at high doses. Licorice is often processed to remove the glycyrrhiza in an attempt to lower side effects.

Recently scientists reported that study animals were given licorice and the medication cyclosporine. The animals were later evaluated. It was observed that the amount of cyclosporine present in the bloodstream was less than expected indicating some type of interaction. Cyclosporine is a prescription medication that is often used during organ transplant procedures to prevent rejection of the transplanted organ.

The Virtue of Chastity

Chastity unfortunately doesn't get much respect these days. Rather it is treated like a relic from a bygone era, a quaint but antiquated virtue, and one that is scarcely relevant in an era in which we have more modern attitudes about sexuality and our bodies. We may even hesitate to use the word "chastity," fearing that we will be considered prudish. But, have we not lost something important in these unchaste times? Have we not lost something important in these unchaste times? Have we not lost the essential spiritual lesson behind the virtue of chastity? Indeed, we seem to have forgotten that lust and a desire for the things of the flesh are really the root of much of our suffering, and the root of a grand illusion. The pleasures of the flesh are intense but momentary, and their fleeting nature should serve as a reminder that the physical itself is only a temporary state of existence. The pleasures of the body are actually a manifestation of an illusion, both in the importance we place on them, and also insofar as they tend to cause us to overly identify our bodies with our selves. In addition, we can learn something important by being chaste. That desire is the root of much of our suffering, and that if we can overcome our desires, we can thereby transcend our suffering. Finally, we should remember that the spirit of chastity extends to all of our body, including even our eyes and ultimately our mind. The eyes evoke desire, and in that, they are apt to be unchaste.

So when the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired to make one wise, she took of its fruit and ate; and she also gave some to her husband, and he ate.

Local Resident Wins Carnegie Science Award

Joanna Guy, a senior at Southern High School, received the Carnegie Science Senior Division Student Award at a dinner and awards presentation held in the Music Hall at the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh, Pa., last Friday. She is the daughter of Liz and Jon Guy of Swanton.

Joanna competed in the Pittsburgh Regional Science and Engineering Fair (PRSEF) last month and won first place in the Behavioral Science Category and a Sponsor Award for her project "Information Overload - Does Length of Argument Affect Voting Behavior?" She was then selected from all category first-place winners by the judges to receive special recognition.

For her project, Joanna conducted a mock election with 635 participants at Southern High School. The participants were asked to respond to questions on current social and political issues.

The hypothesis of the project was that positive or negative responses could be influenced by the length of the explanation of the issue. The project demonstrated that the hypothesis was correct and discussed the implications for balloting and voting.

PRSEF, the third oldest science fair in the United States, is a major event of the Carnegie Science

Loch Lynn's Christian Crossing Thrift Shop Open To Everyone

Everyone is invited to shop at the Christian Crossing Thrift Shop, located along First Avenue in Loch Lynn Heights, facing the railroad tracks. Although items for sale may be provided free of charge to individuals in critical need who are referred by area service providers, the general public may shop at the store as well.

"Think of Christian Crossing Thrift Shop as a year-round yard sale," said a spokesperson. "You will find great prices on furniture, major and minor appliances, housewares, toys, and clothing. Clothing is located by size, and each piece is individually priced."

She added that there are occasional antique finds in furniture, jewelry, and china. Plus, Christian Crossing maintains the largest used book store in Garrett County.

Most of the proceeds from the sale of goods are provided to area service providers for cash assistance to individuals in critical need. Increased sales, therefore, provide increased cash assistance to families facing crises.

Any proceeds remaining after paying the mortgage, insurance, utilities, and supplies is divided, with half going to capital improvements and half available for monetary assistance to those in crisis situations or for programs designed to keep people from getting into those situations.

Last year, Christian Crossing, under the auspices of the Garrett Cooperative Ministry Inc., dispensed more than $83,000 to individuals and programs for security deposits, utility bills, and other pertinent needs.

The store is staffed and Real Deal School Prog. Sponsored By First United Bank

First United Bank & Trust recently partnered with the Garrett County Board of Education to provide the Real Deal program to Northern High School juniors and Southern Middle School eighth graders. The program is an activity that is intended to simulate real life.

Students are provided with real-life scenarios and tasked with making day-to-day decisions dealing with the purchase of a car, a home, insurance, and amenities. The activity was developed to teach financial literacy, goal setting, and teamwork. The activity allows students to make serious financial decisions, which requires them to prioritize their purchases based on a set monthly income.

Most students participating in the activity chose to go to college after reviewing their financial situations. The hope is that students learn to recognize the link between career and college preparation and financial security. First United Bank provides the resources to make this activity possible.

Several local businesses volunteered their time to contribute to the event.

Grazing Network Formed, Kick-Off Set For May 21

The Extension Service and Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania have teamed up to develop a producer grazing network for farmers in this part of the Appalachian mountains.

The grazing network will help farmers who graze livestock to communicate with one another through activities such as pasture walks and educational seminars.

The first year's activities are being spearheaded by the extension offices in Garrett and Allegany counties and Bedford County, Pa. A committee of farmers will lead the grazing network with assistance from Extension and NRCS in the future.

Seven pasture walks are being scheduled for 2009. The pasture walks will be conducted throughout the mountaintop area, and will feature a variety of topics. One is scheduled each month until November.

The first will be held on Thursday, May 21, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. at Maple Hollow Farm, owned by Brian and Melanie Barkley near Bedford. The Barkleys graze sheep and beef cattle in a rotational grazing system. One feature of the system is that they have installed a solar-powered water system.

The second will be held at the farm of Henry Maier in Allegany County on Monday, June 9, from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Dr. Ed Rayburn, WVU Extension specialist, will be the main speaker at the pasture walk. The main theme will be rotational grazing and managing nutrients in a profitable manner.

One additional activity will be a full day trip to visit successful graziers in other parts of Maryland. Persons can plan to carpool to locations outside Garrett County by meeting at the extension office.

For more information about the grazing network, persons may contact the extension office at 301-334-6960.

Southern High Student Receives Ag Scholarship

Catlin Carrico, Swanton, has been awarded a $1,500 scholarship as part of the annual Commitment to Agriculture Scholarship Program. Catlin is one of 100 students across the United States who received this award based on their academic achievement and leadership in agriculture.

Catlin is a senior at Southern High School and plans to attend Potomac State College in the fall to pursue agricultural education. She is the daughter of Greg and Camille Carrico.

The Commitment to Agriculture Scholarship Program is open to high school seniors from all 50 states and is offered by Monsanto in association with the National Association of Farm Broadcasting. An impartial selection committee of agricultural educators and industry leaders, administered through the National FFA Organization, chose this year's award recipients from more than 7,800 applicants.

"This year's winners were chosen from an elite field and all clearly demonstrate excellence in the areas of academic, leadership, and real-world agricultural experience," said William Tucker, local Monsanto manager.

The scholarship program, established in 1999, has awarded nearly $1.5 million in support of young people interested in agriculture.

"Monsanto is committed to sustainable agriculture with the goal of helping farmers double crop yields by the year 2030," said Ernest Fajardo, Monsanto vice president of U.S. commercial sales. "The future of agriculture depends on the commitment and leadership of talented young people, such as this year's scholarship winners, and we hope the Commitment to Agriculture Scholarship Program will support their pursuit of career in agriculture."

SURE PROGRAM AUTHORIZED

The Food, Conservation, and Energy Act of 2008 authorized Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments (SURE) Program. The law was signed on October 13, 2008, and amended several provisions of the 2008 Act.

Recent weather events have occurred that have adversely impacted 2009 fall-seeded small grain crops. As a result, some producers may decide to plant a subsequent crop on the failed acreage. One of the factors that may influence a producer's decision to plant a subsequent crop is how the subsequent crop impacts eligibility for SURE.

The definition for a subsequently planted crop is a crop planted during the same crop year on the same land for which the first crop is eligible for SURE. Note: If crop insurance or NAP is not available for the first crop planted or prevented from being planted, and a subsequent crop is planted for which crop insurance or NAP is available, then only the second crop is considered the initial crop for SURE purposes.

Producers wishing to receive further information on the eligibility of subsequently planted crops for the SURE program may visit the Farm Service Agency, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923, fax 304-329-3056, or e-mail eric.mccartney@usda.gov.

FSA ANNOUNCES CROP YEAR MAL AND LDP POLICY

The Preston County Farm Service Agency reminds producers that Loan Deficiency Payments (LDPs) are payments made to producers who, although eligible to obtain a Marketing Assistance Loan (MAL), agree to forgo the loan in return for a payment of an eligible commodity. Each crop year, there are producers who fail to submit an LDP application before beneficial interest is lost in the commodity.

To be eligible for MAL or LDP, eligible producers must have beneficial interest in the applicable commodity. A producer is considered to have beneficial interest in a commodity if both the following remain with the producer: title of the commodity and control of the commodity.

Producers must complete page 1 of the CCC-633 EZ form to indicate their intentions to receive an LDP before the loss of beneficial interest and to file an LDP request for payment at any time during the MAL/LDP availability period (before or after losing beneficial interest). By completing and agreeing to the terms and conditions before producers lose beneficial interest, they may be eligible to receive an LDP based on the earlier of (1) the date beneficial interest is lost in the commodity, according to acceptable production evidence, or (2) the date of request for payment.

The CCC-633 EZ will allow producers to request an LDP for each eligible commodity produced on the farm for the applicable crop year. The CCC-633 EZ need only be filed in one county office for all counties in which producers have an interest in an eligible commodity.

By submitting page 2 of the CCC-633 EZ to the FSA office on or before the final availability date for each commodity, the producer is completing the request for an LDP on those commodities. Once page 2 of the CCC-633 EZ is submitted to FSA by the producer, those commodities are no longer eligible for a Marketing Assistance Loan.

Since the arrival of the new 2008 Farm Bill, for 2009 through 2012 crop years, to be eligible to receive a marketing loan gain (MLG) or LDP, an entity or individual's average adjusted gross nonfarm income cannot exceed $500,000. A person or legal entity with average adjusted gross nonfarm income that exceeds $500,000 is not eligible for MLGs and LDP payments. However, the person or entity is eligible for MAL, but MAL must be repaid at principal plus interest, or a commodity certificate may be exchanged for the loan collateral.

Producers wishing to file Form CCC-633 EZ or receive further information on the new Loan Deficiency Payment procedures may visit the Farm Service Agency, located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephone 304-329-1923, fax 304-329-3056, or e-mail eric.mccartney@usda.gov.

Beautification Award Announced By Md. Dairy Organization

The Maryland Dairy Industry Association recently announced a new farm beautification award program honoring dairy farms across the state.

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales, which encourages public support for the dairy industry. This new award gives recognition to dairy producers for maintaining well-kept farmsteads.

Farms nominated for the Dairy of Distinction Award will be judged this summer, and the winners announced at the Maryland Dairy Convention in Frederick in February 2010. Winning farms will receive a sign for display on their operations.

All Maryland dairy producers are invited to submit an application for the award. Applications are due by June 1.

To obtain an application, persons may contact Laurie Savage at 301-349-0750 or via e-mail at secretary@marylanddairyindustry.org, or Leslie Hendrickson-Hart at 301-791-1504, ext. 21, or via e-mail at lhendrickson@washcomd.net.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Oh, the Pirates! They lost all their good pitchers, and the offense is not very good, either. It is unbelievable that only one month ago they were at the top of their division; now they are tied for last place. But they are 5-0 on Saturdays, and that's what day of the week it is today.

But it looks like it didn't make any difference. In the fifth inning, the score is Mets 7, Pirates 1. You can't call it a great game for pitcher Paul Maholm, but he was able to prevent a shut-out with his first major league home run! As far as I can remember, it was the first homer by a pitcher that I ever saw.

The first game of this year, I saw a relief pitcher, rookie Jesse Chavez. He did a great job in his first inning.

Maybe when Jack Wilson gets back, supposedly for the Tuesday evening game against the Rockies, the Pirates can put in a good complete game.

I counted the days before today, because I expected Caitlin home. But I got a phone call from her first thing in the morning telling me that because tomorrow is Mother's Day, instead of coming home this afternoon, she will go to her Daddy's house.

Brother Barry is expected at Rodney's house with crabs. So this afternoon is supposed to be our family's big Mother's Day gathering, so I will only have two granddaughters for my mother.

I really counted on a nice refund check from the IRS. They say, "Money can't buy happiness." But it does not hurt.

I can't believe my eyes. I just saw a cardinal in my yard. That is a first. I always believed I was too far from the woods for them.

My mother Ruth DiPaolo enjoyed a pre-crab feast visit from Brenda Butcher, Oakland, who was on the way to the Bittinger Fire Department's chicken barbecue. She was lucky she came down early, because they sold out by 5:30.

Of course, it is not unusual to have lots of wind in Bittinger. But Mother's Day eve, the only thing I can compare it to is a major blizzard's winds. Thank goodness it was a lovely day, except for the awesome wind and a few occasional raindrops, with light cloud cover.

Mother's Day is perfectly lovely. Well, it is a little breezy, not like Saturday, but cooler. Saturday's crab feast was not enough of a celebration of Mother's Day. Nothing is enough for my mother Ruth. Since she loves to play cards, both days of the weekend featured big card games. I don't know how to play what they played, but Lesa Whittemore and my daughters do.

Speaking of Lesa, her father Bob King will arrive here in Bittinger around the beginning of June. Maybe by then we will get more warm weather. I hope so, because the winter chill was a factor today. When I joined Rodney on the deck where he was grilling steak, it was pretty nippy. But most members of our party stayed inside.

Finally, just before dark on Mother's Day, I got my Mother's Day wish. I was at home with all three daughters with me, and nowhere to go.

I can hardly believe it, but Iran is acting like a civilized nation. After about four months, a young Iranian woman was imprisoned and accused of spying. Of course, Iran held a big showy harsh trial for her, and she was convicted and sentenced to eight years. But she went free today after an appeal trial, with her sentence reduced to two years suspended.

What changed between January and May? Well, they spent years of being labeled as a member of the "Axis of Evil," and they lived up to the label when they arrested her. What changed was that President Obama reached out to Islam's people and greeted them respectfully.

She was lucky that she wasn't stripped naked and then water boarded. Because if this story happened in the Bush-Cheney years, America would have attacked Iran. It's possible that we are entering a new era, when instead of being a big bully, we are reassembled into a member of the company of nations. What rogue nations usually want is respect, and if they get it, they don't behave outrageously.

Iran is a nation with a proud history. They don't take losses from America or western nations. But the new position of America toward Islam is speaking deeply to the new upcoming election. It approved the action by the current leader because it shows he works together with the West, at least the "new West."

At the same time, Cheney was busy claiming that the new policy of the presidential administration "makes America less safe."

Colin Powell, the man in charge of Desert Storm, the first war against Iraq, expressed doubt about the Bush-Cheney plan for the second Iraq war. If they could listen to a different point of view, perhaps we would not be stuck in an apparently endless war. He probably questioned whether we have enough ground troops for two wars at the same time.

There are several ironic aspects of this problem. The first is that the military discharged two valuable military people, a West Point graduate who served several terms in Iraq, and a female translator, because they are open homosexuals. But they are willing and able to serve their country. And there are thousands of people just like them. While we were deploying hundreds of thousands of National Guard and Army Reserve members for multiple tours of duty, they never dreamed that they were in for what was ahead of them in Iraq.

While some were kicked out or refused to enter the military, they pushed the responsibility on ill-prepared soldiers so much, one over-stressed soldier went crazy and shot and killed five other Americans as he entered a mental health clinic in Iraq. This happened in spite of the fact that the military instructed all troops to watch out for a soldier who seems over-stressed. But sometimes one goes crazy without being identified as a potential risk.

STUDENTS TOUR LANDFILL - Over 60 Northern High School students from Rebecca Kenyon's and Michelle Herman's earth science, biology, and environmental science classes traveled to the Mountainview Landfill (managed by Waste Management) and the Allegany Recycling Center to learn more about being environmentally responsible consumers. Funds from the science budget

How can we expect to do a quick screening when someone is trying to buy automatic assault weapons? How can we identify someone who is not mentally healthy enough to allow them to have access to those killing machines? In some parts of our country they are commonly used as hunting rifles. And that does not count as a "well-regulated militia." That's what the Second Amendment from the Bill of Rights says. It does not guarantee any individual who is possibly deeply troubled and paranoid.

Blakely Glotfelty and Matthew Bass graduate from the University of Maryland on Friday.

And my Meredith and her cousin Emma Bass will graduate from Northern High soon. There is no way to deny that time does fly. The Bittinger rash of rabies came way too close to home for me. Last Saturday on Mother's Day eve, the Glotfelty kids saw a raccoon acting strangely. It straggled toward my house.

Pictured, left to right, are NHS math teacher Gregg Hostetler and Skyler. The competition, which allows high school juniors to test their math knowledge, this year drew about 75 contestants from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia. Competition results are based on individual student performance in a one-hour algebra and geometry-based test compiled and scored by faculty members of ACM's Mathematics Division. Scholarships of $1,000, $500, and $250, provided by the LaVale Lions, were awarded to the first-, second-, and third-place finishers, respectively, for their achievements. Each of the seven remaining students in the top 10 places was awarded a $100 scholarship. The scholarship monies can be used by the top 10 for early college studies while in high school, as regularly enrolled ACM freshmen or in summer courses at ACM between academic years at other colleges and universities.

On 05/03/09 the Backbone Mountain Chapter of the Ruffed Grouse Society held its Inaugural Chukar Challenge at Wings of Challenge in Accident, Md. With the help of many local sponsors and an overwhelming response from out of area competitors, the event was a big success.

The following is a list of sponsors/donors we would like to thank, realizing we could not name every single person who helped donate time and money to make this event such success. There were volunteers who are members of our chapter who came out and helped in poor conditions, pouring rain and mud to work all day long. We had competitors from six states participate.

RESPONSE TO LETTER WRITER - PART II

by Dr. Thomas Sheahan

This is a continuation from last week, responding to a letter (of April 30) from Barry Krewson that dealt with a previous column, Carbon Capture and Sequestration. Again, quotations from Krewson's letter are shown in bold.

Every source of energy we use comes from the energy of the sun except for nuclear, and we have our own nuclear fusion reactor 91,000,000 miles away.

Here, Krewson echoes what I've been preaching for 40+ years. Controlling fusion on Earth is incredibly difficult to do (see the April 17 issue of Science magazine, pp. 326-330, for a glimmer of optimism), but standing back and collecting what the Sun sends us for free makes sense. Research progress is substantial; solar photovoltaic cells used to have efficiencies of 6%, but are now over 12%, and in the R&D laboratory way up over 30%. But the costs (both initial and maintenance) are still very high. Again, if a scientific advance is ever to become a practical reality, economics matters. We all want the economics of solar power to improve. Same goes for wind.

Picture ... renewable technologies ... [all powered by the free sun] producing hydrogen, which can be transported and will power everything we are currently powering with fossil fuel. And I encourage the doctor to really educate his readers.

Having just retired three months ago from a position in scientific research management directly related to the development of hydrogen as a fuel, I'm in a position to speak with some accuracy about the prospects for hydrogen. My 2006-2007 presentation for scientific audiences "Major Technical Challenges Confronting the Hydrogen Economy" explained the severe difficulties faced by hydrogen researchers. There are technical issues, such as how to store H₂ in a vehicle; there are economic issues, such as the very high cost of platinum catalysts in fuel cells; and there are infrastructure issues, such as the lack of "gas stations" for dispensing H₂.

Hydrogen is still in the research stage, with affordable H₂ cars probably 25 years away. Nevertheless, this is research that should continue to involve government labs, universities, and industry in a cooperative way. If it were a "sure thing," industry would boot the government out and do it alone. Smart people have good ideas, but bringing them all the way from the lab bench to commercial applications involves many successive steps and a lot of capital expenditures.

The future of hydrogen is directly associated with the future of electricity, because the least expensive way to produce H₂ is by electrolyzing H₂O. That takes electricity - over half of which is presently generated by burning coal, hence producing CO₂. Getting coal out of the loop for producing electricity is easy to wish for, but to achieve that, the national mindset regarding nuclear power has to change.

Think of how many tankers are crossing the Atlantic Ocean every day headed for American ports - We import over 10 million barrels per day of crude oil. Add to that all the unit trains of coal (100 hopper cars) leaving the mines every day. To replace all that requires a big source of alternate energy. The pleasant dream that wind and solar power can produce enough H₂ is only entertained by those who have never looked at the numbers, never done the calculation.

With 100+ new nuclear power plants, H₂O could be electrolyzed into an adequate supply of H₂, and no CO₂ would be released. In my view, favoring more nuclear power is being part of the solution, per Krewson's wish. However, building new nuclear plants isn't just a matter of technology; economics matters enormously. Consecutive lawsuits routinely delay nuclear projects for years, and no utility or construction firm can afford to spend a billion dollars and then watch it sit idle for a decade. This brings politics back into the picture: Until there are major changes in the laws affecting nuclear power, the economics will continue to be terrible, and even the best technology in the world won't succeed.

Dr. Sheahan is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

STUDENTS HONORED IN LOCH LYNN - Jacob Green was named student of the month for April 2009 by Partners After School @ Loch Lynn. "Jacob always participates in activities and is always willing to help out," said a group spokesperson. Jacob and two other students also had perfect attendance for the month. Pictured, left to right, are Nick Schrier, Blake Dumire, and Jacob. Partners After School @ Loch Lynn is a collaborative effort between Garrett County Community Action, Garrett County Partnership for children and Families, and the Maryland State Department of Education. The program is also a service learning site. Anyone wanting more information about the program may call 301-334-0723.

begin at 6:30 p.m.

The April meeting was held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. It was called to order by Kevin Haenftling, president. There were three members, three parents, two leaders, and one guest present. There was no program, as members prepared sloppy joes and finalized plans for the food booth at the livestock sale that would be held later that evening.

Kevin Haenftling, Kathryn Kitzmiller, and Kara Savage reported on the "Bowl for 4-H." Kara Savage reported on the county public speaking event, Kathryn Kitzmiller reported on the rabbit school in Greensburg, and Kara Savage and Kevin Haenftling reported on Achievement Night.

Jackets were distributed, and sweatshirts will be ordered.

Jim Joslin will present a wood-working program in October or November.

Members agreed to visit the Accident Bakery during the summer months.

Details of the countywide rabbit workshop will be finalized at the May meeting.

The club will be planting flowers for the sidewalks in Accident again this year. A planting date will be decided when the flowers are purchased.

Plans for the club fair booth were made, and members decided on the theme for the booth.

The club will hold games during the 4th of July activities at the Accident Volunteer Fire Department. Members will not participate in the parade this year.

CRELLIN WATERWAYS GET CLEANED UP—Volunteers from the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association and Crellin Elementary School braved a rainy day recently to conduct a cleanup of the Yough River, Snowy Creek, and Crellin ball park. "The volunteers did an amazing job of picking up nearly two tons of trash and 50 tires," said a group spokesperson. "This popular fishing and recreational area for youths is now clean, and we all hope it stays that way." He expressed his appreciation to the Garrett County Solid Waste and Recycling Division for the use of the refuse container and the disposal of the waste tires at no charge, and to Sunrise Sanitation for transporting the refuse container to the cleanup site and landfill. Conservation Easement Presentation To Be Given By Former GC Resident At AHC Meeting

The Allegheny Highlands Conservancy (AHC) will hold its annual meeting on Wednesday, May 20, at 6 p.m. at the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park. At 7 p.m., Megan Sines of the Maryland Environmental Trust (MET) will provide a PowerPoint presentation titled "Donated Conservation Easements and You: A Conservation Easement Primer - What It Is and How It Can Work For You."

During her program, Sines will discuss conservation easements, which she describes as "legal agreements which protect the open space, agricultural, and forest resources of a property in perpetuity." Her presentation will explore the basics of what an easement is and how an easement can work for private landowners, including the income, property, and estate tax benefits available through the program.

MEGAN SINES

Following Sines' presentation, several local landowners will share their personal reasons for donating conservation easements to AHC and MET. The annual election for AHC officers and board members will take place following the evening program. The public is welcome to attend both the covered dish supper and evening program, but those coming to the covered dish supper are asked to RSVP by phoning Ron Boyer at 301-895-3686 or via e-mail at info@alleghenyhighlandsconservancy.org.

Sines is MET's Western Region Conservation Easement planner. She first came to MET in 2005-06 as a part-time volunteer coordinator, and helped to revive the Volunteer Monitoring Program. She joined MET full time in December 2007.

As a native of Garrett County, Sines says she is delighted to serve the Western Region. She has a background in program coordination and administration, and currently serves on the board of the Baltimore Harbor Watershed Association. She has a B.A. in political science and environmental studies from St. Mary's College of Maryland and is finishing her M.A. in geography and environmental planning from Towson University. She lives in Baltimore County, where she is working on the garden that she finally has room to grow.

The Allegheny Highlands Conservancy is a 501(c)(3) non-profit charitable organization. Donations may be sent to AHC, PO Box 333, McHenry, MD 21541. For additional information about AHC or becoming a member, persons may contact Kevin Dodge at 301-387-3328 or e-mail info@alleghenyhighlandsconservancy.org.

Melanoma And Skin Cancer Detection And Prevention Month Recognized

by Diane Lee, public information officer

The number of cases with melanoma, particularly among young women, has been increasing for several years, according to the National Cancer Institute. The American Cancer Society estimates that in 2008, approximately 1,110 Marylanders were diagnosed with melanoma skin cancer, the deadliest form of skin cancer accounting for 75% of skin cancer deaths.

Tanning facilities, as well as parents, guardians, and teens, should know that Maryland law requires minors to have parental consent in person to use a tanning bed. People need to be aware that ultraviolet radiation from tanning beds can cause skin cancer, and there is no such thing as a safe tan.

A year-round protection and avoidance of sun exposure and artificial ultraviolet (UV) radiation is the key in preventing skin cancer. People can reduce their risk of skin cancer by:

- limiting their exposure to UV light, especially between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m.;
- wearing sun protective hats and clothing, and sunglasses with UV protection when exposed to sunlight;
- using sunscreens and lip balms with an SPF of 15 or higher; and
- avoiding artificial sources of UV light, such as tanning booths and tanning lamps.

Other major risk factors of skin cancer include having a history of childhood sunburn, certain types of moles, fair skin, freckles, red or blond hair, and/or personal and family history of skin cancers. Spots on the skin that are new or that change in size, shape, or color require a physician's attention.

The two major groups of skin cancer are non-melanomas and melanomas. The most common forms of non-melanoma are basal cell and squamous cell cancers that rarely spread to other parts of the body. On the other hand, melanoma skin cancer, which develops from the melanocyte cells that produce melanin for skin color, is less common but accounts for 75% of skin cancer deaths and can spread to other parts of the body.

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and its local health departments and partners, such as the Maryland Skin Cancer Prevention Program of the Center for a Healthy Maryland, endeavor to educate Maryland residents to protect their skin from both natural and artificial sources of ultraviolet radiation.

Local W&L Law School Student Wins Scholarship

Kathy Pritts, a first-year law student at Washington and Lee University School of Law, has received the top scholarship from the Greater Richmond Bar Association and the Oliver W. Hill and Samuel W. Tucker Scholarship Committee.

Now in its ninth year of existence, the $2,500 scholarship award goes to an outstanding first-year law student enrolled at a Virginia law school or Howard University School of Law. Recipients are chosen based on academic achievement and a commitment to civil rights.

Pritts, who is from Oakland, has been active as both an undergraduate and law student with organizations that promote campus diversity.

At Cedarville University in Ohio, where she majored in international studies, she participated on several student government committees aimed at promoting multiculturalism on campus and raising awareness of the needs of minority student populations. At W&L, she is a member of the Black Law Students Association and will serve as the organization's treasurer during the next academic year.

"Oliver W. Hill and Samuel W. Tucker devoted their lives to achieving racial equality in Virginia and throughout America," said Pritts. "I am honored to receive this award, and hope to live up to the ideals and values it represents."

Pritts will spend this summer working for Advocates for Basic Legal Equality Inc. (ABLE), a legal aid provider based in Dayton, Ohio. She will perform outreach within Hispanic migrant worker populations, helping resolve legal issues involving immigration, fair wages, and housing.

Oliver Hill, who died at the age of 100 in August 2007, was a lifelong civil rights activist and attorney. He was one of five lawyers who argued the 1954 Brown v. Board of Education decision in which the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that segregated schools were unconstitutional.

In the 1960s, Hill and Samuel Tucker formed a law firm along with current Virginia state senator Henry Marsh. Tucker was the lead attorney in the U.S. Supreme Court case of Green v. New Kent County School

WOW CONVENTION HELD LOCALLY; YOUTH FLAG TEAM FEATURED - The 22nd Biennial Jurisdiction of Maryland, New Jersey, and Delaware Woodmen of the World Convention was held at the Wisp Resort on May 1-3. John Sines, jurisdictional president, welcomed all to the Friday evening ceremony. Following the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag, the Lodge #112 Youth Flag Team, directed by Linda Sanders, Lodge #11, presented "A History of Our Flags." A brief history was read as each of the 13 flags was held to show its design. Pictured left to right are Sines and team members Alexis Roth, Elizabeth Sines, Elaine Marple, and Mitchell Taylor. Partially hidden in the background is fraternal coordinator Phyllis Mervine. The flag team was treated to pizza, snacks, and games following their presentation. James W. Bridges, junior national director of WOW, was the keynote speaker Friday evening and at the Saturday night banquet. Other speakers throughout the convention were Mid-Atlantic manager Anthony Junk, Garrett County commissioner Denny Giotfelty, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross, Ms. Mervine, and Lodge #11 president and mayor of Oakland Asa McCain. Gary Galloway, principal of Dennett Road Elementary School, spoke briefly and accepted the fraternal project, consisting of cement slabs to be placed under the picnic tables at the school. Another fraternal project involved the placement of a flagpole, flag, and plaque in the area where Deputy David Livengood and his dog Sarge were murdered in 1979. A devotional service for the convention was led by Lodge #41 of Grantsville on Sunday morning followed by a few short reports and wrap-up of the weekend's events.

Board in 1968, which ended token integration practices.

Washington and Lee recently opened a law center in Hill's childhood home in Roanoke. The center's goal is to enhance access to justice efforts in Roanoke. Ongoing projects include serving older area residents with elder law issues, assisting ex-offenders with restoration of civil rights, and participating with the Roanoke Bar Association Rule of Law Project in area schools.

Pritts is a 2004 graduate of Southern Garrett High School. She is the daughter of Philip and Sylvia Pritts of Oakland.

Drug Treatment for Diabetic Pain

The term for diabetic-associated pain is peripheral neuropathy. This is a condition of pain and numbness of the nerves in the hands and feet. Diabetes is a common cause of peripheral neuropathy. More than 3 million Americans with diabetes experience neuropathic pain. Signs and symptoms may include tingling or burning sensations, sensitivity to touch, and muscle weakness. Because sensations may be decreased, persons with diabetes are advised to check their feet regularly to identify any minor injuries that could lead to serious infections if the injury is not noticed.

A variety of types of medications are available for the treatment of diabetic-associated pain, however, not all are approved by the Food and Drug Administration. Duloxetine, a selective serotonin and norepinephrine reuptake inhibitor, and pregabalin, an anticonvulsant, are medications approved specifically for treating diabetic peripheral neuropathic pain. Other anticonvulsant medications, such as carbamazepine and gabapentin, may be prescribed. Different types of antidepressants also may be prescribed. A lidocaine patch, a topical anesthetic, also may be applied to the skin in the area of most severe pain.

NAMED ESSAY FINALIST - Logan Yommer, a fourth grade student at Grantsville Elementary School, was one of five top finalists in the district's Maryland Municipal League's "If I Were Mayor, I Would" essay contest. Pictured above with Logan are his teacher, Kimberly Paul, and Paul Edwards, Grantsville mayor. Edwards visited the school in March to discuss local and state government. During his visit, he introduced the students to the essay contest. Logan is the son of Randy and Jan Yommer, Grantsville.

LOCAL TOWN DEEMED TREE CITY USA - Oakland was recently named a Tree City USA community in honor of its commitment to community forestry. This is the seventh year Oakland has received this national recognition. Pictured, left to right, are Becky Wilson, Maryland Department of Natural Resources; Oakland mayor Asa McCain; and Randy Sialar, Timberjax Tree Service. The Tree City USA program is sponsored by the Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the National Association of State Foresters and the USDA Forest Service. Oakland has met the four standards to become a Tree City USA community: having a tree board or department, a tree care ordinance, a comprehensive community forestry program, and an Arbor Day observance and proclamation. Tree City communities also recognize that: Trees promote healthier communities (leaves filter the air by removing dust and other particles); trees moderate climate, conserve water, and provide habitat for wildlife; trees in urban areas reduce the heat island effect caused by pavement and buildings; and properly placed trees can increase property values, and buildings in wooded areas rent more quickly and tenants stay longer. More information can be found at arborday.org/TreeCityUSA.

Alumni Association Of SGHS To Award Two Scholarships

The Southern Garrett High School Alumni Association board recently announced that the association will award two $4,000 scholarships this spring to two graduating seniors.

The scholarships are in the amount of $1,000 each per year for up to four years, provided a minimum GPA of 2.5 is maintained. Criteria for selection includes financial need; at least a 75% GPA; plans to attend a four-year college or university; participation in school and community activities; academic and career goals; and a 250-word essay addressing the statement "What Southern High School Means To Me."

All applications will be reviewed by the faculty and staff at Southern, and the two recipients of the scholarships will be announced the evening of the Senior Awards Assembly.

According to Rob Sharps, president of the association, "The board is excited that the association is able to provide this financial support to two deserving seniors. The alumni who are funding these scholarships value the importance of higher education and appreciate the positive influence that Southern High played in their lives."

This will bring the total amount of scholarships funded by the Alumni Association over the last six years to $40,000.

PRINTED ON RECYCLED PAPER

THE DIABOLICAL DOUBLE, a 128-mile bicycle ride in Garrett County (and a small segment in Allegany County), is now considered by some of the top cyclists as one of the most grueling, most beautiful experiences in the entire world. Seven world-class riders completed the course, which features 15,000 feet in ascending and descending altitude, on Monday, which was just the third time it was ever attempted, and second time that it was completed. The ride was selected by Rapha Continental, maker of the cycling apparel and accessories, to be included in its 2009 tour of North America's Top 25 Epic Rides, selected from some 3,000 rides. Rapha sent the team of cyclists and a photography crew to Garrett County to ride and document the Deep Creek Diabolical Double as part of its 2009 Epic Ride Tour. One of the riders is silhouetted above creating one of the many climbs just north of Westernport. See article in the sports section. Photo by Karlo Gesner.

Two Men Suffer Serious Injuries In ATV Accident

Two Mt. Airy men were seriously injured in a 5 a.m. ATV accident on private property off Rt. 40, Grantsville, last Saturday.

More Than $38 Million Up For Grabs In Unclaimed Property Supplement

Maryland Comptroller Peter Franchot announced yesterday that his office will issue a 128-page advertising supplement over the next three weeks to try to find 54,000 recently identified owners of more than $38 million in unclaimed funds. The supplement will appear in 25 newspapers throughout the state, beginning this week and running through Thursday, June 4.

The supplement will appear in The Republican next Thursday, May 28.

"It is our mission at the comptroller's office to serve the people of Maryland," said Comptroller Franchot. "Part of that service is to connect them with unclaimed funds so they get what they own."

Financial institutions, utilities, insurance companies, and other corporations are required to report to the comptroller any bank accounts, security deposits, wages, insurance benefits, and contents of safe deposit boxes that have been unclaimed after three years. Funds remain the property of the owners or their legitimate heirs and can be claimed anytime. There is no statute of limitations.

Franchot urges anyone who finds his/her name in the supplement to contact his office toll-free at 1-800-782-7383, to find out how to make a claim. He also notes that anyone can check the agency's complete unclaimed property records online for free at either www.marylandtaxes.com or www.missingmoney.com. The agency has records on approximately 787,000 accounts worth more than $795 million.

In addition, numerous property items held by the agency that remain unclaimed are now eligible for auction on eBay. Since this program began in July 2006, nearly 3,500 items have been sold, totaling nearly $480,000. The items can be viewed and bid on by Continued on Page A-11

The offices of The Republican will be closed Monday, May 25, in observance of the Memorial Day holiday. Advertising and news deadlines will remain the same. Offices will resume normal hours on Tuesday, May 26.

Man Killed In Collision After Failing To Yield

An Oakland man was killed Wednesday afternoon in a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of Sand Flat Road and Garrett Highway.

Maryland State Police responded to the 1 p.m. accident, where Gilbert Earl Harvey, 97, was pronounced dead at the scene. Preliminary investigation revealed that Harvey, who was driving a 2002 Chevy Tracker, pulled out in front of a 1998 Dodge Ram operated by John Mark Miller, 47, also of Oakland.

Northern Rescue Squad, Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company, and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office also responded to the scene. The accident remains under investigation.

Charlie Ross To Step Down As GC Chamber President

The Greater Susquehanna Valley Chamber of Commerce in Shamokin Dam, Pa., announced Tuesday that Charlie Ross has been appointed president after a nationwide search. Ross is currently president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

The Garrett County native will succeed James Hartman, who has been serving as interim president for the GSVCC since Jan. 1. Ross will begin work in mid-June.

"Charlie has very strong leadership credentials and chamber experience," Joseph Cipriani, chair of the GSVCC board of directors, stated in a press release. "We were very fortunate to have a strong pool of qualified candidates, and Charlie stood out for his understanding of rural issues as well as his clear commitment to advocacy, education, and economic development. The GSVCC board is very enthusiastic about welcoming Charlie and his wife Cherie to the area."

Ross has been the president of the local chamber since 2002. During his tenure, the chamber's membership doubled to more than 750 members and tourism increased threefold, according to the press release. He has initiated and managed Continued on Page A-11

MARYLAND'S 2009 NATIONAL DISTINGUISHED PRINCIPAL is none other than Dr. Dana McCauley, principal of Crellin Elementary School, who received that honor at a recent state meeting of the Maryland Association of Elementary School Principals, held in Baltimore. The award, sponsored by the National Association of Elementary School Principals, recognizes excellence in elementary and middle level school leadership. The criterion is that the honoree must be a practicing principal with at least five years of experience in a principalship that demonstrates evidence of outstanding contributions to the community and to the education profession. Further, the school must be clearly committed to excellence, have programs designed to meet the academic and social needs of all students, and have firm ties to parents and the community. Several other Garrett County elementary school principals were at the presentation. From left above are: Karen DeVore, principal of Accident Elementary; Suzie Sincell, principal of Broad Ford Elementary; Dr. McCauley; Richard Stevens, principal of Kitzmiller Elementary; and Gary Galloway, principal of Dennett Road Elementary.

Garrett County To Receive $183,013 In POS Funding

Gov. Martin O'Malley yesterday announced the Board of Public Works (BPW) approval of $183,013 for six park improvement projects in Garrett County through Program Open Space.

"Protecting our lands and providing spaces for young Marylanders to learn about their rich natural and cultural heritage are vital to creating a generation of informed, responsible stewards," O'Malley said. "Through Program Open Space, we ensure that our children will have the opportunity to connect with nature at an early age and build upon that connection as they grow."

The Garrett County projects and their allocations are as follows:

- $72,830 to install energy efficient lighting for the existing walking trail at Glades West Park in Oakland.

- $64,800 for construction of a parking area for the athletic fields at Loch Lynn Heights Athletic Complex, which serves several hundred youth from the surrounding communities and southern areas of Garrett County.

- $5,998 to add aluminum bleachers and garbage receptacles at Accident Town Park East.

- $11,385 to upgrade the softball field at Northern High School to improve its safety for the students and community.

- $20,200 to construct a new basketball court and Continued on Page A-16

Maj. Gen. Joseph Franklin To Speak At Flag On Mtn. Maryland Celebration

The fifth annual Flag on Mountain Maryland celebration will be held Sunday, June 14, at the Lodge at Wisp Resort, McHenry. The keynote speaker will be retired U.S. Army Maj. Gen. Joseph Franklin.

A Cumberland native, Franklin won a competitive appointment to the U.S. Military Academy in 1951, and graduated in 1955 with a commission in the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. His early Army assignments included combat engineer duties in Germany and command of a nuclear-powered research camp on the Greenland ice cap.

He earned master of science degrees in civil and nuclear engineering from MIT, and in 1965-68 taught the first nuclear engineering course at West Point, and then commanded a combat engineer battalion in Vietnam.

Franklin has served at the Pentagon and Fort Knox, and in 1979 was appointed commandant of cadets at West Point. Following his

The Summer Voice Clinic and the Young Artists' Workshop are summer class series for middle and high school students. The voice clinic, set for June 22/26, is taught by Amy Riffe-Kouyess and is available for students who are entering 7th grade through graduating seniors. The clinic will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at St. Paul's Methodist Church, Oakland. The Young Artists' Workshop will be taught by Laura Stutzman and is open to students entering 8th grade through graduating seniors. It will be held July 6-10, 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day, at the Garrett College Art Gallery. The piece shown here is a product of last year's workshop — a painting of buttons, compiled by the students. The registration fee for each workshop is $100. Scholarships are available. To register or receive more information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 301-387-3082. Registrations are also available online through the GLAF web site, located at www.artsandentertainment.org. Minimum enrollments are necessary.

Reservations are strongly encouraged and may be made by calling the theatre at 301-334-5840. Tickets are $5 on Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday, and $8 on Friday and Saturday. (A special dress rehearsal performance will be open

Woman Provides Alcohol To Minors, Receives Jail Time

A Kitzmiller woman was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday for providing alcohol to minors. Andrea Dawn Overstreet, 32, had pleaded guilty earlier this month to four counts of providing alcohol to four minors last spring and was fined $200 for each of the charges.

She had pleaded not guilty to four related counts of causing or contributing to children being in need of supervision, and agreed to proceed by way of a statement of facts presented to the court by State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

On Monday, Judge Jim Sherbin found Overstreet guilty of these charges after legal argument was presented by Welch and Overstreet's attorney, William A. Saltsiak. Overstreet was then sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail for each count, to run consecutively, with all of that Garrett County Sheriff's Office last May after it was determined that she had taken juveniles to various locations to consume alcohol on at least four occasions.

Man Taken To GCMH After Car Hits Culvert

A Swanton area man was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a single-vehicle accident Sunday evening on Maryland Highway west of Sand Flat Road.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies learned that Brandon William Roberson, 20, had been attempting to send a text message while operating a 2002 Ford Focus west on Maryland Highway. His vehicle crossed the center lane and struck a culvert that had been placed along the eastbound lane ditch line.

He sustained minor injuries, for which Southern Rescue Squad transported him to GCMH. Deer Park Fire Department also assisted at the scene.

No citations were issued by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

New Law Permits Use Of Speed Cameras At Work Zones, Schools

With safety advocates by his side, Governor Martin O'Malley on Tuesday signed into law Senate Bill 277 permitting the use of speed cameras in highway work zones and within a ½-mile radius of Maryland schools. The new legislation makes significant strides toward improving safety for roadway workers, school children, and motorists in general.

"The overriding goal of the speed camera program in construction work and school zones is not to catch speeders, it is to get drivers to slow down," said Governor O'Malley. "We've seen the heartache that results when people break the law and drive recklessly without regard for themselves, innocent school children or dedicated highway workers. Speed cameras in work zones and near schools will encourage drivers to do what they should already be doing: driving responsibly, staying alert, and traveling the posted speed limit."

In 2007, a negligent driver killed Maryland State

LOCAL ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS HONORED — Three Garrett County elementary schools received recognition last week at the spring meeting of the Instructional Consultation Team Consortium, held at the Maplehurst Country Club in Frostburg. Yough Glades, Dennett Road, and Broad Ford schools each received a certificate of recognition for achieving high implementation of instructional consultation teams for two or more consecutive years. Pictured from left above, seated, are Jill Wakefield, ICT facilitator at Yough Glades Elementary, and Keith Harvey, Yough Glades principal. Standing are: Gary Galloway, principal, and Pat Foley, ICT facilitator, at Dennett Road Elementary; Lauren Kaiser, facilitator/trainer from the University of Maryland; and Amy Burgess, ICT facilitator, and Suzie Sincell, principal, at Broad Ford Elementary.

Highway Administration (SHA) employee Rick Moser while he cleared debris from an interchange ramp in Frederick County. His widow, Laurie Moser, and their children, 22-year-old Rachael and 12-year-old Carl, have been strong advocates for safer work zones through education and awareness.

"Our efforts are not only about trying to make sense of Rick's death, but also about preventing another family from experiencing our tragedy, and this is what the speed camera bill will help do," said Laurie Moser. "How can one argue against safer roads, particularly for those who make the roadway their 'offices' each day?"

As a school teacher, Mrs. Moser also supports speed cameras in school zones.

The new law, scheduled to take effect October 1, authorizes speed camera programs in school zones and highway construction work zones. In school zones, speed cameras can only be placed within a ½-mile radius around a school and may only be operational from Monday through Friday between the hours of 6 a.m. and 8 p.m.

In work zones, speed cameras may be placed along expressways and controlled access roadways with a speed limit of at least 45 mph. SHA is forming a team to work with law enforcement on details regarding implementation of the program. SHA plans to install highly visible signage advising motorists of speed cameras in order to slow people down before they enter work zones. It should be noted that national statistics show that in four out of five work-zone-related crashes it is the motorist or one's passengers who are injured or killed.

Other provisions of the legislation permitting the limited use of speed cameras include the following:

- Speed cameras cannot be used on major bridges and tunnels.

- A citation may only be issued if driver is going at least 12 mph faster than the speed limit.

- Conspicuous signs must be posted to give drivers adequate notice.

- Upon implementation of the program, a 30-day warning period is required before any tickets are given.

- Fines cannot exceed $40. The district court will set the specific amount.

over to the comptroller.

"For three years, net revenues collected from fines generated by speed cameras in work zones will go to an account for state police roadside enforcement activities.

"Ideally, every motorist will slow down and stay alert in work zones, limiting the number of speeding violations issued through the camera system," said State Highway Administrator Neil J. Pedersen, who also serves as the governor's highway safety representative. "If we issue no citations, but drivers slow down and prevent tragic crashes, then the program will be a success."

To My Dearest Family

Some things I'd like to say but first of all to let you know that I arrived okay. I'm writing this from Heaven where I dwell with God above, where there's no more tears or sadness there, just eternal Love.

Please do not be unhappy just because I'm out of sight. Remember that I'm with you every morning, noon, and night.

That day I had to leave you when my life on Earth was through, God picked me up and hugged me and He said, "I welcome you."

It's good to have you back again, you were missed while you were gone; as for your dearest family, they'll be here later on.

I need you here so badly as part of My big plan. There's so much that we have to do to help our mortal man.

Then God gave me a list of things He wished for me to do, and foremost on that list of mine is to watch and care for you.

And I will be beside you every day and week and year, and when you're sad I'm standing there to wipe away the tear.

And when you lie in bed at night the day's chores put to flight, God and I are closest to you in the middle of the night.

When you think of my life on Earth and all those loving years, because you're only human they are bound to bring you tears. But do not be afraid to cry, it does relieve the pain, remember there would be no flowers unless there was some rain.

I wish that I could tell you all that God has planned, but if I were to tell you, you wouldn't understand. But one thing is for certain though my life on Earth is over, I am closer to you now than I ever was before.

And to my very many friends, trust God knows what is best. I'm still not far away from you, I'm just beyond the crest.

There are rocky roads ahead of you and many hills to climb, but together we can do it taking one day at a time.

It was always my philosophy and I'd like it for you too, that as you give unto the World so the World will give to you.

If you can somebody who is in sorrow or in pain, then you can say to God at night, "My day was not in vain." And now I am contented that my life it was worthwhile, knowing as I passed along the way I made somebody smile.

So if you meet somebody who is down and feeling low just lend a hand to pick him up as on your way you go.

When you are walking down the street and you've got me on your mind, I'm walking in your footsteps only half a step behind.

And when you feel the gentle breeze or the wind upon your face, that's me giving you a great big hug or just a soft embrace.

And when it's time for you to go from that body to be free, remember you're not going, you are coming here to me.

And I will always love you from that land way up above. Will be in touch again soon.

P.S. God sends His Love

Love,
Bryan

A Problematic Law...

Among the new laws passed this year by the Maryland General Assembly was one that will allow the use of speed cameras by law enforcement officials along highway work areas and school zones throughout the state. At first glance, it seems like a good law. Speeding kills, and among the most vulnerable are pedestrians in both of the aforementioned areas. If drivers are endangering these innocent, unprotected persons by exceeding the posted limit, they should be punished. More importantly, the law should certainly save some lives.

However, an "experiment" with speed cameras being permitted in Montgomery County over the past couple of years has really muddled the waters of that first glance.

The cameras are placed so that the photos reveal the license number of the speeding vehicle. The owner of that vehicle, who is not necessarily the driver, then receives the fine and is responsible for paying it. So in the case of a driver being someone other than the owner, it is the owner who is branded guilty in the eyes of the court and its records. The average motorist who receives a speed camera ticket can either fight it in court or send in a check. However, the amount of time and effort necessary to get a speed camera ticket dismissed is substantial. As a result, most drivers — even innocent ones — choose to just pay the ticket in order to avoid taking time off work to go to court. That's a problem.

Something else that has occurred in Montgomery County is the "cloning" of license plates, or simply stealing the tags off another vehicle and placing the illegal tags on one's own car. Obviously, if that driver speeds in front of the camera, the fine will be sent to a totally innocent owner of another vehicle. That's a problem.

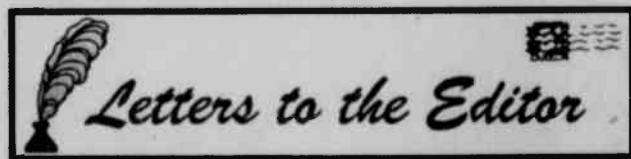

Further, among the thousands of drivers who have been issued $40 fines in Montgomery County are scores of county police officers. The difference is, many of the officers are refusing to pay. Why should they? The owner is responsible, and the owner of the police cars — technically the "guilty" party — is, of course, Montgomery County. During the last eight months of 2007, the department's cameras recorded 224 instances in which county police vehicles were nabbed traveling more than 10 mph over the speed limit. Of those citations, 76 were dismissed after supervisors determined that officers were responding to calls or had other valid reasons to exceed the speed limit. Nearly two-thirds of the remaining 148 fines have not been paid, including an unspecified number that "remain under investigation." That's a problem.

To make matters worse, a couple of officers were photographed speeding past a camera and extending a middle finger. Nice. That does just wonders for the relationship between law enforcement and the general public. That's a problem.

In at least one case, a driver was tailgated by another vehicle in a speed-camera zone. He slowed down to the point of almost stopping, but the tailgater did not pass him. Finally, he speeded up to put some distance between him and the tailgater, exceeding the posted limit in the process and ultimately getting a ticket. He finally pulled off the road and the tailgater came around him — the tailgater was a police cruiser. That's a problem.

The speed cameras can now be placed throughout the state, but it seems that all of the aforementioned problems have yet to be solved.

The intent of most laws is usually worthy and relatively simplistic, but implementation often brings a host of completely unexpected complications.

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to feedback received regarding the county moving to a self-insured (self-funded) healthcare platform.

The primary comments were clustered around the theme that Maryland self-funds and therefore, so should Garrett County. Maryland self-funds, yes. But, Maryland affords the identical protections to employees as it would otherwise if it had continued a purchased plan. Unlike Maryland, there is no edict that Garrett County follow suit.

Obviously, there are both the pros and cons in any issue, but the public is entitled to have good faith that a complete examination occurred. This is the expectation of an environment where participatory management exists.

As far as local cost savings go, several cost drivers that will discount initial savings were identified in other letters. They included the material change in scope necessitating a rebid, increased costs in medical care for a mostly baby-boomer employee population, newly added middle ground, and various reinsurance plans to pay for excesses and high cost procedures as well as any potential litigation.

So, now let's examine Maryland as our model for the cost efficiencies found in self-funding healthcare platforms. Indulge me, I am not a subject-matter expert.

Prima facie here are the findings of the Office of Legislative Audits regarding the Office of Personnel Management and Benefits. In synopsis, the auditors found that the state:

- Made overpayments in amount of 10.2 million dollars;
- Failed to collect 700,000 in prescription rebates;
- Incurred an 11.7% increase in benefit payments from 2007 to 2008;
- Failed to sanction the HMO involved in unauthorized "drug-switching" activity in the prescription plan;
- Failed to properly procure and document the bidding process;
- Has deficiencies in internal controls.

According to the research, erecting privacy firewalls between the claims department, human resources, and administration in mega-corporations is problematic.

It stands to reason that smaller entities will face similar challenges. As a local case in point, readers may go to www.co.garrett.md.us/Purchasing/CurrentBids/GroupHealthInsuranceMeetingMinutes.pdf to find pre-proposal notes from a January 2008 bidders conference where self-funding was identified as a viable option and where the responses serve as fodder for additional points of inquiry, including potential HIPAA violations. As reflected in these notes, the county, which serves as what is known as a hybrid entity, admits to releasing individual enrollee protected health information rather than aggregate data.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

I get pretty sad when grandchildren have to stay in foster care for more than a year because parents can't agree on anything. They are letting the children suffer because of what they did. Meanwhile, when grandparents do everything by the book, it seems to me that they are the ones being punished because of everything going on.

The law has not changed one bit. Why should people have to go to court all the time when it's the same old stuff. Social Services needs to stop putting the children through this mess. Children need to be with grandparents after being abused by parents, no matter what. People usually lie to get what they want, and it doesn't matter to them who they hurt.

Anyone who has problems like this should not go to Social Services because they act like they want to help, but they don't. They want to put children back with their parents, and when they do, the children get hurt again. They should just let the grandparents raise the grandchildren.

Editor's note: The following two letters appeared in last week's issue; however, a technical problem made portions of them illegible.

To the Editor:

Once again Mr. Maisano, the wind energy industry spokesman, has denied attempts by Garrett County citizens who are simply asking for reasonable regulations to control wind energy developers, who will do whatever they can to maximize profits no matter who it hurts. Those developers don't care about the safety of adjacent property owners, the environment, or our mountains. All they want is as much return on investment as they can get. They think the wind energy debate in Garrett County is all about making money.

This is why I get so upset with Mr. Maisano, the wind developers, and the county commissioners, who continue to proclaim how great wind plants will be for Garrett County, while continuing to totally ignore or even belittle legitimate issues, especially safety issues. I am sure that none of the wind plants that Mr. Maisano refers to in other states include huge, 400-foot-plus turbines placed less than 400 feet from residential areas, as Synergics Wind Energy plans to do on Backbone Mountain. Mr. Maisano's statement that this is an "over-blown, perceived negative impact" is outrageous and irresponsible.

Most other jurisdictions have regulations in place to balance the interests of the wind developers with those of the public. Not so in Garrett County. So pardon me for not thanking our commissioners when they kowtow to the wind developers and ignore their obligations to protect the public.

When Mr. Maisano and his cohorts begin to address issues of safety and adequate setbacks, we can begin to seriously debate their other points. Until then, it is they, not the concerned citizens of Garrett County, who are spreading misinformation.

Pets can receive vaccinations when they are 3 months of age. Maryland law requires cats, dogs, and ferrets to have vaccinations when they are 4 months of age and older. The first rabies shot that a pet receives is good for one year. After that, the rabies shot for a dog or cat is good for three years. Ferrets must be vaccinated annually against rabies.

Monetary donations will be used for the postage to mail the packages, and all donations are tax deductible. Receipts will be given upon request.

To dispose of a faded or torn flag properly, the Deer Park area VFW holds a burning ceremony. This year, VFW members will not be doing the ceremony after the Flag Day program but will hold a separate service on Saturday, June 27, beginning at 1 p.m. at their post in Deer Park. Collection containers will be available inside the Lodge at Wisp during the June 14 program for anyone who has a flag to be retired.

The Flag on Mountain Maryland program is a joint venture between area volunteers and the American Flag Foundation. The local planning group is in the process of forming a non-profit foundation to move forward with the Flag Day program and other events in future years.

THE EXISTENCE OF TRAILS in Garrett County goes back to nearly the 1700s, and many of those trails, or a section of them, are traveled on today. The early pioneers and travelers trekked across on what are now both roads and an extensive network of planned and functioning recreational trails. Garrett Trails, the non-profit organization responsible for developing trails in the region, is building trails to celebrate the adventurous and independent spirit of the area's founders. See the second article in a series that focuses on the history of Garrett County's trail system in today's issue.

Local History, Garrett Trails Cross Paths

Editor's note: The following article is the second in a series submitted by Garrett Trails, a non-profit organization responsible for developing trails in the region.

In the 1750s, General Braddock of the British Army led his troops along an old Indian trail to what is now Pittsburgh. Braddock's march marked a path that has since evolved from Indian hunting trails to a drovers' and merchants' trade routes to the National Road, Route 40.

After the American Revolution, European settlers followed trails that Native Americans and early European armies had carved, building a new country. Using the National Road, Meadow and Savage mountains in the north and McCulloch's Path and trails leading from the Potomac River in the south, travelers and pioneers moved to and through Garrett County on what are now both roads and also an extensive network of planned and functioning recreational trails.

Today, Garrett Trails, the non-profit organization responsible for developing trails in the region, is building trails to celebrate the adventurous and independent spirit of the area's founders.

On some Garrett County trails, one can find evidence of wagon trains that carried those new Americans escaping religious persecution; those wanting a different climate for farming and hunting; and those seeking autonomy and beauty away from industrializing cities.

On other trails in the county, hikers and bikers come across abandoned mines and Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) camps such as the Fire Tower road at Deep Creek Lake State Park that leads to Brant's Mine, and the cabins at

With Close Contacts, Md. Wind Project Gets Boost
By Lisa Rein

Washington Post Staff Writer
Monday, July 23, 2007; B01

When his plan for clean energy ran smack into a rare habitat on a rocky Appalachian ridge, Annapolis businessman Wayne L. Rogers turned to people he knew could help: his contacts in the Maryland General Assembly.

State law and the environmental protections it afforded all but scuttled his proposal last year for 24 windmills atop Backbone Mountain at the state's western edge. So Rogers waged a successful campaign to have the law changed — and environmental review gutted — for wind-energy projects such as his.

The case began three years ago when Rogers, a well-connected Maryland Democrat, applied to put up 26-story wind turbines on the state's highest spot, in Garrett County, 1½ miles from the West Virginia line. The wind farm, he said, could power 20,000 homes.

Wind farms are turning air into electricity across the country. But they've been a tough sell in Maryland, where the best gusts blow on a steep, craggy habitat for birds, bats and other wildlife, land well protected by state regulations.

In November, regulators granted Rogers a limited permit for fewer windmills, citing possible damage to the mountaintop habitat. That month, he joined the transition team of then-Gov.-elect Martin O'Malley (D), who tapped Rogers's expertise as an energy adviser to power producers and governments. Among the policies advocated by the team that Rogers led: expanded wind power and less regulation.

As the General Assembly session got underway in January, Rogers, arguing that the law was too restrictive, turned to a powerful lobbyist and a top Democratic lawmaker in Annapolis. They helped win passage of a bill eliminating environmental review for wind farms no larger than 70 megawatts. Rogers's proposal fit under the cap at 40 megawatts. He plans to reapply for a permit at the same spot.

"What they really did was an end run around the entire approval process," said Bob DeGroot, an activist fighting wind projects in Western Maryland. "Because of the potential to kill millions of birds from global warming emissions, we're going to kill millions of birds" with wind turbines.

Rogers defended the new law, approved overwhelmingly by the legislature and signed into law by O'Malley in April, as a reflection of the state's emphasis on renewable energy. It brings Maryland's policy more in line with those of neighboring states, he said.

"The entire industry looked at Maryland as a laggard," Rogers said. "To get 90 percent of the legislature to agree on anything is way beyond politics." Two wind farms have been approved in Maryland, but neither has been built. No others are in the pipeline.

Rogers's business interests effectively decided the debate among environmentalists over what takes precedence: developing wind power or protecting nature.

Rogers is an international developer of hydroelectric power plants, including in China and Guatemala. He is also a former chairman of the state Democratic Party and a prolific donor to a who's who of Democrats, including Sen. Hillary Rodham Clinton of New York and O'Malley. Rogers was finance chairman of Benjamin L. Cardin's successful 2006 run for U.S. Senate in Maryland and Maryland chairman of Sen. John F. Kerry's 2004 presidential campaign. He is also a major fundraiser for Clinton's presidential bid.

To overcome the state's regulatory hurdles, Rogers, 52, enlisted Gerard E. Evans, one of Annapolis's top lobbyists. One of Evans's closest allies in the Maryland State House is the powerful Senate president, Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr. (D-Calvert). Evans began his career as an aide in Miller's office, and Miller is godfather to Evans's twin daughters.

Rogers and Miller share long ties through Democratic politics, and two of Rogers's businesses contributed a combined $8,000 to Miller's campaign committee in 2004, records show. In January, Miller submitted the wind energy bill that Rogers sought.

"What we heard was that wind power was taking a back seat to protecting bats, rats and owls," Miller said.

When the Public Service Commission issued Rogers's Synergies Wind Energy LLC its limited permit, it concluded that the project "would result in significant adverse impacts to threatened and endangered species," citing concerns raised by the state Department of Natural Resources.

C. Ronald Franks, who was then the department secretary, said he advised the agency's scientists to be judicious.

"I said I do not want them stopped for some minor, trivial situation," Franks recalled. "But by the same token, I did not want to give them carte blanche to ruin an endangered habitat."

A frustrated Rogers called opponents of the project "a small band of anti-wind extremists" at a meeting of wind developers, policy experts and state officials in December. He concluded that his wind farm would not be economically feasible with fewer than 19 turbines.

The governor's 21-page transition report on Maryland's energy future echoed those sentiments, lamenting that "not a single utility-scale wind power facility" has been completed in Maryland, "despite years of effort by a number of companies."

Rogers testified in favor of the bill at a hearing, citing many of the policy goals listed in the transition report he helped develop.

The Department of Natural Resources, which had conducted the lengthy environmental review of the Synergies project and opposed the bill, did not provide testimony before the committee. When two of the agency's top wildlife scientists showed up, they were told by DNR's legislative staff member that they could not testify, according to several people who are familiar with the case and spoke on condition of anonymity because of the political nature of the bill. The department's name was crossed off the witness list of opponents, records show.

DNR spokeswoman Olivia Campbell referred questions to the governor's office. Spokesman Rick Abbruzzese said officials submitted written remarks on the bill that were sufficient.

Overall, he said, the governor has made it a priority to find alternatives to coal and nuclear energy. "There's a balancing act that needs to be established between finding those sources of energy and preserving our environment," he said.

The General Assembly approved the measure with little debate. One of the few lawmakers to vote against it was Sen. George C. Edwards, a Garrett County Republican whose district includes Backbone Mountain. Edwards said he supports wind power to help lessen the country's reliance on imported oil. "But I didn't like the way [the bill] came in," he said, alluding to the political clout of Synergies in Annapolis.

With the new law, approval of Rogers's full project appears virtually certain. Jim Boone, the commission's staff counsel, said in an interview. "It seems pretty clear that the law provides an option for a streamlined approval for wind projects that was not available to the company before."

Regulators still are required to consider a proposed wind farm's safety and reliability. But they can no longer deny turbines on the grounds that they damage the environment. And opponents no longer can appeal the granting of a permit, as happened to Clipper Windpower Inc., whose project was tied up in court from 2003 until the challenge was rejected last month. The state has approved a third wind farm in Western Maryland that has not yet been built.

Rogers said the wind power law will benefit future developers and help "rein in an energy crisis" in Maryland. "Everyone benefited from the legislation," he said.

Staff researcher Meg Smith contributed to this report.

Adorable Adoptables

ONLY CATS ARE AVAILABLE this week at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. They include a young gray one with white markings, an adult white feline with orange markings (plus two siblings not pictured), and an adult tabby with a spot on his nose. "These felines plus several other cats varying in color and age can be seen and petted at the county shelter," said a Humane Society spokesperson. "Several cats were adopted last week, but the white one is still here. Last week's black Lab was adopted, and several dogs were taken to rescue by HART. Many dogs come in weekly wearing no IDs or licenses to enable us to contact their owners. If your dog is not reclaimed in three days, it can be adopted out or taken to rescue. In extreme cases when the dog kennels (numbering only 12) are full, dogs may have to be euthanized to make room for more. So your dog's life depends on you. Please put IDs on your pets!" For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

FIRST "WOMEN BUILD" A SUCCESS – Garrett County Habitat for Humanity's first "Women Build" was held recently and was deemed a success. Twenty area women met at a building site on May 9 with the assignment of paring the walls of two block foundations. The group was led by Sondra Buckel, clerk of Garrett County Circuit Court; and Amber Bernard, credit coordinator for Lowe's. Stephanie Gray was also involved in the planning and will lead another women build later this month. Civic Club of Oakland members, led by Ellen Fritz, also took part. Laura McClean, the home partner, worked on two different homes. Others volunteering were Lara Hollingsworth, Terry Riley, Heather Broadwater, Paula Blank, Susan Kellam, Nancy Snow, Deb Taylor, Barbara Frantz, Nancy Lewis, Dial Burt, JoAnn Lewis, Elizabeth McClean, Linda Burdock, Julia Jordan, and Nancy Jordan. Habitat will host a second Women Build day on May 30 starting at 8 a.m. at a property along Frank Custer Drive off Broadford Road. Lunch will be provided. Interested persons may contact Habitat by calling 301-533-0600.

GC Arts Council Displaying Photos By J. M. Reed

The Garrett County Arts Council is currently featuring the work of local photographer J. Michael Reed. An exhibit of more than 30 of his photographs will be on exhibit through June 19 at the Gallery, located along Alder Street in Oakland.

Reed is a self-taught photographer with an interest in outdoor, nature, and landscape photography. A native of West Virginia, he took basic photography courses while in college at Fairmont State College. He is a member of the Mountaintop Photography Club and has won numerous club competitions. His work has been featured in both the 2008 Clear Mountain Bank and 2009 Garrett County Memorial Hospital calendars. He was awarded Best of Show in the semi-professional category at the 2008 Garrett County Fair.

"If you see my work, you will notice that I almost exclusively use black and white frames," Reed said. "Since black is achromatic, I feel that using black to mat and frame allows the viewer's eye to go right to the photograph, which then does not compete with the framing for attention."

Reed said his love of photography influenced his career choice of being a radiologic technician. He is currently the director of radiology at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, a position he has held for more than 20 years. He resides in McHenry with his wife Patricia.

Reed's work may be viewed at the Gallery during normal business hours of 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday. A reception celebrating the artist will be held there on Thursday, June 11, from 5 to 7 p.m. The reception is open to all members of the Garrett County Arts Council, as well as to the public.

THE WILDWATER WALKING CLUB by Claire Cook

C. 2009, Voice/Hyperion, $24.99; 239 pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

No matter how hard you've tried, you know you can't do it yourself.

You're determined to shed those winter pounds. You will wear that swimsuit. You're going to lower your blood pressure if it ... well, if it kills you. And you're determined to de-stress before summer arrives, even if it takes 'til next summer to do it.

But you can't do it yourself. What you need is an exercise buddy, someone who will encourage you, inside and out.

In the new novel The Wildwater Walking Club by Claire Cook, three women find friendship and lose inches.

Noreen Kelly wasn't looking to quit her job, but when the acquisition went through and the buyout was offered, Balancing Act Shoes made a too-irresistible offer.

Besides, Noreen's boyfriend Michael painted such a glorious picture of their life after job. Although he worked for the new company — in the exact same position that Noreen had — he told her that he wouldn't be there long, either. Once they each accepted a buyout, they could travel cross-country together.

Nice thought. But on the morning after Noreen took the cash, Michael was mysteriously AWOL. He refused her calls. He walked out of her life.

Bereft, jobless, and boyfriendless, Noreen took stock of her situation.

The mirror wasn't kind. Late nights at the office and on-the-fly eating took their toll. She was 40-something and fat. Exercise and a new project — maybe yard work — was what she needed. She began exploring her Massachusetts neighborhood. Walking was good exercise, right?

It was, and it led Noreen to her neighbors, who vowed to help keep her on the right path and keep her company on her walks. And as they walked, they talked and hashed out the issues of their lives. Tess had a rocky relationship with her daughter. Rosie had an ailing father and a lavender farm that needed constant tending. And Noreen still had Michael-on-the-brain.

But sometimes, taking extra steps makes you lose pounds and gain perspective. Sometimes, a trip, a skip, and a few steps in the right direction are just what every woman needs to see things in a different light.

From your first glimpse of the cover to the end of the story, The Wildwater Walking Club practically screams "Girlfriend Book." You know when you've got it in your hand that you'll want to pass it on when you're done with it. You know your friends will love it as much as you will.

Though it's light, breezy, and quick to read, what I found most appealing about this book is the realism of the three main characters. Author Claire Cook didn't make Noreen, Tess, or Rosie rich, fabulously wealthy, or model-beautiful. They're just women trying to get through life without too many bruises. Haven't we all walked in similar shoes?

Perfect for book groups, a late-Mother's Day gift, or for tucking in your suitcase or overnighter, The Wildwater Walking Club is a girlfriend's delight. If you're someone who loves to share her favorite reads, take steps to get this book soon.

Southern Band To Give Annual Spring Concert

The Southern Garrett High School concert band will present its annual spring concert on Thursday, May 28, beginning at 7 p.m.

Under the direction of Joshua Elminger, the concert will include a wide variety of musical styles. Special awards will be presented, as well as this year's additions to the Southern Band Wall of Fame, which honors past members of the band for their leadership while in band, and their accomplishments as adults.

The stage band concert will be presented the following week. More information will be announced in next week's issue.

Loretta Hummel To Perform At Local Gathering

Singer/songwriter/guitarist Loretta Hummel will perform during the "Working on a Building" Country and Gospel Music Gathering, slated for Saturday, June 20, from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. at Grantsville Community Park.

Admission is free, but donations are welcome. Food will be available for purchase. Proceeds benefit the Mt. Beulah Church Restoration Fund.

A pavilion with table and seating will be available at the park, but attendees are encouraged to bring their own lawn chairs to the event to be close to the music.

Hummel will perform from 2 until 3 p.m. during the gathering. Robert Broadwater will accompany her on fiddle and guitar.

The Lower New Germany Road resident has recorded and released five albums. Her latest CD is Songs of the Heart, featuring "Wall of Backbone Mountain," a song she wrote about the 90 degree turn on Rt. 135 at the foot of Bloomington Hill in Westport. She sings the song in honor of the many drivers who have lost their lives after hitting "the wall."

Hummel has performed in a variety of places, including Renfro Valley, Ky.;

the Sagebrush Round-Up, Fairmont, W. Va.; Chautauqua 2002, McHenry; and Spruce Forest Artisan Village, Grantsville.

She has also performed during the Autumn Glory Festival Heritage Craft Show, Somerset County (Pa.) Gospel Festival; and Accident Days.

Also scheduled to perform during the Country and Gospel Music Gathering are the Country Gospel Quintet, Broken Glass & Rusty Hinges, Hammers & Strings, Rough Creek Sessions, and Randy Thomas and Friends (tentative).

NICKEL AND DIMED
by Joan Holden
based on Nickel And Dimed: On (Not) Getting By in America by Barbara Ehrenreich

Can a middle-aged, middle-class woman survive, when she suddenly has to make beds all day in a hotel and live on $7 an hour? Maybe. But one $7-an-hour job won't pay the rent, she'll have to do back-to-back shifts, as a chambermaid and a waitress. Barbara Ehrenreich's best-seller about her odyssey is vivid and witty, yet always deeply sobering. Joan Holden's stage adaptation is a focused comic epic shadowed with tragedy.

Nickel and Dimed is presented by special arrangement with Dramatists Play Service, Inc. and is funded, in part, by the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council.

MSA Sign-Ups Now Under Way; Forms Available

The registration period for the Mountaintop Soccer Association's (MSA) recreational league is now under way. Registration forms, as well as a newsletter and two forms for optional soccer camp registrations, have been mailed out to last year's players. Additional forms are available at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland. They will also be available at some local schools by early next week.

The deadline for signing up for the MSA season, which begins in late August and runs through October, is June 12. The time between June and August is required by the board of directors in order to set the teams, recruit coaches and refs, print contact booklets, and order uniforms. The board encourages early sign-up. Those applications mailed after June 12 must include an extra $5 for late processing.

There are five age categories in the MSA league: Under 6, for 4- and 5-year-olds; Under 8, for 6- and 7-year-olds; Under 10, for 8- and 9-year-olds; Under 12, for 10- and 11-year-olds; and Under 15, for 12-, 13-, and 14-year-olds.

To be eligible to play, children must be at least 4 years old by Dec. 31, 2009, but no older than 14 by that date.

The MSA is hosting two different soccer camps this summer. The traditional Internationals Soccer program will be held July 27-31 at the Southern High School track. A second camp, Bethany Soccer Camp, will be held at the Loch Lynn fields Aug. 3-6. Information about both camps is included in the mailing, and is also available at the library.

The board will be seeking coaches and referees, as always, over the next few months. Parents of players are strongly encouraged to get involved and take part. Those who wish to be coaches or refs may note it on the application, and/or may call Curt Miske, board president, at 301-334-3033.

The camp scheduled for the week of June 15-19 is for boys and girls entering 5th through 12th grades. Sessions will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each day. The cost to attend is $60 per camper.

The camp slated for the week of June 22-25 is designed for boys and girls entering grades 1 through 4. It will meet from 9 a.m. to noon each day. The cost to attend is $35 per camper.

Garrett College Basketball Camps Slated June 15-25

The annual Garrett College Laker basketball camps for youth are scheduled for the weeks of June 15-19 and June 22-25, according to Dennis Gibson, camp director and head coach of the Lakers.

There were numerous teams in the league at one time, but that number has dropped to just three, according to Stan Schmidt, a spokesperson for the league. He noted that the league hopes to add at least one more team for this season, and additional ones in the future.

The league is open to players who are at least 32 years of age. Games are played on Friday evenings at Broadford Park.

To register and/or obtain more information, persons

HILLS, HILLS, AND MORE HILLS must be conquered by cyclists who try to complete a 128-mile ride in Garrett County called the Deep Creek Diabolical Double. The feat was accomplished Monday by a team of cyclists sent to the county by cycling apparel and accessory maker Rapha Continental. The event was hosted by Kyle Yost, who is one of the founders of the

Epic Ride - The Deep Creek "Diabolical Double"

by Kyle Yost
Ask any cyclist where he would go to find a truly epic ride, and what answers might you expect?

L'Alpe d'Huez, Galibier, and the classic Cols of the French Alps? Check.
The Mediterranean roads of Girona where the top pros go to train? Check.

Flanders, Roubaix, and the wet, cobbled roads of Belgium and northern France? Check.
The steep, sun-drenched high passes of the Spanish Pyrenees? Check.

The rural, mountain roads of western Maryland? Umm ... come again?

While not top on the list of cycling destinations of cyclists worldwide, Garrett County offers to cyclists some of the finest roads, scenic beauty, and hilliest terrain that can be found anywhere. The Deep Creek Diabolical Double Metric Century, at 128 miles and 15,000 feet of climbing, is a truly epic ride that seeks out the toughest climbs, the most remote rural roads, and the most scenic views in the area. And the result is a ride that is as beautiful and as difficult a single day ride as can be found in the world.

In fact, the Deep Creek Diabolical Double was selected by Rapha Continental to be included in its 2009 tour of North America's Top 25 Epic Rides. Rapha sent a team of cyclists and a photography crew to Garrett County to ride and document the Deep Creek Diabolical Double on Monday of this week as part of its 2009 Epic Ride Tour. Interested persons can go online and read the preliminary journal entry for Rapha's experience in Garrett County at <http://rapha.cc/mchenry-md>.

Appalachia - A Cyclist's Paradise?

What makes cycling in western Maryland so unique and conducive to an epic ride on par with the classic rides around the globe? A number of factors come together in western Maryland to produce cycling there that is as enjoyable, tough, and scenic as can be found anywhere.

First, western Maryland is in the heart of the Appalachian Mountains, where the climbs are not terribly long, but they are terribly steep. This is the region of the country that Race Across America (RAAM) riders dread the most because of the extreme severity of the climbing. Few climbs last over a few miles in length or gain over 1,500 feet elevation at a time, but the roads regularly go up at pitches in excess of 15 and even 20% for long enough stretches to sap even the strongest legs. This is the same region as the Savage Man Triathlon, known for its extremely challenging bike course and 31% Westport Wall.

Second, the scenery and views are spectacular. Western Maryland and nearby West Virginia are very sparsely populated and consist of rural farmland and expansive state and national forests, which in combination with the mountainous terrain provide for remarkable views of working farms, true back-country Appalachia, and large, protected forests.

BRENDA'S BODY SHOP WINS BIG AT SHOWSTOPPER - Students of Brenda's Body Shop of Oakland competed well against their peers from multiple dance studios last weekend in Woodbridge, Va., at Showstopper, reported as the largest dance competition in the country. The Junior Sportaerobic All-Stars received a first place gold and a third place overall in the Junior Recreational Large, and the senior dance team earned three first place gold awards for its lyrical and jazz routines. The Senior Sportaerobic All-Stars earned a first place platinum award. "We were pleased with our performances," said coach Brenda Brosnihan. "It is always nice to take the girls to events where they can perform and be inspired by the talents of other dancers." The accomplishment of the weekend qualifies the local athletes to go to the Showstopper National finals in either Myrtle Beach, S.C., Anaheim, Calif., or Galveston, Texas, this summer. The senior all-stars are pictured above. In the front, from left, are Sara King, Jessica Warnick, Abbi Smith, Trisha Sherrard, and Paige Carr. Second row, same order: Kellie Shotwell, Kaitlyn Swift, Brittany Harvey, Shanna Brenneman, Samantha Taylor, and Jennifer Feaster. Third row: Erin Beller, Corinne Weaver, Maddy Whittemore, Grace Herpel, and Whitney Walker. Pictured below are the junior all-stars. From left are Michaela Vitez, Brooke Miller, Mackenzie Smith, Shannon Miller, Autumn Friend, Avonlea Bowman, Marley Merrick, Kyra Newlin, Madison Cooper, and Jian Travis.

And, best of all for cyclists, the secondary roads of Garrett County are immaculately maintained and receive almost no traffic. Roads that in nearby West Virginia and Pennsylvania are dirt or gravel roads are beautiful, pothole-free pavement in Garrett County. It is cycling heaven - provided you have adequate gears and don't mind climbing!

The History of the Deep Creek "Diabolical Double"

Like the Savage Man Triathlon, the Diabolical Double starts and finishes at Deep Creek Lake in Swanton, but the Diabolical Double route has been designed to highlight roads and climbs not included in the triathlon.

The ride twice crosses the Eastern Continental Divide, and regularly tack-

Real Estate Facts by...

THE FASTEST ROAD TO YES

Whether up or down, fast or slow, there are "tricks" you can use to make a home sell in any type of market. Following these actions should help produce results, particularly in down or slow conditions.

First, make your home a "best buy" by having your real estate professional perform a thorough analysis of listings and recent sales in your neighborhood. Position your home right in the middle of an attractive price range (buyers look in broad ranges, so be sure you are noticed).

Before your final pricing decision, determine the level of pressure you're under to sell within a given time frame. Must sell in six weeks? Then adjust your price about ten percent lower than the comparables.

Generating interest but no offers yet? Continue reducing your price until you've reached your deadline, or get creative with seller financing. If you can accept monthly payments, you'll increase the pool of prospective buyers.

Most importantly, have your real estate agent show you a written marketing plan showing how your home will be presented to the largest number of prospective buyers possible.

Finally, when that first offer comes, do everything possible to accept it. Holding out for a better offer may backfire, so be prepared to say, "Yes!"

If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

les ridgelines and mountain passes from seemingly each and every direction. The entire ride fluctuates between 900 and 3,000 feet in elevation, with countless mile-long climbs that gain 500-700 feet to simply plunge down the other side to then climb back up the next one. At 128 miles and 15,000 feet of climbing, it is a lot of climbing by any measure, but more importantly it is steep, quad-busting climbing. The entire route can be viewed online at <http://www.bikely.com/maps/bike-path/Diabolical-Double>.

To date, the Diabolical Double has been attempted twice and completed just once. For the last seven years a group of triathlon training partners from Washington, D.C., have converged at Deep Creek Lake for a mid-summer week of training, culminating in a 110-mile "Deep Creek Epic Ride."

It was on these early rides that the inspiration and vision for the SavageMan Triathlon were formed. In 2008, however, the challenge of the Deep Creek Epic Ride was stepped up a notch with a redesigned route that sought out additional tough climbs and a sojourn into West Virginia, and the 128-mile ride was dubbed the Deep Creek Diabolical Double Metric Century. In cycling parlance, a double metric is a 200-kilometer, or 125-mile, ride.

Two attempts at the Diabolical Double were made in 2008. The first took place over Memorial Day weekend with a small group of ambitious cyclists underestimating the task ahead. At the mile-62 rest stop a critical decision needed to be made - continue on for another 66 miles of the relentless climbing onslaught, or admit defeat and head home via a more direct route.

There was a memorable quote from a strong cyclist and very tough Marine, who concluded, "No matter how strong a rider is, completing 128 miles of this borders on the outer edges of feasibility," which sealed their fate, and the cyclists making the first-ever attempt at the Diabolical Double headed straight home humbled.

Having been beaten once there was now real incentive to conquer the Diabolical Double. The second attempt occurred later that summer with a group of strong triathletes culminating their preparation for an ironman triathlon, with training in the Garrett County hills. Then, 128 miles, 15K feet of steep climbing, and over 9 hours later, this group of 11 became the first - and currently only - to ever complete the Diabolical Double. It was unanimous that the Diabolical Double was the most incredible, most beautiful, and most challenging ride any had ever attempted.

A team of experienced cyclists from Rapha Continental with support crew and photographer descended on Garrett County Monday to experience the Deep Creek Diabolical Double themselves and experience firsthand the beauty and severity of Garrett County's terrain.

About the author: Kyle Yost is an avid cyclist and triathlete, and is the founder and course designer of both the SavageMan Triathlon and the Deep Creek Diabolical Double. He has traveled the globe with his bike, having ridden the entire 2007 Tour de France route on the same rigorous schedule as the professionals (despite suffering a broken collarbone just three days before the first stage). He has also ridden the 170-mile Tour of Flanders and its wet, steep cobbled climbs, he has trained extensively in the cycling paradises of Girona and Majorca, Spain, and he has ridden his bike across Africa from Cairo to Nairobi in the inaugural Tour d'Afrique.

Editor's note: This article was written just prior to Monday's Diabolical Double ride, which was successfully completed by all seven riders.

RUTH ENLOW LIBRARY RECEIVES BOOKSHELF AWARD - The Ruth Enlow Library has been awarded a collection of classic books for young readers titled "We the People Bookshelf," which is a program of the National Endowment (NEH) of the Humanities "We the People" Initiative, conducted in cooperation with the American Library Association Public Programs Office. Each year, NEH identifies a theme important to the nation's heritage and selects books that embody that theme to build the We the People Bookshelf. This year's theme is "Picturing America." The Bookshelf consists of 17 classic hardcover books, with an additional three of these in Spanish translation and two "Books for Readers of All Ages." The collection of books is located at the Oakland library and can be requested from any of the branches. It includes such titles as: Harvesting Hope: The Story of Cesar Chavez by Kathleen Krull, The Captain's Dog: My Journey with the Lewis and Clark Tribe by Roland Smith, The Life and Death of Crazy Horse by Russell Freedman, Travels with Charley in Search of America by John Steinbeck, and 1776: The Illustrated Edition by David McCullough. "The Ruth Enlow Library is pleased to be among 4,000 public and school libraries receiving the We the People Bookshelf award for this year," said an REL spokesperson. "This grant program aims to encourage and strengthen the teaching, study, and understanding of American history and culture through libraries, schools, colleges, universities, and cultural institutions." Pictured is Krista McKenzie, REL children's specialist, with the Bookshelf collection.

As the country expanded in the 19th century, so did the need for fences and for the logging operations which would supply them. Original logging roads may have followed old hunting and trapping routes, and are now targets for trail development in Garrett County.

In the 1800s, the Youghiogheny River Valley near Friendsville was dense with timber. Since the rapids and falls prevented timber operations from floating their bounty, two logging companies, A. Knabb and Kendall Lumber, built railroads along the river. Both companies built saw mills in Kendall, and a small town of loggers and sawyers grew there, about two miles upriver from Friendsville. Kendall Trail, which follows the old rail bed used by A. Knabb and Kendall Lumber, is the site of the planned 2009 Garrett Trails Open, a run/walk that will begin in Friendsville and end at Kendall.

Kendall became a ghost town after 1912 and finally disappeared when the forests in the Yough Valley were depleted sometime after World War II. The new Kendall Trail is once again surrounded by trees, as well as fragile plant life that is protected by the Department of Natural Resources.

Many of the trees in Garrett County's forests are less than 100 years old, planted between 1930 and 1950 in reforestation efforts led by the Forest Service and Civilian Conservation Corps. According to its web site, the Forest Service was formed in 1906 to protect Maryland's timber resources from fire by cutting access roads.

By 1950, many public forest roads were closed to protect replanted forests and the companion plants that grow there. At the same time, land owners were given seeds and seedlings to aid in the effort to manage forest resources.

Garrett Trails plans to re-open some of the forest trails, rail beds, and mining roads to hikers and hunters, birders and bikers, to once again offer the community and visitors access to Garrett County's natural treasures. From paths to traces, and from roads to highways, trails built in this country are the byways that connect people to the land, to their heritage, and to each other.

To get involved, see the Garrett Trails web site at www.GarrettTrails.org, or contact Paige Teegarden of Think Outside and Garrett Trails coordinator at GarrettTrails@gmail.com.

NHS STUDENTS SERVE NURSING HOME COMMUNITY – Students from the Northern Student Service Alliance class spent an afternoon recently at the Goodwill Nursing Home, Grantsville. The youth helped with spring cleanup of the yard, which included picking up sticks and preparing the flower beds. They also played balloon volleyball with the residents. Accompanying the students on the trip were teacher Barbara Law and assistant Jodi McClintock. Pictured, left to right, in the front are Cara Bauernmaster, Heather Montanye, Bobby Willis, Brian Sebold, and Kaitlyn Frazee. In the back are Rachel Birkby, Tabby Robinson, Becca Engle, Chelsie Kling, and Jennifer Schmidt.

One Injured In Boating Mishap; Operator Cited

The Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) responded to Deep Creek Lake for a report of a boating accident involving a water skier last Friday at approximately 7 p.m.

The investigation revealed that a vessel was operated by Barry Bruce Griffith of Donora, Pa. Griffith towed a skier near a floating dock, and the skier struck a piling that anchored the dock. The skier was transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital for treatment of non-life-threatening injuries.

Griffith was cited for towing a skier within 100 feet of a fixed object and failure to have registration available for inspection.

The NRP reminds all citizens and visitors that attention to boating safety saves lives, and is of paramount importance when enjoying Maryland's waterways.

While it is recommended that everyone on board wear a personal flotation device while a vessel is under way, a child under 7 years of age must wear a life jacket while under way in a vessel that is less than 21 feet in length. In addition, children under 4 years of age and/or less than 50 pounds must have a life jacket equipped with a grab strap, inflatable headrest and crotch strap.

The NRP also recommends filing a float plan with a friend or relative. The plan should include the vessel's destination, how long it will remain at the destination, and what time it's expected to return. This information will assist rescue units if the vessel does not return. The Maryland Natural Resources Police emergency number is 800-628-9944.

Northern GOP Women To Meet

The Northern Garrett Republican Women will hold their monthly meeting next Tuesday, May 25, at the Hilltop Restaurant near Grantsville, beginning at 7 p.m.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Steve Fratz, director of the Garrett County Board of Elections. The fruit basket will be donated by Ruth Beitzel, Sandy Giotfelty, and Ruth Umbel.

Members are reminded that the club is collecting aluminum cans for recycling and beverage can tabs for the Ronald McDonald House Project.

Grants Available To Develop Tree Planting Projects

The Maryland Urban and Community Forest Committee (MUCFC), in partnership with the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, is accepting grant requests from schools, parks, cities and towns, homeowner associations, and other groups planning environmental tree planting and care projects for the fall. Funding up to $1,500 will be awarded for projects conducted on public property.

"This is a tremendous program for local municipalities and grass roots organizations," said Governor Martin O'Malley. "As we continue to work toward our goal of 1 million new trees planted in Maryland by 2011, I encourage communities to seize this opportunity to do their part in increasing our tree cover and contribute to a future for our natural resources that is smart, green and growing."

Applications must be signed by a local forestry board member and received prior to the June 15 and September 15 grant period deadlines. Interested applicants may download the grant application directly at www.dnr.maryland.gov/forests/programs/urban/grantapp.pdf. For more information, persons are encouraged to contact their local forester at www.dnr.maryland.gov/forests/art/county_map.asp or Wanda MacLachlan at 410-531-5973 or wtm@umd.edu.

In partnership with the Forest Service, the MUCFC and the 24 forestry boards strive to promote appreciation and concern for forests and trees, according to an agency spokesperson. Board members support the concept of wise conservation, management, and use of trees and forests in Maryland. The boards, one in each of Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City, together function as the State Association of Forest Conservancy District Boards.

"Forestry boards provide leadership for improvement of the environment in urban, suburban, and rural areas, and educate people about the variety of benefits trees and forests provide," said the spokesperson.

"When we involve citizens in the planting and caring for trees, we instill in them a sense of responsibility and stewardship for Maryland's natural resources," said Steven W. Koehn, state forester and DNR Forest Service director.

Through the Marylanders Plant Trees program, the state is partnering with businesses, communities, and citizens to help fund and plant new tree cover. Private citizens are being asked to plant 50,000 new trees by the year 2010. To encourage citizen participation, the state is offering $25 discount coupons for the purchase of native trees costing $50 or more.

Whether taking advantage of the coupon program or not, citizens who plant new trees are asked to use the state's new web site, www.trees.maryland.gov, to obtain planting advice and to register the trees they plant.

ATV SAFETY TRAINING GIVEN – The Kitzmiller Empowerment Group recently sponsored an ATV Safety Training, where officers from Maryland Natural Resources Police talked to the group about the importance of safety while riding ATVs. Two ATV helmets were given away as door prizes. Pictured left to right are Sarah Lambka, Tierra Friend, Olivia Berg, Austin Berg, and Lindsey Brady. Presenters from Natural Resources Police are Cpl. Bob Mayle (back) and Ofc. Chris Miller. Activities of community planning groups are supported in part by funds from the Garrett County Health Department to promote healthy living and prevent risky behaviors.

Theft Charge Leads To 6-Mo. Jail Term For West Va. Man

In recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, the following cases were heard with judges Edward A. Malloy Jr. and Leonard J. Eiswert presiding.

Dustin Scott Claywell, 23, Elk Garden, W. Va., was found guilty by Judge Malloy for a theft valued at less than $500 charge, and was sentenced to 6 months, with 5 months, 25 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and fines were suspended.

In December 2008, Garrett County sheriff's officers were instructed to follow up on a theft case that was reported by the owner of Westmar builders. It had been reported that one spool of wire had been stolen from a new home construction jobsite in McHenry.

After an investigation, it was found that Claywell, as well as two other employees of a drywall company, were commissioned to work at the jobsite where the wire had been stolen.

Further investigation revealed the wire to have been stolen by the three suspects, and later located in the vehicle being driven by the employees.

Claywell was not prosecuted on a charge of conspired-theft valued at less than $500.

In another district court hearing, Seth Edwin Feather, 22, Aurora, W. Va., was found guilty by Judge Malloy for a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) inhaling a harmful substance charge, and was sentenced to 90 days. He was also found guilty for a charge of driving a vehicle without the required license and authorization, and was sentenced to 30 days, to be served concurrently with the CDS charge, and all fines were suspended.

Feather was charged in March when GCSO responded to a church parking lot for a suspicious vehicle. Upon arrival, officers observed two people passed out in the car. Feather was in the driver's seat and a minor in the passenger seat.

Feather had a can of Clean Safe Dust remover lying on his chest with the nozzle facing his mouth.

Officers were able to wake the two after several attempts and after questioning, it was revealed that Feather had been drinking and had pulled over into the parking lot to sleep. He could not recall events of the night prior but admitted to drinking and inhaling the dust remover. After putting his information through the dispatcher, it was found that his license and privilege was currently revoked in the state of W. Va. He was arrested and a search incident to arrest was made.

Officers found a baggie containing four blue pills in his jacket pocket, later identified as Alprazolam, a schedule IV CDS. He was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center for processing. He was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession not marijuana and driving on a revoked license and privilege.

In an unrelated case, Robert Charles Wingrove, 18, McHenry, was found guilty by Judge Eiswert for a CDS possession not marijuana charge, and was sentenced to 90 days with all being suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $307.50 in fines.

LOCAL GOP ATTEND CONVENTION - Members of the Garrett County Republican Central Committee recently attended the Maryland Republican Party spring convention at the Clarion Hotel in Hagerstown. Garrett County had a seven-of-seven voter strength present at the event. Guest speakers included Rep. Roscoe Bartlett and Joyce Lyons-Terhes and Louis Pope, Republican National Committee members. A new third vice chair was also elected at the event. Standing, left to right, are Ed Clemons Jr. and Sheila O'Neill, GC committee members; Lyons-Terhes; Pope; and Bea Crocco, Ruth Umbel, Brandon Butler, and Arzella Parsons, GC committee members. The local committee will hold its annual Lincoln Day Dinner on Friday, May 29, at Will O' the Wisp at 6 p.m., with state Senate Minority Leader Alex Kittleman as the speaker. Tickets are available now from committee members.

In January, GCSO and members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force responded to Northern High School for a CDS complaint.

Officers made contact with the assistant principal, Paul Edwards, who advised that two students were caught on surveillance video crushing pills and snorting them in the electronics room.

Wingrove was identified as one of the students and was brought to the electronics office where Edwards conducted a search of him. Located in his coat was a homemade smoking pipe containing burnt marijuana. He was placed under arrest and a search incident to arrest revealed three MS Contin pills, schedule II CDS; four Seroquel 100 pills, a prescription only medication; one Vicodin, schedule III CDS; one Loratab, schedule III CDS, and one Percocet, schedule III CDS.

Wingrove did not have a prescription for any of the pills, and was transported to the GC jail. He was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession of marijuana, CDS possession of paraphernalia, and three other charges of CDS possession not marijuana.

Gary Joseph Sweda, 53, Oakland, was given a guilty verdict by Judge Malloy for a CDS possession of marijuana charge, and was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $100 in fines.

GCSO and GCNTF responded to district court in reference to suspicious activity. Bailiffs had observed Sweda enter the courthouse, where he was directed to empty his pockets at the security checkpoint. It was reported that he partially removed a pill bottle and then quickly returned it to his pocket. He then left the building, went to his car, and then returned.

Bailiffs alerted officers of Sweda's suspicious activity, and requested an exterior scan of his vehicle be performed. The scan was positive for the presence of drugs. Sweda was advised of the scan and a search of his vehicle was done. A baggie containing marijuana was found.

Sweda then advised that he smoked marijuana at his house using a pipe and that he had grown a plant at his house. A search and seizure warrant of his residence was put into place. A search revealed a 3-gallon bag containing marijuana, a paper plate with loose marijuana and marijuana seeds, a marijuana bud inside a cardboard box, a marijuana

by Dr. Thomas Sheahan

Q: Do compasses really point north? I've heard the "magnetic north pole" is somewhere else.

This is one of those instances where the phrase "for all practical purposes" matters. If you're out hiking in the lower 48 states, your compass points north with an accuracy sufficient to keep you going in the right direction. You'd have to be up in Alaska before the difference becomes important.

There is a difference between the true north pole and the magnetic north pole. The earth rotates on its axis, and that axis connects the true north and south poles. However, the magnetic north pole (and the magnetic south pole as well) are at slightly different locations, which in turn means that the magnetic field of the Earth is tipped slightly compared to the Earth's axis.

The magnetic north pole is several hundred miles away from the true north pole. It doesn't really have a fixed location, but wobbles around in a circle about 50 miles across almost daily, so when the coordinates are stated, they're given for an average position. Furthermore, even the average position keeps on moving, about 25 miles per year. The shifting magnetic axis is caused by the interaction between the outer core and the inner core of the Earth (molten iron) as it spins around, generating a magnetic field.

For what it's worth, the 2008 measurement gave coordinates N 82.7° and W 114.4°. That point is among the small islands off the north coast of Canada. W 114.4° aligns almost exactly with the Utah-Nevada border. Next year the magnetic north pole is expected to be move slightly farther west, and a little more north as well.

You might say "so what?" — except if you were a participant in the race to reach the magnetic north pole, which is just now completing. The race started a few weeks ago from Resolute Bay on the north coast of Canada. On foot (cross-country skis, etc.), the racers have to cover about 350 miles over ice — the frozen surface of the Arctic Ocean — to reach the Noice Peninsula on Ellef Ringnes Island. Last Saturday night and Sunday the contestants arrived at checkpoint #3, near Christian Island, a mere 53 miles from the finish. Like the Tour de France, the race is run in legs, to keep the group together. The final leg may be completed by the time you read this.

Don't look for this on the evening sports news; TV camera crews won't be waiting at the end. But maybe someday an IMAX movie will chronicle the event. (The participants will presumably be airlifted out from some nearby point, going back on foot would be no fun.)

This race is held annually in April. That's when there is enough daylight to see well, and the ice hasn't started to break up yet for the summer. Temperatures are still well below 32 F.

On land, an ordinary compass will guide you to where you're going, if you have a reasonable map. But on the high seas, "almost north" isn't good enough. Nobody had satellite-based global positioning system (GPS) devices in the bad old days. It was known by 1600 that the Earth's magnetic poles are displaced from the true north and south poles, and corrections were calculated and provided to seafarers. Before long, they realized that the magnetic poles were drifting, and so frequent updates were needed. Explorers searching for the "Northwest Passage" were particularly troubled by the movement, because they were so close to the magnetic north pole.

The magnetic north pole was first located in 1831, at which time it was about 1,100 km (700 miles) south-southeast of its present location. If its present speed (25 miles/year) and direction continue unchanged, it'll move all the way to Siberia in this century. But anything can happen, since none of the theories that account for the motion are very good. It could turn around and start moving south again, as it (probably) did in the 1700s.

One interesting thing about the Earth's magnetism is that sometimes the field completely reverses itself, changing magnetic north to south and vice versa. The most recent such reversal of the magnetic polarity was 750,000 years ago, and it takes several thousand years to flip. If that happens again anytime soon, it will greatly affect the weather — for several thousand years, of course.

Barks'n Bites Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren

The Forest Conservancy District Board held its regular monthly meeting May 11 at the DNR Mt. Nebo Work Center. We discussed and acted on the following:

Maryland Big Tree Program

There have been several county big trees located but not measured for inclusion in a statewide publication. The board is looking for a volunteer to measure our big trees. Measurements include total height and trunk circumference. Anyone interested in volunteering is asked to contact the county forester, Ernie Metz, at 301-334-3296.

No Net Loss of Forest Land

This is a concern of the board for the county in particular and the state in general. A letter stating such concerns is being prepared for submission to the county commissioners.

School Seedling Project

Eleven elementary schools and three home-school programs participated, and 1,500 seedlings were distributed for Arbor Day.

Natural Resources Careers Conference

Board member Joe Winters reported that there were possibly three students interested in attending from Garrett County. Usually two scholarships are available for the weeklong conference held at Hickory Environmental Education Center the week of July 20-25. If more students are interested the board will provide additional scholarships.

County Envirothon

Chuck Hoffeditz volunteered to assist with the program held May 14 at the Western Maryland 4-H Camp. Three teams from the county were entered in the competition.

Sustainable Forestry Act of 2009

This act was passed by the General Assembly with the main theme "Trees Are The Answer." Since it is of a complex nature, the members decided to invite a member of the Forest Service to attend one of the board meetings to inform the members of the details and ramifications for district boards.

Green Globe Bill

This bill was to include construction lumber from the state's public and private forest lands under the LEEDs Act. This modification would have recognized wood from land managed under the Tree Farm program as qualified to be used in "green construction." The bill did not pass, but it is being negotiated in committee. Presently none of the state's forestland has been certified to qualify for such construction, thus there is a need to change the situation.

Meetings Open

Citizens are reminded that the board meetings are open to the public. The board meets the second Monday of each month at 9 a.m., usually at the Mt. Nebo DNR Work Center.

Forestry Board Announces Forestry Summit

The Hughes Center for the Agro-Ecology, University of Maryland, is sponsoring a "listening session" at Frostburg State University on June 17 from 6 to 8:30 p.m. at the FSU Compton Science Center, Room 226. The theme of the session will be "The Future of Maryland Forestry in a Changing World."

The key forestry issues to be discussed by the attendees are: retention and management of privately owned forests; economic viability of Maryland's forest products industry; retention and management of publicly owned forests; retention of diversity of woodlands; and expansion of value added and alternative enterprise opportunities.

The input from these listening sessions will then be synthesized and presented at the Maryland Forest Summit when a statewide program will be developed to address these forestry issues.

Co-sponsors for the session are the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service; the Biophilia Foundation; the Nature Conservancy; Maryland Forest Industries; Maryland Forest Association; Chesapeake Bay Foundation; DNR, Forest Service; the Conservation Fund; and the Pinchot Forestry Institute.

For more information on the local "listening sessions," persons may contact Ernie Metz, county forester, at 301-334-3296. For more information on the statewide effort, persons may contact Nancy Nunn at 410-827-8056, ext. 128, or via e-mail at nnunn@umd.edu, or by going to the web site at www.agroec.umd.edu.

Friends Of DCL Receives Grant From State Trust

The Friends of Deep Creek Lake, a new non-profit organization, recently received a Stewardship Grant from the Chesapeake Bay Trust to conduct a watershed assessment of Deep Creek Lake. Assisting in the project will be the Center for Watershed Protection (CWP), a national organization based in Ellicott City.

A meeting was held last week at the CWP headquarters to launch the effort and discuss the coordination of other ongoing projects. In attendance were CWP staff, members of Friends of Deep Creek Lake board, Matt Rowe from Maryland Department of the Environment, and several DNR staff, including lake manager Carolyn Mathews and Cheryl DeBerry of the Garrett County Office of Economic Development.

The CWP will start field work on May 27 and 28, with stream assessment, synoptic surveys, and an upland analysis of select tributaries in the lake watershed. The work already done by the Friends of Deep Creek Lake volunteers through the Stream Wader Program earlier this spring will provide information to complement this work.

The goal of the effort is to produce a report on specific actions which can be taken to encourage stewardship, conserve and protect lake tributaries, and recommend restoration actions. The report will be ready for release early fall, according to a spokesperson for the local organization.

Volunteers are being sought to work with the CWP staff on the noted dates. To volunteer, persons may send an e-mail to contact@friendsofdcl.org or call Barbara Beelar at 301-873-1519.

Theft Charge Leads

Officers concluded that with the amount of marijuana and equipment found that Sweda had the intent to manufacture and distribute marijuana. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

Christopher Blake Paugh, 19, Friendsville, was found guilty by Judge Eiswert for a CDS possession of marijuana charge, and was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, two years of supervised probation, and $50 in fines.

MSP responded to a Friendsville residence in May 2008 for a report of a drug overdose. Upon arrival, the grandmother of Paugh stated that her grandson had just been transported to Garrett Memorial Hospital. She advised officers that after he returned home from being outside, he went upstairs to his room to lay down. A while later, he began vomiting and dry heaving.

Officers observed items scattered on the floor of the dining room and were told they were Paugh's. The items were identified as a pocket knife, a USA Gold cigarette box, a lighter, and a smoking device. A baggie of suspected marijuana was rolled up inside of the cigarette box.

The grandmother also stated that Paugh had taken a Fentanyl Transdermal System patch and ate it, which had made him sick. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

William Edwin Janoske, 24, Swanton, was found guilty by Eiswert for a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge and was handed $157.50 in fines and no other sentencing.

Janoske's charges stem from January after GCSO and GCNTF went to a Deer Park residence to serve a court subpoena. Upon contact officers detected a strong odor of burnt marijuana coming from the apartment. Janoske handed over a smoking pipe to the officers.

A search and seizure warrant was authorized and a search of the residence revealed a bag of marijuana and three hypodermic needles and syringes.

Janoske was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of marijuana charge, CDS possession not marijuana, and another CDS possession of paraphernalia charges.

Brian Keith Craver, 42, Oakland, was handed a guilty verdict by Malloy for CDS possession of paraphernalia, and handed $200 in fines, with no other sentencing given.

In December 2008, GCNTF executed a search and seizure warrant of Craver's residence. A search of the residence revealed two bags of marijuana, two Lorazepam pills, a pill bottle containing marijuana residue, one unknown pill, and a smoking pipe. Craver was placed under arrest. He was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession marijuana and CDS possession not marijuana.

Barclay H Dixon, 42, Albright, W.Va., was found not guilty for charges of reckless endangerment and assault in the second degree. He was charged in July 2008 after a domestic dispute.

Clovie Harold McCoy Jr., 27, Worthington, W.Va., was not prosecuted for his April 2008 charges of first degree burglary, theft valued at $500-plus, conspired first degree burglary, and conspired theft valued at $500-plus.

Jimmy Marvin Teets Jr., 26, Oakland, was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession not marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia, stemming from a February traffic stop by GCSO and GCNTF.

Jesse Donald Carpenter, 25, Upper Marlboro, was not prosecuted on two charges of theft valued at less than $500, stemming from an October 2008 traffic stop by MSP.

Daniel Stuart Rhodes, 49, Swanton, was not prosecuted for a second degree assault charge. His charge stemmed from a domestic dispute in January.

Come One, Come All

The circus is in town! Excitement awaits under the big top. Animals, acrobats, jugglers, clowns ... it's show time! In the center ring the juggler has many balls in the air. His moves appear so effortless, but require hours of preparation of mind, body and spirit. Some people appear to glide easily through life, juggling many activities with ease. With practice, you can join them. Prepare for each day with prayer and the knowledge of God's will for your life. Be further strengthened each week with worship and fellowship in God's house. Come one, come all!

How to Be a Lady

The American Heritage Dictionary defines a lady as "a well-mannered and considerate woman with high standards of proper behavior," the exact female correlate of the gentleman. Thus the American Heritage Dictionary provides the following usage note: "Lady, a social term, is properly used as a parallel to gentleman to emphasize the norms expected in civil society or in situations requiring civility. But, because the terms "lady" and "gentleman" often have connotations of refinement and perhaps being overly concerned with protocol or etiquette, we may easily lose sight of the true essence of these terms, which is a genuine consideration for the feelings of others. A lady is someone who is well-mannered and considerate because she truly cares about the feelings of others and their well-being. And, is this not the same as Christian love? Thus, the true Christian woman is always a lady, because these are really one and the same. So, a woman who is a good Christian by being well-mannered, considerate, and having high moral standards, is well on her way to being a lady.

Do not let your adornment be merely outward, arranging the hair, wearing the gold, or putting on fine apparel, rather let it be the hidden person of the heart, with the incorruptible beauty of a gentle and quiet spirit, which is very precious in the sight of God.

Vitamin A Deficiency is Rare
Vitamin A includes a group of several fat-soluble vitamins. Retinol is the most usable form in this group. When ingested, retinol is converted to other active forms of vitamin A in the body. It can be found in animal foods, such as whole milk, eggs, and liver. It may also be found in fortified foods such as breakfast cereals. Other forms of vitamin A include retinal, retinoic acid, and provitamin A carotenoids. Provitamin A carotenoids are dark pigments that are found in many plant foods such as spinach and in vegetables like carrots and sweet potatoes. About 80% of the vitamin A consumed by adults in the U.S. is provided by these provitamin A carotenoids.
Vitamin A serves many functions in the human body. It is important for bone growth, vision, skin integrity, and immune system function. While Vitamin A deficiency is rare in this country, it may occur in the presence of chronic diarrhea and malnutrition. Deficiency of this vitamin can lessen a person's ability to fight infections. The recommended daily intake for vitamin A for adult women and men is 700 micrograms and 900 micrograms, respectively.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

- It was 20th-century architect and businessman Charles Luckman — known as "the Boy Wonder of American Business" — who made the following sage observation: "The trouble with America is that there are far too many wide-open spaces surrounded by teeth."
- The Balkan country of Serbia has seen an odd trend in funerals lately: air-conditioned coffins. Even though the coffins cost approximately $6,600, a casket company that offers the chillers is having a hard time keeping them in stock.
- Experts claim that if you make a line of flour on the floor — or the counter, or table, or wherever you're having trouble with the pests — ants won't cross it.
- Back in the day, if you wanted to be a Pony Express rider, you couldn't weigh more than 120 pounds.
- Those who study such things — and, to be honest, I'm not entirely sure who those people would be — say that in the United States, people who live on the East Coast wash their clothes the least often, while those in the South wash them the most (a fact for which I, who live in the sweaty South, am eternally grateful).
- The town of Key Largo, Fla., did not exist before the 1948 film of that name starring Humphrey Bogart made it famous.
- Harry Benson, a photographer who covered the Beatles in the early days of their success, says that the Fab Four celebrated their first No. 1 U.S. hit, "I Want to Hold Your Hand," by having a pillow fight in their hotel room.
- An interesting note for all the tow-heads out there: In ancient Rome, prostitutes were required to dye their hair blonde, if it wasn't already that shade.

Why Don't People Like My Dog?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: My dog "Kip" is really friendly and wouldn't harm a fly. When I take him out for walks he likes to go right up to people and sometimes jumps up on them for a friendly pat. But last week, this woman yelled at me, telling me to watch out or she would call animal control! What was her problem? — Keri in Worcester, Mass.

DEAR KERI: Honestly, the problem wasn't hers — it's yours. I'm sure Kip is a wonderful dog and just as friendly as you say. The trouble is, people on the street don't know that. They just see a dog running up and jumping on them, and they're not sure of Kip's intent.

A great many people are terrified of dogs, Keri. It's not a laughing matter, either — most of those who are fearful of dogs had some traumatic event in their past. But even if they don't fear them, just the sight of a strange dog charging at them can incite a fearful reaction.

It's also an invasion of people's privacy — their personal space — and just bad etiquette all around to allow your dog to jump on them.

As Kip's owner, it's your responsibility to control his behavior. The older he gets and the more he's allowed to run up and jump on people, the harder it is to train him out of it. And you need to train him out of this behavior, pronto.

I recommend that you sign up for behavior training classes as soon as possible. Attend these sessions with Kip, listen closely to the instructor and follow his or her advice.

Remember that pets are a part of our community, and like every other member of a community they must follow some rules in order for everyone to get along. It's up to you to show Kip how to behave on his daily walks.

Q. I have an original cartoon strip of "Moon Mullins" signed and sent to me by Ferd Johnson more than 50 years ago. I would like to find out its value. — Murray, Brooklyn, N.Y.

"Kayaks, Tunes, Brews" To Be Held Saturday

"Kayaks, Tunes, and Brews" (KTB), a fundraising event by HART for Animals Inc., will take place this Saturday, May 23, from noon to 6 p.m. at the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI), McHenry.

"KTB is extra special this year," stated Mercedes Pellet, co-chair for the event. "With the help of our event sponsors – Wisp Resort, Ralley Mountain Lake Vacations, Bello's Portraits, and Adventure Sports Center International – adults, young adults, and children, and even our canine guests, will have lots to do."

Admission is $20 for adults; children accompanied by an adult are admitted free. The price of admission includes a mug, 10 tickets that can be used for food, games, or beer tasting, and an over-21 years of age wristband. Additional KTB activities/refreshment tickets can be purchased throughout the day.

This year, KTB will feature a wide selection of beers to taste from 18 regional, national, and international brewers.

"Admission requires identification if you wish to receive an over-21 wristband to participate in the beer tasting," Pellet said. "To complement the beer, there will be pretzels, pizza, hamburgers, hot dogs, nachos, and chips available throughout the afternoon."

"ASCI's whitewater course will be in full operation, with kayaks and rafts available for those wishing to book a trip and enjoy an exhilarating ride, as well as a fun afternoon," Pellet said.

The Children's Area will have its own activities, including a Moon Bounce, an inflatable slide, face painting, airbrush tattoos by artist Wayne Dillsworth, a petting zoo, and Daffydil the Clown.

A $5 child admission to the Children's Area includes a bag with a tasting cup for Old Dominion rootbeer and five tickets to be used for food and activities. Activities include Wisp's Mountain Coaster, flat-water kayaking, scenic chair lift ride, and more.

Tom Hertz, organizer of the Dog Area, encourages people to participate in the Fun Pet Dog Show at 1 p.m. The show awards prizes in various categories, including the tallest dog, smallest dog, longest tail, best dog costume, "most looks like owner" and more. This was a very popular event last year, so Hertz recommends an early arrival.

The participating vendors will have such products as handmade dog products, airbrush tattoos, jewelry, artisan cheeses, pit beef sandwiches, ice cream, Christmas ornaments, handmade woolen products, soaps, and rugs.

Music will be provided throughout the afternoon by three live bands – Boathouse, Brother Short, and Lake Effect.

"High-energy Boathouse is a Deep Creek Lake band that has entertained the lake JEWELRY, HAND LOOMED RUGS, AND MORE will be offered by vendors at the "Kayaks, Tunes, and Brews" event. The fundraiser takes place this Saturday, May 23, from noon until 6 p.m. at the Adventure Sports Center International, McHenry. area for 19 years and has become a popular staple at many events," Pellet said. "Brother Short is a band consisting of four brothers from southwestern Pennsylvania, with influences ranging from country to classic rock. Lake Effect (previously known as White Noise) completes the musical repertoire with its upbeat rock sound enjoyable to a wide range of musical tastes."

In concluding the description of events, Lori Epp, KTB co-chair, remarked: "Whether you come to KTB to help the homeless animals, to enjoy a great afternoon, or to kick off your summer – bring the entire family, including the pets. This is sure to become an annual event for the Deep Creek Lake area."

O'Malley Signs Bills To Attract, Keep Physicians In Maryland Communities

Addressing a growing need to attract and keep more doctors in Maryland – especially in rural regions of the state – Governor Martin O'Malley signed three bills Tuesday that increase physician income and pay off education loans for doctors practicing in regions throughout the state where shortages occur.

"This legislation puts Maryland's families first by ensuring that doctors are open for business when and where they're needed most," said O'Malley. "This is another important step in making sure every family in every corner of the state has access to affordable, quality health care."

amined were patients' access to providers, the adequacy of payers' reimbursement levels, and provider participation in payers' networks.

"These incentives make Maryland a healthier place to live and work for doctors and the families they serve," said Department of Health and Mental Hygiene Secretary John M. Colmers. "Our state's medical and nursing schools produce the best health professionals in the world, and now we'll be able to attract and keep more of them right here, where they're needed."

HB 714/SB 627 Loan Assistance Repayment and Practice Assistance for Physicians creates a loan forgiveness program for primary care and other physicians that are determined to be in short supply in a given geographical area. Physicians and medical residents who agree to practice in the shortage areas will be eligible to participate in the loan repayment program.

According to a spokesperson for the DHMH, the current Loan Assistance Repayment Program, financed through joint state/federal funds, was considered of limited benefit to Maryland communities because federal health care provider shortage area definitions are structured in a way that prevented most Maryland communities from meeting the criteria. This legislation endorses the priority of directing primary care physicians to underserved areas.

HB 255/SB 380 Health

Maintenance Organizations – Payments to Nonparticipating Providers resolves the longstanding problem of reimbursement for non-contracting providers who treat HMO enrollees, the spokesperson said. This legislation establishes a more equitable and transparent floor on payments for non-contracting providers treating HMO patients which will be pegged to the greater of 140 percent of the Medicare fee and 125 percent of the average of the in-network rate for evaluation and management services. The spokesperson said that the legislation balances interests of health care providers in obtaining reasonable reimbursement, patients in obtaining care, especially in emergency circumstances, and payers to build provider networks.

HB 585/SB 661 Health Insurance – Use of Physician Rating Systems by Carriers recognizes the importance of linking reimbursement to performance. The legislation requires the Maryland Health Care Commission to designate an entity to serve as a rating examiner. The designated rating examiner is required to establish a physician rating system that uses quality of performance and cost efficiency measurement categories. The legislation creates a transparent process for establishing the rating system, an avenue for feedback from provider and consumer alike, and a fair appeals process, according to the spokesperson.

We extend a compassionate helping hand.

National Nurses Week Observed At GC Memorial

Garrett County Memorial Hospital celebrated National Nurses Week May 6-12 with the entire nursing staff.

The nursing staff, which is the largest group of caregivers within the organization, includes registered nurses, certified registered nurse anesthetists, licensed practical nurses, certified nursing assistants, activities assistants, unit secretaries, emergency room technicians, operating room technicians, and central services technicians.

To celebrate and recognize the care that the nursing team provides to the patients 24 hours a day, seven days a week, a reception was held on May 6. The entire staff was invited to attend the reception, which included a lecture by Joann Forno, RN, operating room supervisor, titled "Just a Nurse."

Included in the week's activities were drawings for a wide variety of prizes that were donated by local businesses.

Also recognized were five individual students who collected pledges of $100 or greater. Alison Meeks collected $307 and received movie passes, along with a Relay For Life glow-in-the-dark yo-yo. Sheena Gary with $192, Brandon Collins with $126, Brianna Hedrick with $110, and Brianna Hartsell with $100 each received a yo-yo. The entire school raised a

Garrett County BOE Reminds Parents To Register Children For School

The Garrett County Board of Education reminds parents that their children who will be entering school for the first time should be registered as soon as possible.

If a child has not been registered during the recently held pre-registration program, parents may contact the principal of the planned school to arrange an appointment. Parents must take the child's birth certificate, immunization records, and proof of residency with them at the time of registration. Students cannot be enrolled without first providing this documentation.

Acceptable proof of residency documents are: deed or mortgage agreement; current property tax bill, current lease or rental agreement; current utility bill (electric, natural gas, or telephone, etc.) with the parent's name and address for the residence on the bill; or a notarized Statement of Residency Verification form (available from the school or the Pupil Services Office at the Board of Education). The schools also request the child's Social Security number for state reporting requirements.

Any child who will be 5 years of age on or before

September 1 must be enrolled in kindergarten or apply for a one-year maturity waiver. Any family who is planning to use home instruction (home schooling) instead of enrolling the student in school must submit forms at least 15 days in advance of the start of school.

Families who are planning to move during the summer should check with the local school or Pupil Services Office to see whether or not the children will be attending the same school this fall. If the new residence places the student in a new school district, it is recommended that the transfer be made during the summer rather than after school begins.

Anytime a child moves to a new school, the child must be enrolled in that school and the school must be provided with a new documentation of residency. If a child moves to a new residence within the same school district, the school still must be provided with a new documentation of residency for the new address.

Information may be obtained through the Pupil Services Office at the Board of Education building or by calling 301-334-8939 or 301-359-9209.

Grants Awarded To Address Md. Nursing Shortage

The Health Services Cost Review Commission (HSCRC) has awarded 18 institutions grants totaling $20.1 million over five years as part of the fourth round of funding in the Competitive Institutional Grants component of the Nurse Support Program II (NSP II). HSCRC has contracted with the Maryland Higher Education Commission (MHEC) to administer the Nurse Support Program II.

Among the institutions receiving grants are Frostburg State University and Allegany College of Maryland.

Funding for NSP II is being provided through a 0.1% increase to the rate structure of all hospitals since July 2005 to promote the program's goal of increasing the number of bedside nurses in Maryland hospitals by expanding the capacity of Maryland's nursing education programs.

According to a spokesperson for MHEC, the program is a unique venture that teams hospitals and colleges to create partnerships to address the critical shortage of nurses. The projected outcomes of this fourth round of institutional grants are expected to increase new RNs by 880, new BSNs by 436 graduates, and new master's graduates (who will be eligible to become faculty) by 452.

Coupled with the 19 programs funded in the first three years, NSP II is expected to produce 2,033 new registered nurses (RNs), 1,184 bachelor of science in nursing (BSN) degrees, and 1,344 new graduates eligible to become faculty.

"I am pleased to see that these grants are going to some of Maryland's best colleges and universities to address our state's nursing shortage," said Secretary of Higher Education James E. Lyons Sr. "This is a major concern for Governor O'Malley. He has stressed the importance of putting families first and making sure that more nurses and nurse faculty are being given the resources to help them serve our working families in their times of need."

The project receiving funding at Frostburg State University is titled "Building the Nursing Faculty Pipeline in Western Maryland."

Those at Allegany College which received grants are titled "Creating a Smart Learning Environment to Retain Nursing Students" and "Enhancing Nursing Retention Through Tutoring: A Rural/Urban Partnership Project," the latter of which is in partnership with Anne Arundel Community College.

Christine Brenneman Recognized For Contributions To G'ville Elementary

Christine Brenneman, Garrett County, was named a semifinalist winner during the second annual Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Awards Celebration, held on May 8 at Wilde Lake High School in Columbia. Twenty-four semifinalists, four finalists, and one winner, Wendy Panof of Queen Anne's County, were recognized during the event.

The Comcast Parent Involvement Matters Award, the nation's first statewide award program of its kind, is an annual honor for parents whose "exemplary contributions to public education have led to improvement for Maryland's public school children, teachers, schools, programs, and/or policies.

Brenneman is a Grantsville Elementary School parent.

"Christine's support reaches far and wide, and you can find her at school, every day," said a spokesperson. "As a member of the school's Moms in Touch Program, she helps provide support to staff through snacks, cards, meals, and random acts of kindness."

She added that Brenneman has also been "invaluable" to the Reading First Program by helping administer the Scholastic Reading Inventory to students, and has helped plan and prepare resources for the summer reading camp for early readers.

The Parent Involvement Matters Award is a collaboration between Comcast and the Maryland State Department of Education, and highlights the positive impact parents have on public schools in the hope of encouraging all parents to get involved in whatever way they can.

"One of the most notable programs Christine coordinates is the Parent Volunteer Program," said the spokesperson. "This dynamic group of parents meets every Wednesday to help the school any way they can. And these volunteers have done it all, from mundane tasks like copying papers, filing, typing, completing bulletin boards, and making posters, to helping students with Accelerated Reader tests, and creating packets for the kindergarten orientation to help incoming students and their parents come to school ready to succeed."

The Parent Involvement Matters Award nomination process outlines five areas of involvement, based on a nationally recognized framework for family involvement, where parents might demonstrate involvement either in one area or in multiple areas, but the parent will have made a significant, positive impact on public education for students, parents, and schools.

The five areas of involvement are communication; volunteering; learning; decision making; and community collaboration. Parents can be nominated not just by school or administrative personnel but by other parents, community supporters/representatives, or students.

The program slogan is "Choose Your Seat. Get Involved." This is so-named because there are as many ways to become involved as there are parents and guardians.

Notes From Bittering

by Joan Glatfely Sussman

At last, the eight-game losing streak that the Pirates were stuck in for too long is over: a 7-1 victory over the Cardinals.

If you enjoy feeding hummingbirds, you probably love to feed orioles. This morning, I saw a brilliant male and a slightly drabber female, or maybe the drabber one was perhaps an orchard oriole. It is hard to tell them apart. That is according to my cousin Mike Englar, and he knows a lot about birds. He came up from Westminster to do the May bird count.

SCOTT FORD/MERCURY

GIRL SCOUTS EARN BRONZE AWARD - The Girl Scouts of Troop #55005 recently completed the requirements for each girl's Bronze Award, which is the highest award a Junior Girl Scout can earn. The Scouts chose to hold a book drive, and along with it build shelves to hold the newly acquired books. The books and the shelves were then donated to the Dove Center for children in need. The book drive was held at Crellin Elementary School, and Scout Lauren Frick's grandfather, Tom Tucker, taught the girls how to sand, drill, and assemble the shelves. They primed, painted, and decorated them before filling them and delivering them to Debbie Holler at the Dove Center. "I am so proud of these girls," said Troop leader Regina Green. "They have worked so hard, learned new skills, and are going to be great leaders someday." The Troop extends thanks to everyone who supported the group in this project. In the front row are Nicole Snyder and Alexis Spiker. Back row: Ashley Green, Tiffany Gank, Sabrina Hensley, Holler, Frick, and Jaden Savage.

I always enjoy late spring and early summer because it's time for the Triple Crown races. Today was Maryland's own Preakness Stakes. My Claire for years wanted to go to Preakness, and she got her wish this year when she went with several of her friends to celebrate a friend's birthday. They took a limousine from Frederick.

For the first time, I placed a bet for one of the classic races. I actually do not go to the races very often. But I told Claire to put two dollars on the filly. Unfortunately, she was the favorite. So I only doubled my money... four dollars

PROTECTING WOODWORKERS' EARS

Home hobbyists who spend a lot of time in home workshops where power tools present a potentially permanent threat to hearing must use hearing protection. With this in mind, the disposable foam plugs that expand to block the ear canal completely after they are inserted into the ears afford excellent protection. While these ear plugs are inexpensive and disposable, some people object to the occluded effect that they cause. On the other hand, earmuffs are more comfortable, but generally do not block quite as much noise. There are also reusable molded ear plugs that are often connected by a cord or headband. While they are lightweight and inexpensive, they may only be good for protection against low-intensity noise.

We can't emphasize it enough—protect your hearing! When irreversible damage has been done, however, come see us at AUDIBEL for a comprehensive hearing evaluation by a hearing specialist. You'll be amazed at the variety of hearing instruments available today and how they can enhance your hearing, and we'll advise you which one would be of the most benefit to your individual needs. We will also be glad to show you different kinds of hearing protection devices. HINT: Workshop hearing protectors have a noise reduction rating (NRR) printed on the package.

Viral Encephalitis Treatment

Encephalitis is an inflammation of the brain. It can be caused by virus. Mosquitoes are a known transmitter of certain viruses. In the United States, mosquitoes can transmit viruses associated with eastern and western equine encephalitis, St. Louis encephalitis, La Crosse encephalitis, and West Nile encephalitis. Signs and symptoms of these conditions may be mild, including headache or irritability. However, severe cases may result in a stiff neck, seizures, or confusion. The geographic location and season of the year also may affect the level of risk. Certain herpes viruses can also lead to encephalitis, including herpes simplex virus, varicella-zoster virus, and Epstein-Barr virus.

The risk of encephalitis from mosquitoes can be reduced by wearing protective clothing while outdoors when mosquito activity is increased, as well as the use of mosquito repellent containing DEET. Acetaminophen may help alleviate headache and fever. Anti-inflammatory medications can also decrease symptoms. When the condition is caused by herpes simplex virus or varicella-zoster virus, an antiviral medication such as acyclovir or ganciclovir may be prescribed. However, antiviral medications are likely not useful for treating encephalitis caused by other types of viruses.

plus a little change. But it is an old popular debate whether a 3-year-old filly should run with the males. It always depends on the filly. This one was one of the biggest horses in the field, and she looked like a racing machine. Once she took the lead about a quarter mile from the start, she held on, and in fact added to it.

It is hard to believe that Notre Dame's graduation ceremony wasn't an unpleasant event. It is somewhat odd that the Catholic church is not playing a leadership role in the anti-abortion movement. I am at the front lines of the wider definition of Pro-Life, including issues like the death penalty, poverty... especially in the Third World, anti-war, anti-abortion, and anti-genocide. As the president of Notre Dame said when he introduced the president of the United States as the keynote speaker, and when he gave him an honorary law doctorate degree, Obama has an impressive record on these issues.

One key theme in Obama's speech was the need to seek common ground with your opponents. During the debate about the invitation from Notre Dame, someone called Obama the biggest pro-abortion president ever. That is not really true. He is not pro-abortion. He prefers to prevent unwanted pregnancy, so reducing the demand for abortion. He also wants a support system for women who carry their babies to term, and better adoption opportunities. So he said in his speech.

It's true he did reverse

LOCAL RESIDENT, COONHOUND WIN BEST OVERALL - Kyle Grimm of Oakland, son of Terry Grimm and Teresa Helbig, participated in the United Kennel Club DC Youth Championship Show in Manassas, Va., this past weekend. Kyle won the Champion Female Class and the Best Overall Show Dog with CH 'PR' Bandits Appalachian Gypsy. The black and tan coonhound is owned by Kyle and Terry. Kyle is a senior at Southern High School.

Bush's executive order to forbid any federal funding for fetal stem cell research, which may provide a cure for juvenile diabetes, so improving the quality of life for many children. Fetal stem cell research has nothing to do with abortion. I am sure there wasn't a single abortion to harvest the fetus for research. That is completely ridiculous. It is possible that some fetuses from abortion are used for research. Isn't that better than just throwing them away in the trash?

As most times, I agree with Obama once again. Although we are not pro-abortion, we are pro-choice. And we both have a broader definition of pro-life. It involves much more than just opposing abortion. We believe it means a decent life for all brotherhoods of people.

I mentioned other issues previously. Anti-poverty, anti-war, anti-childhood disease, etc., and it could include anti-killing machines in the hands of unfit persons. He said we couldn't reach an agreement about so diverse an issue as abortion, but at least we could agree that we need to look for common ground and respect someone who has a different view than oneself.

I got an adorable photograph of the new daughter of Lea and Michael Pochet and her big brother Blake smiling proudly as he posed with his little sister Julie.

Believe it or not, Aaron Stanton spotted my Claire at the Prekness! Aaron called his mother and asked her if she wanted to put some money on any horse. She put $5, like my mother did, and bet on the filly Rachel Alexandra, who did win. Of course, she was two to one, so we did not make much.

It was a sad day last Saturday. Ida Reckner held an auction, even auctioning off the big and very interesting stuffed animals made by her late husband John. Even the farm went under the hammer. Luckily, the buyer is a local guy, Randy Thomas, and he plans to keep it as a farm, and not subdivide it.

Another home and contents will be sold soon, sometime in June. Ethel Buckel decided to move full time into the home of her son Ralph Buckel Jr. in Chestertown. We certainly will miss Ethel around Bittering.

My sister Carol Bass picked up a rag rug, probably made by my grandmother Emma Glotfelty.

Andrew Hady, son of Bill and Jenny, graduated from Frostburg State University last weekend. His major was architecture.

Robby Glotfelty came home for a few days last weekend. He will come home for the summer around June 4.

His brothers Darryl and Elliot are also home. They wrapped up the year at Towson University, where their younger cousin Emma Bass will attend next fall.

Dan Warnick was named fireman of the year for 2008 at the annual Bittering Volunteer Fire Department banquet on May 1.

A couple more graduates of Northern High School will be Larry and Lacy Warnick. The class of 2009 will graduate on Sunday, June 7.

My Caitlin will depart for a month of international study to further her ambition to be an international social worker. That means that she will go to work in some of the poorest and scariest places in the world. The next few weeks will be long and worrisome for me, until she gets home on June 20.

God Bless America

Words so seldom spoken today.

How often do you here someone remembering our freedom and the lives that were lost giving freedom so generously to us?

Today is Memorial Day.

I ask you please to remember.

Don't just celebrate with a picnic and family times.

But rather stand tall and proud and salute your freedom.

Brothers and Sisters of ours were lost fighting for our freedom. The least we can do is remember. The simplest and yet grandest gift you can give back is teach your children the true meaning behind Memorial Day.

Stand tall next to them when the flag passes in a parade. Cross your hand over your heart and remember.

Year after Year I attend our town parade.

My parents have taken me as long as I can remember.

I am now a parent and I take my children.

But we attend the parade with a meaning. A purpose.

Not to see clowns and kids characters.

But rather to pay respect to the men and women who gave so much for us and asked so little in return.

Every year the Veterans pass us.

I remind my children, stand up and pay your respect.

I urge you to join me in this reminder. I urge you to help me teach our future what our past did for us. The extent they gave.

Together we can remember, salute, praise and love.

Teach your children today so the future remembers tomorrow!

To all the men and women who served to give me the freedom I have today, thank you and God Bless. You are not forgotten by my family!

Farm Service Agency Reports

COMMITTEE NOMINATION PROCESS UNDER WAY

Eric M. McCartney, executive director for USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, informs agricultural producers that they can now nominate eligible candidates in Local Administrative Area (LAA) 3 (Lyon, Reno, and Union districts) to serve on the Preston County FSA Committee. Nominations can be made through August 3, and the election will be held this fall.

"Participation from farmers is essential to the election process to ensure that the county committee represents the interests of all producers in Preston County," said McCartney. "I encourage agricultural producers throughout the county to nominate eligible candidates of their choice, including socially disadvantaged and beginning farmers, to serve on the committee."

Farmers who serve on the county committee help make decisions necessary to administer federal farm programs offered in their communities. They help ensure that FSA programs serve the needs of local producers. The committee makes decisions on important agricultural issues such as commodity price support loans and payments, conservation programs, disaster payments, and employing the county executive director.

Agricultural producers who participate or cooperate in programs administered by FSA may be nominated for candidacy for a committee. Additionally, in this year's election, nominees must live in Local Administrative Area 3. Farmers can obtain additional information and nomination forms by visiting the Preston County FSA office located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, telephoning 304-329-1923, or going online to www.fsa.usda.gov/FSA.

Individuals may nominate themselves or others as candidates. Additionally, organizations representing minorities and women may nominate candidates. To become a nominee, eligible individuals must sign nomination form FSA-669A. The form includes a statement that the nominee agrees to serve if elected.

Farmers are advised to keep these dates in mind during the 2009 county committee election process. Aug. 3 is the deadline to file nomination forms at the Preston County FSA office. Election ballots will be mailed to eligible voters no later than Nov. 6. The last day for voted ballots to be postmarked or returned to the Preston County FSA office is Dec. 7. Newly elected county committee members will take office Jan. 1, 2010.

The Soil Conservation and Domestic Allotment Act established the county committee system in 1936.

FFA AWARDS PRESENTED - The annual FFA banquet was held recently at Northern High School for members of the Northern Garrett FFA Club. Pictured above are members who received chapter greenhand degrees. The degree represents the first level of accomplishment in the FFA. Members must learn the FFA creed and motto, describe the symbols of the FFA emblem, and demonstrate knowledge of the history and operating procedures of the organization. Pictured above, front row, from left, are Jarred Dennis, Taylor Day, Toby Grove, Megan Wilhelm, and Michael Frantz. In the back row are Cody Savage, Megan Lipscomb, Kelsey Smith, Tyler Wilt, and Kayley Green. Not available for the photo were Mercedes McClintock, Andrew Mast, and Morgan Lipscomb.

SEVERAL SPECIAL AWARDS were given at the recent FFA banquet at Northern High School. The outstanding member award is given to members who have taken charge over the years, participated in as many activities as they can, and followed the FFA motto.
